STATE CHARTER DEFIES EFFORTS AT AMENDMENT

Illinois Constitution So Framed That Task of Changing It Is Difficult.

SEVERAL REFORMS NEEDED

CONVENTION MOST RAPID MEANS

WHERE 'WE WILL' THERE'S A WAY
—Chicago's New Proverb.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

WE WILL

PERHAPS now that both poles have been discovered and the Panama ditch will soon be finished, some darling and determined soul, looking for a chance to write his name large in the history of the age, may tackle the job of amending the constitution of the state of Illinois. When he has succeeded he will be in a position to sympathize with the man who scratched his way through a mountain with his finger nails.

The wise and strong men of every generation have always felt that wisdom was likely to die with them. Accordingly, when they finished writing a state constitution they locked it up in a box, nailed down the cover, and provided that whenever a sacrilegious and reckless person wished to tamper with its contents he must first pull the nails with his teeth.

THUS, to amend the constitution of the state of Illinois all that is necessary is: First, to persuade two-thirds of the members of both houses of the legislature to vote in favor of its being submitted to the voters of the state; second, to persuade a majority of all the electors voting at the next election for members of the legislature to vote for it. It is provided that only amendments to one article of the constitution may be proposed by the legislature at one time, and that amendments to the same article may not be proposed oftener than once in four years.

Even that process sounds much simpler as the fathers wrote it than it has worked out in practice.

HERE are some of the questions concerning which there is a more or less general demand that the constitution be amended:

The initiative and referendum, adequate tax reform, abolishment of the cumulative system of voting for members of the house of representatives, establishment of the short ballot, consolidation of local governments in Chicago, home rule for cities, excess condemnation by cities, woman's suffrage.

The last state platform of the Democratic party calls for no less than four specific constitutional amendments. The Progressives demand nine. The Republicans lay most emphasis on an amendment to the amending clause of the constitution, which is probably the most nearly impossible of them all to obtain.

IF all the reformers, uplifters, grafters, highbrows, and politicians in the state could unanimously agree on which amendment should be taken up first, it might be possible to crawl slowly up the stairs of reform, one step every two years. In the course of, say, thirty years—provided everything went smoothly and there was always harmony in the allied camps—the whole program might be accomplished.

However, every reformer thinks his own pet hobby is the greatest and most pressing issue before the public. The advocate of the initiative and referendum is perfectly sincere in declaring that his own reform, which will in itself cure all the ills which afflict the body politic, is accomplished he is willing that any or all of the others shall have their chance. The partisan of tax reform holds a similar position.

Since the legislature may propose amendments to but one article at a time the result is, as happened at the last legislative session, and is likely to happen at this, there is a deadlock between the friends of the conflicting measures, and no amendment at all is proposed. This is the more likely when influential members of the legislature are well satisfied personally with present conditions, and are glad enough to see progress delayed so

OTHER SCHEDULES INTACT

Expected Measure Will Be Ready for Passage May 1 and a Law by the First of July.

WILSON HOLDS GRIP ON DEMOCRATS

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]—By an overwhelming vote the house Democratic caucus today transferred shoe machinery from the dutiable to the free list.

This is the first and only change made up to date in the Wilson-Underwood bill, except that earlier in the day the caucus had agreed to an amendment offered by Representative Palmer, under which lead, containing a strain of less than 3 per cent of zinc, would be admitted free of duty on the zinc contained in it.

The action on shoe machinery shows a disposition on the part of the Democrats of the house to be fair to the manufacturers of shoes, who will suffer through the transfer of the products of their plants to the free list. The manufacturers throughout the country lease their machinery from the Shoe Machinery company, which, as the bill was framed, was given 25 per cent protection, more than enough to prevent the importation of competing machinery.

Bill as Modified by Caucus.

The bill as now modified by the caucus provides:

For the retention of the free list of skins used in the manufacture or boots and shoes.

For the transfer of boots and shoes to the free list.

For the transfer to the free list of or the reduction in duties on chemicals used in the manufacture of boots and shoes.

For the transfer of shoe machinery to the free list.

Will Affect Cost of Living.

If the tariff has any effect on the cost of living it will be shown by the result in connection with shoes after the Wilson-Underwood bill goes into effect. Had shoe machinery been retained on the dutiable list, the manufacturers probably would have continued to pay the rates they at present pay the shoe machinery company for the rental of its machines. Now they will have an opportunity to get machinery from abroad, which may affect the charges of the company.

Representative Underwood, Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, and other members of the ways and means committe made every effort to induce the caucus to accept the shoe machinery item on the ground that it was included in the iron and steel schedule and had been treated in the same fashion as products covered by the schedule.

The Democrats, however, declined to heed the advice of their leaders in this matter, with the result of the transfer of shoe machinery to the free list. The shoe machinery interests will make a determined campaign to secure the restoration of the duty in the senate.

Hope for Other Changes.

The fact that the shoe machinery item was changed has inspired the belief that other provisions could be modified.

As a matter of fact there will be comparatively few changes made in the bill. Here and there, as in the case of shoe machinery, something may be done, but in a general way it is regarded as certain the bill will pass congress in practically its present form. The opposition is scattered and seems unable to get together in combination.

Thus has the president vindicated his leadership of the Democratic party. At his instance a solid majority of the Democratic congressmen are accepting every provision of the bill.

As a result of the conciliatory but firm attitude he has adopted with respect to the senate Democrats they are, with three exceptions, disposed to comply with his wishes and aquiesce save in a few minor particulars in the action of the house.

Senators Against Free Sugar.

It is the Louisiana senators and Senator Walsh of Montana, alone, who are up in arms over the proposal for free sugar. The president's party has a majority of six in the senate, so that if the three senators named should vote against the bill, on account of its sugar provisions, the senate would be tied, providing all the Republicans and Progressives vote against the measure.

Even under such conditions, the bill could be passed, because the vice president has the deciding vote and he would, of course, act in accordance with the president's program.

So the manufacturers who are protesting vigorously against various provisions of the bill may as well resign themselves to the inevitable and prepare for the new conditions made for them.

Bill Ready on May 1.

The house Democratic caucus is proceeding rapidly with its consideration of the bill. It is the confident expectation of Congressman Underwood, leader of the minority in the house, that the bill will pass that body around May 1. The senate finance committee will be ready to report the bill immediately after its receipt from the house.

There is no cloture on debate in the senate, so that a longer time will be taken up in discussion than is the case in the lower branch. The Republicans have announced they will not filibuster against the bill, but merely make speeches showing its effect

WEBB CONVICTED; PENALTY IN DOUBT

Jury Out Twelve Hours, Deadlocked Between Long Term and Death Verdict.

LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT.

"It's ten to two to hang you," was the message carried to Robert Webb in the county jail, last midnight.

"Maybe I made a mistake," Webb replied, "by not accepting the offer of the state's attorney to plead guilty and take a twenty-five year sentence. I have already pleaded guilty to robbery and been sentenced to 25 years anyway. But I don't believe I did make a mistake. We'll wait till the jury comes in."

Ten to two was the situation when the jurors went to bed in the Alexandria hotel at midnight. The jury had been out just twelve hours. Until ten o'clock at night it debated in the criminal court building, when Judge Kersten adjourned court until 10 o'clock this morning. The jurors continued arguing and playing cards until 11:20 when they went to the hotel.

Debate Case in Street.

On the way over one of the men was heard to say, "he ought to have the 25 years that Hoyne promised him."

"No," said another. "He killed a policeman wantonly. We ought to hang him. But if you are willing to compromise we'll make it life."

The jury had no doubt of Webb's guilt. Their first ballot decided that he was guilty of murder in the first degree.

Emmons Collins of 1617 South Fourth avenue, foreman of the jury, caused more than twenty-five ballots to be taken to fix the penalty during the twelve hours' debate. The ballots varied, 8 to 4, 9 to 3, and 10 to 2, for the death penalty.

The jury is composed of four young men and eight older men. It is said that the jurors who favor life imprisonment are both young men, moved in their actions by sympathy for the youth of the prisoner.

One of these two is said to be Foreman Collins.

Arguments Strenuous.

That strenuous arguments were being made for and against sending Webb to the gallows was evident in the evening by the loud voices which now and then penetrated the walls of the juryroom.

"I will not vote for it. I won't kill him," a man's voice was heard, and a little later the same voice declared, "The state failed to prove that Webb knew Hart was a policeman."

"It's been a battle between these two young men and the others all afternoon," said the bailiff, "and it looks like the two will either hang the jury or effect a compromise. It doesn't seem probable that they will give in to the majority. There may be a mistrial."

Assistant State's Attorney John Fleming in his closing address asked that the death penalty be imposed upon Webb for the murder of Detective Peter Hart.

He was dramatic in his appeal. Peter Hart Sr., father of the slain policeman, wept. Webb listened to the scorching denunciation with his head hanging. He gave no sign that he was moved.

FAMILY WAGES LEGAL FIGHT OVER PARALYTIC FIREMAN.

Father of James McCooey Seeks Writ to Gain Possession of Son—Now with Wife.

A bitter family squabble, involving the welfare and possibly the life of a lieutenant in the Chicago fire department, is to be fought out in the Circuit court of Cook county as the result of the filing yesterday of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for the possession of James McCooey.

McCooey, who was formerly connected with engine company 62, and who has been a hopeless paralytic for many months, is now at his residence at 6430 Drexel avenue, in the care of his wife. The writ of habeas corpus is asked for by his father, Patrick McCooey. He charges that Mrs. McCooey has resisted all the efforts of the sick man's friends and relatives to take him into the open air at intervals and to allow him to exercise. It is charged that the patient is in need of proper treatment and will die unless released from "the jealous care of his wife."

Mrs. McCooey told a different story.

"Last July my husband's mind became affected. I had him sent to the Elgin insane asylum. He was there until the middle of last October, when his relatives had him released. Their first step was to attempt to have his pension transferred from myself to them. They were unable to succeed in this and they then had him sent to the detention hospital.

"Now comes this appeal for a writ of habeas corpus."

WOMEN'S TOES WILL BE HEELS IN FEW YEARS, SAYS DOCTOR.

Use of Tight Shoes with High Arches Transforming Feet of Fair Sex, Declares New York Physician.

A modishly dressed woman walking backward need cause no surprise a few years hence. She may simply have lived so closely in style that she has developed the "new heel," situated where her toes ought to be.

The discovery of the new heel is that of Dr. Max Strunsky, of New York, writing in the current Journal of the American Medical Association. He blames it entirely on high heeled shoes and finds women would rather continue to suffer with it than to use common sense shoes, which make the foot look large.

"The anterior arches become prominent and bulge and are covered with callosities," he reports after his examinations of the latest freak. "Not only do the arches deform, under pressure of the additional burden, the function of heels, but they acquire al the characteristics and every semblance of heels.

"High heeled shoes compel the anterior arches to assume the function of weight carrying structures or heels. Metatarsal walking increases the size and strength of the anterior arches and changes their flexibility and elasticity, essential to a normal gait, to rigidity."

HOTEL RULES ON FRIEDMANN.

Refuses to Allow Berlin Savant to Treat Tuberculosis Patients in His Suite.

Providence, R. I., April 11.—Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann, who claims to have a vaccine cure for tuberculosis, was notified today by the management of the hotel here, where he has been receiving patients, that he will not be allowed to use his suite for professional purposes. He is seeking new quarters.

CUTTING TO QUIT AS PROBATE JUDGE

ON BENCH SINCE 1899.

Judge Charles S. Cutting of the Probate court announced yesterday that he is to retire from the bench and resume private practice. The date for his retirement has not yet been set, nor would he announce what his connections will be after leaving the bench. He is said to have decided to leave the bench after the United States senate recently refused to confirm his appointment to a federal judgeship made just before President Taft left office.

"I intend sending my resignation to Gov. Dunne as soon as I close up some matters now before me," said Judge Cutting yesterday. "I had not intended to make a formal announcement of my retirement until I had settled upon the date.

On Bench Since 1899.

"I shall resume private practice. Opportunities offered me in this field have proven too attractive to be passed up. That is all I care to say until I have written my formal resignation."

Judge Cutting has been on the Probate bench of Cook county since 1899, and is one of the two Republican officeholders who withstood the Democratic landslide eighteen months ago, the other being John R. Newcomer of the Municipal court.

Judge Cutting has been an outspoken advocate of removing the judiciary from political influences, and has frequently stated that efforts to reform the bench must begin in the method of electing judges.

Career as Teacher.

Judge Cutting came to Chicago in 1880 from Palatine, Ill. where he had been principal of the high school. For five years he was a memeber of the board of education here, and from 1887 to 1890 was master in chancery of the Circuit court. In 1890 he was elected to the Probate court and was twice reelected. He is a former president of the Union League club and a member of the Hamilton and the Hawkeye Fellowship clubs.

Judge Cutting was born at Highgate Springs, Vt., in 1854, and is a graduate of Willamette university, Salem, Ore. For a time he was assistant editor of the Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Times. He lives in Austin.

Motion Picture Actor at Hoboken, N. J., Accidentally Kills Friend During Film Performance.

Hoboken, N. J., April 11.—A "make believe" duel today between actors performing before a moving picture camera here came to a tragic end when fire flashed from the revolver of one of the participants, who had snapped it harmlessly several times previously, and a bullet crashed into the head of the other actor. The wounded man, William Date, died without regaining consciousness. Samuel Lonnetis, who had discharged the weapon, disappeared.

RAID LEVEE AND CABARETS FOR WITNESSES

"SLUMMERS" CAUGHT

HOLD MIDNIGHT SESSION

A series of spectacular raids on Chicago's midnight revelers was made by the senate vice commission last night.

Beginning at 11:30 and ending up after 3 o'clock this morning, taxicabs with special officers with forthwith subpoenas invaded first the Twenty-second street district, then the big downtown loop restaurants, grabbed up entertainers and in some instances guests and slumming parties. They were rushed before the waiting commission at the Hotel La Salle and put on inquisition.

Among the places raided were:

Rector's restaurant, where two women and six men were taken.

States restaurant, State and Monroe streets, where two women and six men were taken.

Lewd characters, men and women entertainers, and slumming parties, all were fish for the net spread out in the Twenty-second street district raids. There were riotous scenes attending the announcement of the officers: "No one will hurt you, but you must come down before the commission at once and testify. You are summoned on forthwith subpoenas as witnesses. The commission is waiting at the Hotel La Salle."

Slumming Parties Hysterical.

The announcement produced a more shocking effect on the slumming parties. One woman attempted to leap from a window of Roy Jones' resort, Wabash avenue and Twenty-first street. Another fell on her knees and wept. A man jammed a roll of bills into the hand of an officer.

"Take this for God's sake," he said, "and let my party get out of here. Lord, man, you don't know what this means!"

The officers kept the rushing mob back until order was restored. Then the motley company—some weeping, some laughing hysterically, some cursing—was hustled into a little army of automobiles and started downtown.

War on "Animal Dance."

Chairman Barratt O'Hara thumbed his fingers on the desk before him, and said:

"We're out after the smut song. We're on the trail of the animal dance. Those are two of the reasons why young girls go wrong. We tried this midnight—"

"Here they come," yelled somebody.

There was a rush of feet, above which sobs and laughter sounded plainly. In a minute the room was filled. Men in evening dress, women in ball gowns. Carmine clad and carmine checked women, low browed men with undershot jaws, elegant men with tiny black mustaches, dough faced "snow birds," whose appearance fairly shouted the fact they were drug users."

"Where are these from?" somebody asked.

Denies Obscenity in Songs.

"Jack" Carvan, manager for Roy Jones' cafe, Twenty-first and Wabash avenue, was first called. He denied obscenity in the songs sung by negro women there last night.

Lieut. Gov. O'Hara then notified the witness he would ask Mayor Harrison to close the place on evidence obtained by investigators.

Senator Beall said he had seen an indecent dance at Jones' resort and Senator Tossey corroborated him.

Two women and a man were subpoenaed at Jones' and one of the women, Mrs. J. T. of Peoria, whose husband is a wholesaler, was called. She had been sightseeing and had been in the place with her brother from Springfield. She did not catch the words, but noticed the women pulled up their skirts in dancing.

Woman Condemns Dance.

"I have a daughter of 10," said the witness, "and I don't think I want her to see cafe life."

Mrs. T. believed "in the beauty of the body" as exemplified by Gertrude Hoffman.

also of Peoria, thought the "vice crusade" was after her.

"Do you care to go there again?" asked Senator Beall.

"Hardly—under the circumstances," she replied.

The witness objected strenuously to being photographed, which led the male member of the party to jump up.

"Is this the kind of a way to treat a lady?" he demanded.

"The young man should have thought better than to take women to such a place," interposed the chairman.

The photographer was abolished, and then the escort, H. H. M., took the stand. He didn't think he cared to take his sister again to Jones' place.

Vice Crusader Caught.

"I belong to the vice crusade in Peoria," announced Mrs. T., as she left. "What shall I tell them at home?"

"Tell them you were caught away from home," volunteered Senator Beall.

To controvert the testimony of the Jones manager the commission investigator, M. Blair Coan, was sworn. He testified obscene refrains were sung at Jones', and Detectives John J. Hardy and Michael J. Farley, who assisted Coan, corroborated him. The commission then determined to ask the closing of the place and perjury proceedings against Carvan.

Rector's "Turkey Trotter" on Stand.

Natalie, 19, who disowned any other name—at present—came from Rector's, where she dances the tango and turkey trot. She stamped her foot and ordered her manager-partner to stand beside the witness stand.

"Do you dance the turkey trot like the others?" asked Mr. O'Hara.

"No, we do it better."

The manager-partner, Martin Ferrari, denied his dance was "licentious or vile," but admitted he embraced Natalie pretty closely at some periods of the proceedings.

Ferrari and Chairman O'Hara then indulged in some terpsichorean psychology as to the possibilities of the crude but receptive mind being unable to grasp the artistic—something like cubist art.

Abe Frank Testifies.

Abe Frank, manager of Rector's and the North American restaurants, said he only permitted general dancing on the request of his patrons. He denied being interested in Buxbaum's or similar places.

Personally, Mr. Frank thought the tango a rare, refined dance, but he didn't like the "harem" song in his places.

At this juncture Investigator Coan suggested that "All Night Long" had been sung last night. The witness denied it and demanded that the statement be proven.

Two additional Rector performers, H. H., a whistler, and B. W., a singer, came next. Both placed the ban on "The Harem" and similar songs.

Mrs. Maud J. C. Joseph, an investigator, had dined at Rector's and held a different idea of Natalie's performance. She thought some gauzy attire worn at first was as good as nothing at all. A second garb of pink tights and black chiffon was tolerably oriental. The tango she thought a combination of that and the "apache." She pronounced it suggestive.

Two Taken on North Side.

While the commission was hearing evidence two persons were arrested at 1861 North Clark street. They gave the names of Mrs. Jennie Leigh of that address and J. A. McCarty, an Omaha traveling man. The Rev. E. L. Williams, who has taken a considerable part in the cleaning up of the north side, was responsible for their arrest and participated with Detective Sergeants J. J. Hardy and M. J. Farley in making it.

Mr. Williams obtained his evidence through a member of his congregation, W. C. Sensibaugh, who obtained a room in the house and made his own observations during the last week. He found letters written to the Leigh woman by McCarty, signed "Your Dude." McCarty was in an advanced state of nervousness when taken before the committee at 1:30 this morning.

At the Daytime Session.

Women known in social and sociological circles were the star witnesses at the morning and afternoon sessions. Their testimony differed radically from that of the keepers of dance halls and employers of cabaret performers, who also appeared.

The girls employed in the downtown stores were brought forcibly into the record once more when Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, 1430 Astor street, president of the Juvenile Protective league, was on the stand.

"You are interested in the girls in the department stores, I believe," said Lieut. Gov. O'Hara. "Do you consider them underpaid?"

"I know they are much underpaid," replied Mrs. Bowen.

"What, in your opinion, constitutes a living wage?"

"A girl can live in Chicago on $8 a week," said Mrs. Bowen. "That, however, will not give her good food, clothing, or lodging. She can just get along and that is all."

"What is your solution?" asked the chairman.

"A minimum wage law."

Girls Join Union; Lose Jobs.

Mrs. Bowen said she had been interested in the attempted unionizing of department store girls by the Women's Trade Union league, and said the meetings had been attended by several hundred women. Those who had joined numbered 165, she said.

"It has been reported some of these girls have been discharged for joining the union, Mrs. Bowen," said Mr. O'Hara. "Do you know if such is the case?"

"I have been told eighteen were discharged by one firm—Siegel, Cooper & Co.—and that others had lost their places," replied Mrs. Bowen.

Mrs. Bowen said she had known several cases of girls who had gone wrong because of "starvation" wages.

Dance Hall Conditions Lax.

Both Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, as officers of the Juvenile Protective league, testified as to dance hall conditions.

Mrs. Bowen was provided with a card index of dance halls, with reports made by special investigators. Nearly every one showed bad moral conditions, free use of liquor, and insanitary buildings.

"By our last report," said Mrs. Bowen, "there were 328 licensed dance halls in Chicago, of which 240 sell liquor. Of the latter 146 have been found selling liquor to minors. Seventy-seven work in conjunction with disreputable hotels. I have called the attention of the authorities to the violations, and today showed the card reports to Mayor Harrison, who appeared much interested.

Would Bar Liquor at Dances.

"I blame the prevailing dance hall conditions to the special bar permits. The law allows six special bar permits a year to one organization, but we have evidence some get as many as twenty, and in one instance thirty-two. We reported conditions a year ago, and the mayor ordered greater care in investigating bar permits. Any one gets them, apparently. Recently a very young girl came to us because she wanted to give a party and use the proceeds to take her to New York. She wanted a bar permit.

"Men who are turned out of the saloons at 1 a. m. can go across the street where a dance is on and get all the liquor they can pay for. Oftentimes they are not even charged admission. I am told the trouble is not with the saloonkeepers, but with the brewers.

"For a remedy I would recommend a state law forbidding the sale of liquor at dances. The well conducted dance hall is an amusement necessity."

Mrs. Bowen believes low wages one avenue to a woman's downfall, but thinks changes in school curriculums, the teaching of sex hygiene, etc., would act as deterrents.

She wants to see the public schools thrown open for dances and other entertainment, but said the board of education had not the money. She figured $1,000 per school per year as the necessary additional expense. With the schools holding night classes, dances, athletics, and orchestral concerts she believes many a domestic who could receive her company only in the kitchen would fare better morally.

"Would letting the domestic have the family parlor for one night a week help protect her?" she was asked.

"It probably would be made so disagreeable for her she would rather go on the street or to a dance hall," replied Mrs. Bowen, with a smile.

Approve Girls' Hotel Idea.

Senator Beall wanted Mrs. Bowen's opinion on the proposed million dollar working girls' hotel. Such a thing was a necessity, she said, but not to be operated by the employers. That also was Mrs. Britton's idea.

"A committee of women today told us they had met one wealthy man who would contribute to a fund for a hotel for men and boys, but not to aid the women," Senator Beall said.

Mrs. Britton advised special women police for dance halls as being able to assist girls better than men. The male police, both women said, were usually found in the dance halls drinking and smoking.

Mrs. Britton said a Chicago man had given her a fund from which she made loans without interest to working girls. She admitted she might be swamped with applications, but wanted to try it out.

How Many Women Kill Selves?

Coroner Peter M. Hoffman expects to submit a report to the commission showing the number of women suicides during the eight years of his tenure of office, and to specify when possible the causes for the act and the social condition of the woman. In eight years, he said, he had handled about 36,000 deaths, of which 4,500 were suicides, one-third of the latter being women. He believed a state commission should study the suicide problem.

Some light was thrown on the methods of "shady" hotels in the downtown district by George Tollman, who for a month was janitor and houseman at the La Salle house, 171 North La Salle street, which he claimed "was run particularly for wealthy men who pick up young girls."

Here's Model Resortkeeper!

A model redlight café keeper appeared in the person of Robert C. Novak, half owner of Maxim's, 2107 South Wabash avenue.

According to his testimony, he has never sold intoxicating liquor after 1 a. m.; never has had a real row, or allowed disreputable or unescorted women in his place, and never has paid police for protection or contributed to a campaign fund. As a voter he is "independent."

Persistent questioning forced the admission that "Izzie" Lazarus, who had his license taken from him because of "disorderly conduct" in the place, was his silent partner.

"My business is chiefly with slummers," explained Novak. "They are all decent people who come to see night life."

"Do the men bring their wives and daughters to your place?" he was asked.

"Their wives—I guess—but I don't know about daughters," the witness hazarded.

"What do you mean by slumming?" asked Senator Beall.

"O, just going around and drinking and listening to the entertainment," said Novak. "You can go slumming in the Congress, or the States, or the North American."

"Well, I was investigating your place the other night," said Alton's "stork mayor," "and saw three women soliciting there."

"I didn't know it," was Novak's only comment.

Jacob Yondorf, owner of a dance hall at 758 West North avenue, denied conditions were bad at his place, as charged by Mrs. Britton. He promised greater caution in the future.

INQUIRY VOTED IN OHIO.

Columbus, O., April 11.—Looking toward an investigation of a minimum wage for working women, similar to the vice campaign conducted by the Illinois senate committee, the Friebolin bill was passed by the house today. The measure originated in the senate and now goes to the governor.

Under the provisions of the bill every employer of five or more girls or women in the state will be compelled to send information to the new industrial commission relating to the wages paid.

SHOCKED CHAPERON'S PLEA "BEAR" DANCERS' DEATH CHANT

Tells Evanston Woman's Club What She Saw 'Twixt Parted Fingers, and Complete Taboo Is the Result.

The dancing of the bunny hug, turkey trot, and the grizzly bear in the clubrooms was tabooed in resolutions passed yesterday by the Woman's club of Evanston. Interantially the tango, which almost caused a revolt there a month ago, was made liable for prohibition, depending on the extent to which the tangoers tang.

The club action follows the fraternity dance held in the clubrooms, when one of the members officiating as chaperon had to cover her eyes at the sight of the tango as danced by the Northwestern students.

The covering of her eyes did not prevent other activities. She buttonholed several of the dancers, tried to dissuade them and, failing, retired to the side lines and expressed her opinions vehemently. The next day she discussed the situation with the club directors. The resolutions were the result.

NOBLEWOMAN DIES OF WOUND.

Miss Olga Tenohovich, Russian Heiress, Found Dead in Frisco Hotel —Believed Suicide.

San Francisco, Cal., April 11.—Miss Olga Tenohovich of St. Petersburg, a Russian noblewoman, was found dead in her room at a fashionable hotel tonight with a bullet wound in her head. It is believed she committed suicide. She was betrothed to a local merchant, and, according to the police, the tragedy followed a quarrel.

Saloonkeeper Fined $200.

Michael O'Connor, a saloonkeeper at 2711 West Division street, yesterday was fined $200 and costs by Municipal Judge Fisher on a charge of selling liquor to minors. The complainant was Lillian Knudson, 16 years old, 1355 North Rockwell street.

CLIFFORD G. ROE SPEAKS.

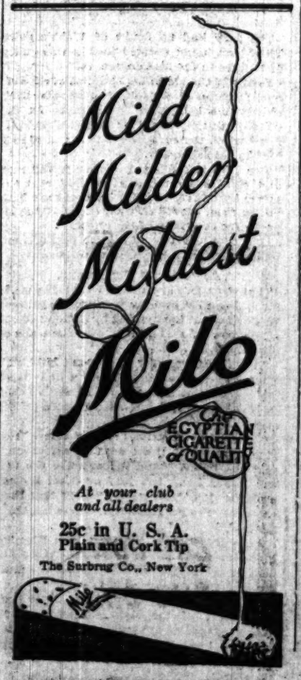

Tells of Immoral Traffic and Asks Aid for Crusade.

New York, April 11.—(Special.)—"You women of good homes and quiet lives do not realize the perils that young girls in this city are subjected to. Hundreds of unfortunate girls are being forced into white slavery every year in this city. New York is worse than Chicago. We need money to fight this devilish crew. Who will help?"

When Clifford G. Roe of Chicago, an associate of John D. Rockefeller Jr. in vice crusading, concluded his talk before 700 women in Sherry's restaurant today with an appeal for funds, a quietly gowned woman of middle age left the audience, hurried to Mr. Roe, and handed him a gold ring with a setting of diamonds and rubies.

"Please take this ring," she said. "Sell it and devote the money to the cause. I have little money to give away, but I can do without this ring. It is a family heirloom. My father gave it to me just before he died. I offer it to you as a memorial to him."

"The American Vigilance association is on a new tack," he said. "We don't want to regulate white slavery and the social evil. We want to repress it. We purpose to do so by three methods—law enforcement, publicity, and education. We want to get laws passed that will prevent property owners from renting to vicious persons. We want laws compelling a medical certificate before marriage. We want laws compelling doctors to report diseases."

POPE IMPROVES; GIVES BLESSING

EFFORT TIRES ILL MAN.

Sisters Declare He May Soon Receive Pilgrims from His Native Region.

ROME, April 11.—Despite the injunctions of his physicians and the remonstrances of his attendants, Pope Pius this afternoon received in audience three bishops who had headed a pilgrimage to Rome to visit him and bestowed upon them the papal blessing.

Tonight his holiness, wearied by his efforts, fell into a deep sleep immediately after his physicians had made their customary call.

The meeting between the pontiff and the three aged bishops was pathetic.

Pope Gaining in Strength.

The recovery of the pope from his relapse apparently is progressing rapidly. His sisters said his condition was now so satisfactory that it was possible he would be able within a few days to receive some of the pilgrims from his native region.

The pilgrims, led by the three bishops, were received in the royal hall this afternoon by Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, at the special request of Pope Pius. He explained that Pope Pius understood the sacrifices the pilgrims had undergone in coming to Rome and would have been extremely happy to see them if it were possible.

Delivers Message to Pilgrims.

The cardinal told the pilgrims they would not lose the spiritual advantages of their visit to Rome as the holy father had implored for them all the blessings and mercy they might desire.

The first documents bearing the papal signature since the relapse of the pope appeared today. They are decrees by which Cardinals Pompili and Van Rossum are made members of the congregation of the holy office.

AMERICANS ASK WARSHIP AID

INVESTIGATION OF KILLING.

U. S. to Make Thorough Inquiry Into Brawl on Western Coast.

Guaymas, Mexico, April 11.—The killing here of Seamen J. C. Klesow and W. W. Corrie and the wounding of three other sailors from the United States battleship California, resulted today in a request from Americans at Mazatlan that a cruiser be detailed to the Pacific port.

An official consular report from an eyewitness of the fight of Wednesday morning says that the Americans were drunk.

UNITED STATES MAY ACT.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—The attention of the state department, which lately has been given to a vexatious problem arising from the repeated wounding of American soldiers and other American citizens along the Mexican border, today was directed to the serious situation resulting from the slaying of a petty officer and a sailor from the United States battleship California at Guaymas.

Charles D. Taylor, consular agent at Guaymas, in reporting the deaths to the department, said a strict investigation was being made.

The shooting was done by the chief of police of Guaymas, and as American sailors going ashore in a foreign country invariably go unarmed, officials here will insist that the circumstances of the slaying be investigated to the bottom.

LONDON, April 11.—It is understood that a member of the house of commons who is friendly to woman suffrage will ask Reginald McKenna, home secretary, next week whether he is contemplating deportation of Miss Zelie Emerson and other foreign militant suffragets guilty of breaking English laws, as undesirable aliens.

The militant suffragets started a fresh raid today by attacking the fire alarms in the London streets. They destroyed three. In each case a card bearing the words "Votes for Women" was attached to the damaged apparatus.

An alleged suffraget attempt to destroy by fire the dirigible balloon sheds and aeroplane parks of the army flying corps was reported today from Farnborough. The fire was extinguished before any damage had been done.

RAIL TERMINALS PUT INTO HANDS OF COUNCIL BODY

Aldermen Choose Committee of 15 to Settle the Problems of Chicago's Depots.

ALL ASSIGNMENTS MADE

GEIGER HEADS THE NEW GROUP

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 11.—[Special.]—The problem of Chicago's railway terminals—which is involved with the whole project of city planning—is to be in the hands of a new aldermanic committee chosen today by the council committee on committees, which has been in session here for a week.

The terminals committee, like the others slated here and announced tonight, is of course subject to the council's O. K., but this is assumed to be forthcoming. Taken as a whole, the committee's selections indicate that the principle of nonpartisanship has fared badly.

Men Who Will Handle Problem.

The personnel of the railway terminals committee is nearer non-partisan than any of the others chosen. Ald. Ellis Geiger of the Twenty-first ward is named as chairman. His associates are:

Harding,	Donahoe,	Bowler,
Kenna,	Schaeffer,	Littler,
Richert,	Helwig,	Bewersdorf,
Utpatel,	McDonald,	Healy (18th).
Capitain,	Fisher,

There are eight Democrats in the list, six Republicans, and one progressive.

The work of this newly formed committee will embrace not only the consideration of the Pennsylvania's new union station site, but also the problem of the sites for depots for the railroads now at Dearborn station, at Park row station, and perhaps at the La Salle station. It probably also will take up questions of electrification.

Need Systematic Inquiry.

There has been wide demand for a systematic inquiry into this big problem of the depots, and it is recognized that the whole city plan awaits its settlement.

The Pennsylvania, with which are allied the Burlington, St. Paul, and Alton, is ready to begin construction of a $35,000,000 terminal, desiring the site west of Canal street, near its present location.

The point has been made that an aldermanic committee is the proper body to take on the responsibility of settling these questions—subject, of course, to the council's approval—rather than to put the consideration of the matter in the hands of a big group of citizens and representatives of organizations.

Will Supersede Commission.

The committee, in fact, will supersede the commission named by Mayor Harrison a year ago. This outgoing body was composed of three aldermen, three railroad presidents, representatives of three civic organizations, and three citizens at large.

Mr. Geiger proposes to devote the greater part of his time to the new committee, and with that intention in view, relinquished the chairmanship of the schools, fire and police committee.

It is said to be the plan of Ald. Geiger and his colleagues to hold hearings at which the public as well as the railroad men will be heard. Once the whole question is thrashed out—including ideas of city builders and commuters—with a thought for public convenience as well as the city plan, the aldermen expect to reach conclusions and give them to the council for final action.

How Places Are Apportioned.

With fifteen members of the new terminals committee the committee on committees had 201 committee places to settle on. Of this number the Democrats were given 128, the Republicans 61, the Progressives 9, and Charles E. Merriam, listed as an independent, 3.

The Democrats appropriated eight of the thirteen chairmanships and the Republicans were allowed five. The Progressives were ignored when it came to picking committee heads.

The four committees for which chairmen have not been finally named are license, buildings, schools, and water. Hugo L. Pitte tonight is at the head of the license committee, J. E. Clancy of the buildings, Joseph F. Ryan of schools, and John Toman of water. There is still a possibility of either of these selections being changed, but hardly a probability.

Merriam's Places in Doubt.

Ald. Merriam may or may not be kept on the committees on which he has been placed—gas, health, and license. It is known that Chairman Richert of the committee on committees and Ald. Geiger both urged putting Mr. Merriam on the local transportation committee, which will deal with merger and subways. Richert continues to hold out for this recognition of the Seventh ward independent.

The slate includes Ald. Richert for chairman of the finance committee, Block to head local transportation, Littler for chairmanship of harbors, wharves and bridges, Sitts to head gas, oil, and electric light; A. J. Fisher, local industries; Donahoe, judiciary, state legislation, elections, and rules; W. J. Healy, streets and alleys, taxation, and street nomenclature; and Dr. Nance as chairman of the health committee.

Members Coming Home.

The committee expects to discuss the select committees with Mayor Harrison and probably will embody his desires in the report, to be submitted to the council on Monday. Chairman Richert and other members of the committee plan to start back to Chicago tomorrow night. Their present intention is to refrain from making official announcement of all of their selections until they return home. In this way they hope to avoid a rush of indignant aldermen deprived of choice committee assignments. Ald. Geiger left tonight for Chicago.

Fire Perils Field Museum.

Part of the southwest section of the roof of the Field Museum of Natural History in Jackson park caught fire yesterday, but the flames were quickly checked and the loss was small. Several men were repairing the roof when one of their small tar pots was accidentally overturned, starting the fire.

Pennant Girls for "The World in Chicago."

MISS LILLIAN DE VERE NORRIS. MISS ANN WEISS

Recruits for the "Pennant Brigade" were enlisted at the "World In Chicago" headquarters in the Central Y. M. C. A. building yesterday. The young women will be drafted into active service on April 21, when 25,000 pennants will be placed on display in street windows in Chicago simultaneously. The pennants are of blue and orange and bear the legend, "The World In Chicago." The object is to advertise the great missionary pageant to be held in the Auditorium and Coliseum from May 3 until June 7. Two of yesterday's pennant volunteers were Miss Anne Weiss and Miss Lillian De Vere Norris.

Committee Makeup for New Council.

SPEEDING LAWFUL AFTER 1 A.M.? NOT MUCH! IT COSTS $50!

B. J. Bussiere's Excuse Fails to Impress Judge Fry—Boy Run Down—Driver Flees.

"I thought te speeding laws were suspended after 1 o'clock," declared B. J. Bussiere, 4539 Hazel avenue, president of the Classified Ad company, arraigned in Speeders' court yesterday.

"You were in error," corrected Judge Fry. "Let us make sure you do not misunderstand this—a fine of $50 and costs. Next case."

Seven year old Emmett Mahoney, 129 North Forty-second avenue, was run down a block from his residence. The driver stopped his car long enough to give the boy the unnecessary information that his nose was bleeding, then climbed back in the car and disappeared.

Dr. A. Stare, 1500 West Taylor street, unable to avoid running down Morris Mitt at Twelfth and Jefferson streets, did the next best thing by lifting the injured man into his car, taking him to the office and dressing his wounds, and then notifying the police.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Physician Hears He Is Heir to Millions Left by Student He Befriended.

Dr. Edward S. Higley of Glen Ellyn, Ill., considers himself heir to a fortune of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, left by his college friend, Charles Froehlich, who died recently in South Africa after a career of successful speculation in mines. The doctor bases his expectation on the receipt of a letter from his friend's valet and on clippings from foreign newspapers.

"About thirty years ago I loaned Froehlich $700 to enable him to finish his studies," the doctor said. "Although he paid it back years ago, my friend often spoke of his intention to acquit himself some day to his own satisfaction.

"No, I shall not go to South Africa, but shall wait till the inheritance comes to Glen Ellyn."

DENIES HEREDITY IN MORALS

Prof. Coulter Says Transmission Is Bodily Only.

HAS NEW EUGENICS THEORY.

Pious Parents May Produce a Renegade Child, He Writes.

A new theory of the "possibilities of inheritance," as opposed to the modern acceptance of the theory of eugenics, is advanced by John Merle Coulter, professor of botany in the University of Chicago. He writes in the current issue of the Biblical World, issued yesterday by the University of Chicago Press.

Prof. Coulter contends heredity influences only the bodily resemblances and physical characteristics of the child, and that it is not responsible for moral diseases or "tendencies." The "possibilities of inheritance," he says, are responsible for the moral conduct of the child, and many persons who are fit for marriage become unfit afterwards.

Each of the influences that enters into the creation of the child, Dr. Coulter says, contains the accumulated inheritances from a long line of ancestors, and the combination may well be regarded as a new one; at least, it did not exist in either of the parents. He continues:

"Among all the possibilities or perhaps better capacities thus locked up in the protoplasmic egg which ones will get expression?

Cites Contrast Cases.

"The child may develop very different possibilities from those developed by either of the parents. For example, pious parents may produce a renegade child; and from a drunken home there may issue an upright child. In the former case the child certainly inherited the possibility to develop a religious life, and in the latter case the child just as certainly inherited the possibility to develop into a drunkard; but in no case for the same reason, were the possibilities developed by the parents the same as those developed by the child.

"The result of the exaggerated feeling of parental responsibility in connection with heredity led to the development of what is called the science of eugenics, but as yet it is more of a religion than a science."

Would Regulate Homes.

Dr. Coulter, in concluding his article, urges that every child shall have the chance to respond to a stimulating opportunity.

"This," he says, "will save thousands where the regulation of marriage will save one. It means a regulation of homes as well as of marriages. It makes the responsibility of parents continuous, and at the same time it puts responsibility upon the child."

CHICAGOANS MAY WITNESS GREATEST POLO TOURNAMENT.

Directors of American Olympic Games to Be Held in Grant Park Seek Army Teams.

If Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood gives his consent, Chicagoans will this summer see in action the greatest assemblage of polo players in the history of the game, in Grant park as part of the American Olympic games.

Harry M. Higinbotham, chairman of the polo committee, announced yesterday at a luncheon of the directors and committeemen at the Auditorium hotel, that he has written to Gen. Wood asking permission for the famous army polo teams to come to Chicago and compete.

It is possible the Onwentsia club may transfer the club's tournament to Grant park.

M'WEENY FREES OLD PARTNER

IN FOR HORSE STEALING.

Plea Succeeds in Winning Pardon and Man Gets New Start.

The "mysterious departure" from Chicago Thursday night of Chief of Police John McWeeny has been solved. He went to Richmond, Va., to obtain the release from the penitentiary there of James F. Murphy, a former member of the Chicago police force.

Murphy was serving a sentence for horse stealing and it was his second term in the Virginia penitentiary.

The chief was successful in his mission. Gov. Mann granted Murphy a conditional pardon. The former convict will be brought to Chicago by McWeeny and a position awaits him on his arrival.

Murphy and McWeeny traveled out of the same station twenty-five years ago. They were in many a battle together and each regarded the other with brotherly affection.

Drink Costs Murphy's Position.

Murphy lost his position through drink. He disappeared from Chicago and nothing was heard of him for several years.

A few months ago a photograph and Bertillon measurement of Murphy was received by Capt. Michael Evans, superintendent of the Chicago identification bureau, from the warden of the Virginia penitentiary.

When the Harrison Democrats went to Washington last month to take part in the inauguration of President Wilson McWeeny went along. On his return from Washington he stopped over at Richmond to inquire into the case of Murphy.

Arouses McWeeny's Sympathy.

McWeeny was saddened by the sight of his old friend in prison stripes, and he resolved to obtain his release if possible. On his return to Chicago he communicated with Gov. Mann and Chief of Police Werner of Richmond.

Last Wednesday McWeeny received a letter from Werner telling him Gov. Mann would pardon Murphy if the Chicago chief would go after him.

Twenty-four hours later McWeeny was on his way to Richmond. Yesterday afternoon Murphy walked out of prison a free man.

PICK BOY FOR WORLD TOUR.

Committeemen Today Will Select Youth Who Has Achieved Something Worth While.

The Cook county boy who will join the round the world tour of forty American school boys is to be selected this afternoon at a meeting in the office of Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools. The field has been cut down to twenty-one, and the committee that will make the final selection is made up of E. B. De Groot, William G. Edens, Dr. Arthur McNeil, Charles La Berg, and H. R. D. Owings. The contest is the outgrowth of the "achievement campaign" among schoolboys, each of whom has been asked to tell what he has achieved worth while outside of school.

HINSDALE SNIFFS AT QUEER ODORS

BUT FERTILIZER! OOFF!

So Florists Decide to Move Plant to Plebeian Town of Greggs.

Hinsdale—the home of many Chicago millionaires—has turned up its nose, both literally and figuratively, and as a result the $1,000,000 greenhouses of Bassett & Washburn, one of the best known and largest establishments of its kind in the world, will be torn down and rebuilt in a more plebeian locality—Greggs, a few miles west. There are no millionaires in Greggs.

The soft, sweet perfume of the acres of blooming plants for several years made Hinsdale breezes a joy to the residents. Then the establishment enlarged; fertilizer was drawn in by the wagonload, and in uncovered wagons at that. The millionaire colony literally turned up its nose. Complaints came thick and fast.

The village board of trustees got busy. Ordinances were passed. The company was ordered to receive all supplies in covered wagons. Since then the florists have received their fertilizer in sacks.

And Then It Was Coal.

Other residents have complained because the coal wagons of the company cut up the pavements. In the winter time there are scores of wagons carrying coal all day. They use 20,000 tons during the winter. Then the smoke from the chimneys has been the source of many complaints, and threats of damage suits were made by the wealthy residents who have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in buildings and grounds within a short distance from the plant.

The greenhouses found themselves in a millionaire colony more through chance than intent. O. P. Bassett, the founder of the plant, started his first greenhouse about twenty-five years ago.

The growing of flowers was merely a fad and a plaything at first. Mr. Bassett was so successful, however, that the plant grew and became famous. About two years ago Mr. Bassett left Hinsdale and built a home near Pasadena. Some of the residents say that he was driven out by nagging neighbors, and others say that he didn't bother about threats of damage suits. Recently another partner in the business, Edgar B. Washburn, went to Pasadena for his health. The plant is in charge of Charles L. Washburn, former son-in-law of Mr. Bassett.

Who the Neighbors Are.

Among the wealthy men who have expensive residences close to the plant are L. H. Freer, whose castlelike house is one of the landmarks of that part of the country; C. A. Brown, patent lawyer, who lives at Bronham; W. H. Knight, secretary of the American Trotting association; J. C. Davis; J. C. F. Merrill, secretary of the board of trade; F. E. Thompson, lawyer; Dr. C. P. McConnell, John C. Fetzer; E. M. Barton, president of the Western Electric company, and Augustus Beidler.

"I think Mr. Washburn felt that there would be prosecutions later," said Mr. Freer. "And, besides, his land is too valuable to use for greenhouses. His forty acres in Hinsdale is in the best part of town. There have been many complaints against the company."

"There has been trouble for several years between the residents of Hinsdale and the flower concern," said H. C. Kammeyer, a member of the village board of trustees. "I wouldn't say that they were moving altogether because of the complaints. They want to get near a railroad. The trouble started when they used to unload their fertilizer right downtown."

WIDOW OF EXPLORER SCOTT RETURNS FROM NEW ZEALAND.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 11.—Lady Scott, widow of the antarctic explorer, arrived in London this afternoon, having traveled overland via Brindisi on her long return trip from New Zealand, whither she went to meet her husband.

Nobody awaited her return more anxiously than her 3 year old son Peter. All morning he played about the house in Buckingham Palace road, running from room to room and peeping excitedly through the windows.

He knew his father could not come with his mother, for a few days ago he was told that "daddy" would not come back this time—perhaps some other time.

When Lady Scott reached home, soon after 3 o'clock, Peter stood on the doorstep and gave her a single hug and kiss and uttered a few expressions of supreme delight.

Judge Charles S. Cutting.

Judge Charles S. Cutting of the Probate court yesterday announced his early resignation, to take up the practice of law in this city. Judge Cutting, who has been on the bench continuously since 1899, was nominated for a federal judgeship by President Taft just before the expiration of his term. The recent failure of the United States senate to confirm the appointment is believed to have brought about Judge Cutting's determination to retire.

WOMEN FIGHT TO FREE BOY

Georgia Youngster Given Long Term for Stealing Soda Bottle.

HAS SERVED THREE YEARS.

Ask Lawmakers to Change Barbarous Statute.

Women's clubs and private citizens are taking action to show their resentment at the treatment of 14 year old Ollie Taylor of Atlanta, Ga., who is now in the Fulton county industrial farm of Georgia. The boy was sentenced to the farm when he was 11 years old for the balance of his minority.

He had pleaded guilty to stealing a 5 cent bottle of coca cola. The boy has served three years of his sentence. The Supreme court of Georgia recently confirmed the decision of the lower court in giving the ten year sentence.

Willis H. Hutson, an attorney in the Otis building, who first made the case public through THE TRIBUNE, has received numerous letters, visits, and telephone calls in regard to the matter.

Receives Many Protests.

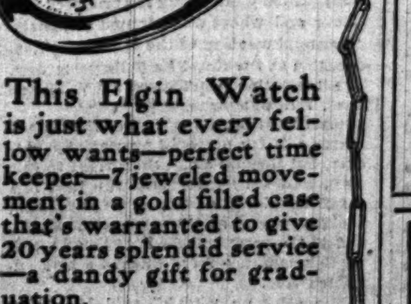

"I haven't had time to read everything that has been sent to me in regard to the matter," he said last night. "Many of the visitors have lived in Georgia and they have told me of cases somewhat similar. I have written to the senators from Georgia and to the governor, but have not yet received a reply.

"Boys must be either sentenced to the farm or to the road chain gang. The older boys go to the chain gang, where negroes and white men are chained together. It seems that the Supreme court decision has created a great deal of feeling in Georgia, too, and I believe the legislators of Georgia will be ashamed to retain the statute."

The Southern Woman's club has appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. George P. Cady, Mrs. E. E. Wagoner, Mrs. S. Hull, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, and Mrs. Addie Farrar Andre to investigate the matter. Mrs. Andre, who is chairman of the committee, said last night that steps have already been taken to ascertain all of the facts in the case.

Women Take Up Fight.

"We have written to the proper authorities in Georgia for a full statement," said Mrs. Andre. "After we have received this we will act. I have no doubt that the courts are not to blame. The law probably gave them no discretion. After we have received our report from Georgia we will appeal to the leading citizens, to members of the legislature and to the governor to have the law under which the boy was convicted repealed."

FINANCE DRAGON ON STORKE TRAIL

ALL OVER $1,500, CHECK.

Oak Park Trust and Savings Bank Reports "St. Georgie" Has No Account.

Butler R. Storke, the St. Georgie—Not St. George—of finance whose recent adventures in the Land of Easy Money have been chronicled at some lenght in these columns, tilted a tilt of such dolor in that region yesterday that unless he displays extraordinary agility this morning and breaks a lance or two he may be eaten up by the terrible dragons of La Salle street.

Young Mr. Storke is accused of drawing a check upon a bank in which he has no funds. He did it in the course of a business adventure which at its outset seemed full of goodly prospects and fat profits.

Just "a Little Check."

This particular adventure started on March 31. On that day Mr. Storke called on Fred W. Fairman of Zeller & Co. and informed him that he had fifty shares of Fort Dearborn National bank which he would cheerfully dispose of at $262 the share.

Fort Dearborn is a stock which, in the argot of the demons of the street, is "closely held." Bids as high as $265 with no stock offered have been made. Mr. Fairman therefore accepted Mr. Storke's proposition with considerable alacrity.

So Mr. Storke wrote Mr. Fairman a check for $1,500 to insure him against loss in case the stock were not delivered. This check was drawn on the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank.

The law of the "street" is that the stock which Storke sold Fairman should be delivered the next day. It has not been delivered yet.

Fairman Tires of Waiting.

Finally Fairman got tired of waiting, so he sent Storke's $1,500 check to the Continental and Commercial National bank for deposit. It went through the State Bank of Chicago, which clears for the Oak Park institution, and in the fullness of time it came back to Mr. Fairman marked "N. S. F.," which is La Salle street patois for "not sufficient funds."

Immediately Mr. Fairman got the Oak Park bank on the telephone.

"What's the matter with this check?" he demanded.

"I'll see," said the cashier. There was a pause and then the cashier answered: "Why, Mr. Storke has no account with this bank."

It was at this stage of the game that the St. Georgie of La Salle street began to pass into the Valley of Hard Sledding Toward the Slough of the Rough Finish.

Storke explained to Mr. Fairman that Dr. T. W. Barhydt, from whom he had expected to get the fifty shares, had held the stock for his wife and had lost his power of attorney. He had to send for a new one.

When the second power of attorney came it was for stock of the Commercial and Continental National bank, and not the Fort Dearborn. Then Dr. Barhydt had gone to Louisville, Ky., where his wife lived, to get the right power of attorney. The floods had risen and clasped Dr. Barhydt in their detaining grip.

Fairman, having regard for Storke's youth—he is only 23—decided to give him more time. He agreed to wait until yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

Detectives on the Trail.

When noon came Storke informed Mr. Fairman that Dr. Barhydt had arrived in the city but had left surreptitiously without delivering the stock. Storke added that he had detectives on Dr. Barhydt's trail.

Mr. Fairman's patience was now exhausted. He made inquiries at the Fort Dearborn bank and learned none of the bank's stock was in his or his wife's name.

Later Storke was called to the detectives' offices and given a severe talking to. He finally agreed to bring a letter showing he would deliver the stock or put up $1,500 to make his check good.

CALL UPON HOYNE TO STEP ASIDE

Judge Owens and Citizens' Association Members Want Special State's Attorney.

FOR VOTE DEVICE INQUIRY

Criticism Roused by Proposed H.-H. Grand Jury Investigation of H.-H. Men.

It was proposed last night that State's Attorney Hoyne, having decided on a grand jury inquiry into the voting machine scandal, should ask a judge to appoint a special states' attorney for this work. This suggestion followed intimations that an outside, specially appointed official could delve into this matter more gracefully than Mr. Hoyne, who is allied with the "H. H." faction of the local democracy. This faction also includes those concerned in the voting machine deal.

The question of asking Mr. Hoyne to step aside and allow Judge Richard Burke or some other judge of the Criminal court to name a special state's attorney will be brought before the Citizens' association when it meets on Monday.

The association's executive committee met yesterday, but did not consider the voting machine scandal. Members said the matter would be considered at the next session, and if necessary a letter will be sent to Mr. Hoyne asking him to give way.

Owens Urges Special Investigator.

Last night, however, County Judge John E. Owens, who demanded the grand jury action just as the legislature adopted the resolution calling for a joint committee to investigate the $1,000,000 election machine deal, said he hoped Mr. Hoyne would see fit to ask for a special investigator to conduct the hearing.

"I don't care who has charge," said the judge. "I demand and insist upon a speedy investigation. I want all the facts made public regardless of the grand jury decision.

"If Mr. Hoyne feels he may be embarrassed in conducting the hearing he certainly should ask for the appointment of a special state's attorney. But whoever handles the matter should start work at once."

Legislators Made Indignant.

A statement was issued by Hoyne yesterday. He said he would call the attention of the April grand jury, which meets on Monday, to the alleged frauds in connection with the purchase of $1,000,000 worth of voting machines.

Judge Owens is a stanch H.-H. adherent. The election board members, Taylor and Kellermann, who voted for the purchase of the machines, also are H.-H. men. They have remained silent under the deluge of insinuations regarding the deal until the legislature took action.

That a joint legislative committee in any event would have power to override any action by Hoyne was declared by lawyers who are members of the general assembly.

See Effort to Block Public Inquiry.

The proposed legislative investigation of all of the tax expending bodies in Cook county outside of the city administration was generally interpreted as another effort to block a public investigation of the voting machine deal.

Several asserted the resolution calling for the inquiry was not extremely fortunate in the selection of its father, Representative Frank J. Ryan. He, however, stoutly maintained that he is its real "dad." He denied that he had adopted it after finding it on his doorstep or in his capitol mail box.

He gave the impression that he is uncertain whether the infant will be killed before it is christened, except as its anxious friends already have affixed the cognomen of "Lexow."

Ryan Removed by Ericson.

Ryan was superintendent of the water pipe extension bureau some years back. He "was separated from the service of the city by City Engineer John Ericson, under date of Oct. 23, 1899, on charges of disobedience of orders, inefficiency, neglect of duty, and soliciting and causing to be solicited subscriptions of money from employés under his supervision," according to the civil service records.

The charges and specifications could not be found yesterday, but the proceedings of the commission at the time indicate that Ryan did not consider his offense serious. On page 491 of the 1899 record, Ryan is quoted as saying: "No crime was committed on my part." He proceeds to explain that he will step aside in order to save the jobs of "poor men" who received only $2.25 a day.

That all happened during Mayor Harrison's former tenure of office. Ryan did not get back into grace until the mayor was elected the last time. Ryan was then selected as a Harrison-Hearst leader in the Thirty-first ward. In the interim, however, he was deputy oil inspector.

Got Job Quickly.

Mayor Harrison was not in office six weeks this last time before a job was picked out for Ryan. He was appointed ward superintendent May 26, 1911, under temporary authority until after July 1. This position pays $3,200 a year, but he was taken from it and given a position called "investigator and real estate expert" for the bureau of compensation. He started at that work July 17, 1911, and continued at it until June 12, 1912. His close connection with the city administration during this period is thus clearly indicated.

Some weeks ago a statement was issued from the election commissioners' office relative to certain changes they desired in the primary and election laws. It so happens that House Bill No. 62 seeks to amend sections Nos. 1, 8, 9, 10, 27, 28, 30, 35, 51, 53, 57, and 58 of the primary law passed March 9, 1910, and later amended on May 27, 1912. The father of this bill is Ryan. House bill No. 64 seeks to amend Sec. 2 of the seventh article. Its father also is Ryan.

Evidently he has made a close study of the primary and election laws or some one in the election commissioners' office has been supplying him with improvements which they think should be made.

Followed Butts' Move.

Ryan's resolution for a "Lexow" investigation followed the introduction of a resolution of Representative Butts for an investigation of the voting machine purchase. Ryan would not discuss the purpose of his resolution yesterday, except in a superficial manner.

Ryan does not stand high in the opinion of the Legislative Voters' league, although the voters of his district have twice sent him to Springfield. The league has wavered in its estimate from time to time. On Nov. 8, 1910, it said: "Frank J. Ryan, 6828 Bishop street. No reported occupation at present; should be defeated."

Sept. 15 of the same year, the league bulletin said: "Formerly deputy oil inspector for the city and also superintendent of the water pipe extension bureau. No reported occupation at present; ex-president of the ward club. Not recommended."

China's Declaration of Independence.

(Address of the Republic Issued to the World Yesterday.)

"ON this eighth day of the fourth month in the second year of the republic of China, the date fixed for the first opening of our permanent national assembly, the members of the senate and the house of representatives, having met in these halls to celebrate the event, now make this declaration of their sentiments.

"The will of Heaven is manifested through the will of the people. That the hundreds of millions of the people possess the authority of the state is not proclaimed now for the first time. The monarchy, so long corrupt, proved unworthy of the grave responsibilities intrusted to it by the will of the people, but with the introduction of popular government the representatives of the people must share the likes and dislikes of the people. They are to give expression to the desires and voice the will of the people; they hold the reins in behalf of the nation to govern with severity or leniency, with parsimony or extravagance; they become the pivot upon which the prosperity of the state is made to turn. For the success or failure, safety or danger, adversity or good fortune, theirs is the merit or the blame.

"Can we be otherwise than anxious? Yet through great tribulation the spring comes to prosperity, and our bad management and anxieties are a means to happiness. Now, therefore, we unite to form this assembly and presume to publish our aspirations. May ours be a just government. May our five races lay aside their prejudices. May rain and sunshine bring bounteous harvest and cause the husbandman to rejoice. May the scholar be happy in his home and the merchant conduct his trade in peace. May no duty of government be unfulfilled and no hidden wound go unredressed. Thus may the glory be spread abroad and these our words be echoed far and wide, that those in distant lands who hear may rejoice, our neighbors on every side give us praise, and may the new life of the old nation be lasting and unending. Who of us can dare to be neglectful of his duties!"

upon the industry and prosperity of the country.

By July 1, therefore, it is hoped the bill will become law.

May Tack on Duty.

There is a provision in the administrative section of the bill which may have an important effect upon importations into the United States. This is what is known as "the dumping clause."

It provides that if the export or actual selling price of an article to an importer in the United States is less than the home price there shall be imposed an extra equivalent duty not to exceed 15 per cent ad valorem.

Only when the duties otherwise established are equal to 50 per cent will the goods be exempted from the special duty.

The Republicans are chuckling over this provision, saying it means additional protection and expressing astonishment at its adoption as a Democratic principle when in the past it has been opposed by the Democrats.

No Chance for Treaty Troubles.

President Wilson said today in a joking way that now the Democrats were in control of the government they knew what it was safe to do. He did not believe this provision would interfere with any existing treaties and he was of the opinion it would be a further blow to the trusts.

Senator Sherman of Illinois is preparing to make a vigorous protest against the removal of the duty from flour as provided in the Underwood tariff bill. From the inquiry he has made so far he has reason to believe the senate will restore a part at least of the protection on this product.

The senator has received a bushel of letters from Illinois milling interests complaining that their industry will be ruined by free trade in flour.

MILLERS PROTEST TARIFF ON WHEAT AND ITS PRODUCTS.

A resolution denouncing the proposed tariff no flour and wheat was adopted at the eleventh annual meeting of the Millers' National federation at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

The resolution, introduced by William C. Edgar, follows:

Resolved, that the millers of the United States ask for no tariff protection whatever, but they do claim their right to fair play, and they therefore urge that if a tariff be placed on wheat an equalising tariff be placed on the products of wheat, and if the products of wheat be admitted to this country free, wheat be also admitted free.

"The duty on wheat," said Mr. Edgar, "according to the bill introduced in the house, is to be 10 cents a bushel, and the duty on flour 10 per cent ad valorem, except when imported from a country which does not impose a tariff on American flour, in which case it is to be admitted free.

"This means that flour from Canada, Germany, and other countries which maintain a tariff on flour will have to pay a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem until they see it to their advantage to change the laws, but flour from Great Britain will have free access to American markets."

Andrew J. Hunt of Wichita, Kas., was elected president of the federation and A. P. Husband of Chicago secretary.

NEW CENSUS BUREAU CHIEF.

W. J. Harris Will Be Appointed Director by President Today to Succeed E. D. Durand.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—W. J. Harris, Democratic state chairman of Georgia, will be nominated by President Wilson tomorrow to be director of the census to succeed E. Dana Durand.

CHINA ENROLLED AMONG REPUBLICS

PRAISED AT WASHINGTON

State Officials See in Document Influence of American Colleges; Recognition Sure.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—The Chinese declaration of independence, which took the form of an address to the world, was cabled here from Peking today, and after being read in the cabinet meeting was made public. State department officials said it reflected the influence of the young Chinese members who have been educated in American colleges.

The president and his cabinet praised it enthusiastically, and formal recognition of the republic by the United States awaits only the actual organization of the constituent assembly, which meets again tomorrow in Peking.

Wilson Talks on Alien Land Law.

President Wilson today expressed the hope that the pending legislation in California, by which aliens ineligible to American citizenship would be prohibited from owning land, would not prove objectionable to Japan. He realizes that Japan is inclined to view such legislation as a contradiction of the spirit of her treaty with the United States, and while officially unable to interfere in the situation, he expressed confidence that the California legislature, cognizant of possible international difficulties, would enact a law that would prove acceptable to Japan.

While the administration does not construe the treaty as giving Japanese specifically the right to own land, it feels the agreement does guarantee that Japanese shall be treated on the basis of most favored nation citizens under the same clause as is contained in many American treaties with other governments.

Agitation Deplored on Coast.

Sacramento, Cal., April 11.—The agitation in political and business circles in Tokio concerning the proposed alien land law now pending before the California legislature is not justified by the facts in the case, according to members of the senate.

"Nothing in the bill now before the legislature can be construed as affecting the present holdings of any aliens, regardless of their right to become citizens," said Senator Thompson, who was active in drafting the bill. "No confiscation is planned and the Japanese have been misinformed as to our intentions. Land now held by aliens may be retained forever, for all that this bill is concerned."

LA FOLLETTE SCORES WILSON.

Senator Will Publish Editorial Against the Assistant Secretary of Treasury Appointment.

Madison, Wis., April 11.—[Special.]—Senator La Follette tomorrow in a signed editorial will charge that "the system" is at work in the Wilson administration. It contains a protest against the appointment of John Skelton Williams, as assistant secretary of the treasury, declaring him to be a representative of the interlocking directorates, and named by the interests, who opposed the appointment of Robert Woolley, who had been expected to be the choice.

Senator La Follette asks this pointed question:

"One month after the 4th of March men are asking: Are the representatives of the interlocking directorates to secure a strangle hold upon the treasury department under the Wilson administration?"

This question is asked after he has reviewed the personnel of the Taft and Roosevelt cabinets.

TAKE TWO FOR $75,000 FRAUDS.

Police Arrest Members of "Wire Tapping" Gang on Charge of Swindling.

New York, April 11.—J. A. Thompson and Frank Tarbeaux, reputed members of a local "wire tapping" gang, were arrested today by New York detectives in Charleston, S. C., according to word received by the police here.

They are wanted in this city on the charge of swindling S. R. Jones, a wealthy Pittsburgh coal operator out of $20,000 last September, and a Col. Pendleton of Atlantic City out of $55,000 a year ago.

Thompson was arrested in St. Augustine, Fla., in December, according to the police, and jumped his bail, fleeing to Daytona, Fla., back to St. Augustine, and then to Charleston. Tarbeaux's trail, they declare, led from this city to Daytona, Havana, Atlantic City, and Charleston.

CORPORAL TANNER TO STICK.

His Job as Register of Wills Will Not Be Given to Senator La Follette's Brother.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—"Corporal" James Tanner, lifelong Republican and past commander of the G. A. R., will not have to surrender his job here as register of wills to a Democrat. At the White House today it was said he would be retained in office, though William LaFollette, Democrat, brother of the senator from Wisconsin, wants the job. "Corporal" Tanner was wounded so many times in the civil war that parts of both his legs were amputated.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS OPEN TO MEMBERS OF THE PRESS.

Minority Congressmen Begin Consideration of Tariff—Commission Resolution Presented by Representative Gardner

Washington, D. C., April 11.—The Republicans of the house tonight met in open caucus and began consideration of the tariff.

The question of making the caucus a public meeting kept the Republicans in secret session for more than an hour. As less than half of the Republican representatives were present, it was decided to open the doors to the press for tonight's meeting, and to allow the question of making future caucuses open to be settled at a caucus next week to be held after the Democratic tariff bill is reported to the house.

Minority Leader Mann offered the resolution to open the doors of tonight's caucus and Representative Madden of Illinois presented the one to make all Republican conferences public meetings.

The caucus laid plans for a vigorous organized opposition to the Underwood tariff bill. Amendments providing for a nonpartisan tariff board and for revisions of the cotton and wool schedules were ordered prepared and ready for the caucus Thursday night.

CITY WINS POINT IN UTILITIES BILL

EACH MAY MAKE CHOICE.

Commission Idea Can Be Adopted by Referendum Vote of All the People.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., April 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Dunne has made only one concession to the home rule demand from Mayor Harrison in preparing the final draft of the administration utilities bill, which was completed this afternoon. It now provides the measure shall not be mandatory upon cities of 25,000 population or greater, but that any city of such classification can come within the terms of the proposed law by ordinance of the city council, to be adopted by referendum vote if desired by a suitable percentage of its citizens.

The administration bill, therefore, will not be forced on Chicago nor upon these other cities, now in the "more than 25,000" class: Aurora, Bloomington, Danville, Decatur, East St. Louis, Elgin, Evanston, Joliet, Moline, Peoria, Quincy, Rock Island, Rockford, and Springfield.

Abolishes Rail Commission.

The bill abolishes the present railway and warehouse commission and places within the power of the utilities commission full control and authority over railroads. The underlying theory of the administration, apparently, is that if the bill becomes a law public sentiment in Chicago would demand that the city come under it, without making such a possibility at all compulsory in the act itself.

There are to be five commissioners at a salary of $10,000 each, to be appointed by the governor, and not necessarily from more than one political party.

Appeal to Supreme Court.

One matter agreed upon today covered the proposition of appeal from decisions of the commission. This section now reads:

"On such review, the commission shall make such determination as seems to it just and reasonable in view of all the facts in the case, and the decision and order in such cases shall be prima facie just and reasonable in all courts and court procedure." In ordinary decisions of the commission appeal is permitted to the Circuit court of Sangamon county, and thence to the Supreme court directly.

Interborough Rapid Transit Company Executes $100,000,000 Instrument to Guaranty Trust Company.

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—The $100,000,000 mortgage of the Interborough Rapid Transit company to the Guaranty Trust company of New York, the largest mortgage ever given in the world, was filed today with the register of New York county, Max S. Griefenhagen.

One of the chief features of the indenture is that it is based almost wholly upon intangibles, namely, the franchises, the leasehold and the rolling stock of the company.

The tax for the entire sum will amount to $1,500,000 and for the recording fees $717.25.

The Beautiful OHIO ELECTRIC

"He Who Rides with His Back to the Wind Rides to the Grave"

SO SAYS the old German proverb. You should not buy an electric in which any of the passengers must ride backward. It means either insufficient ventilation or dangerous drafts.

In the distinctive, dignified, aristocratic Ohio Electric all passengers face forward.

And the Ohio is the only car today which offers you the double drive from both front and rear seat. When you have guests, drive from the front seat, with a clear view ahead. When you are alone, drive in seclusion from the rear seat.

Call and see this wonderful car and let us demonstrate the double drive, the magnetic disc control, and the other exclusive Ohio features.

You'll understand, then, why it is becoming increasingly difficult to sell the old-fashioned single-drive car in Chicago today at any price.

AN AD in THE TRIBUNE is worth two in the rest

'MAN OF MYSTERY' ADMITS IDENTITY

"Yes, I'm Von Klein; I Wanted to Avert Disgrace of Family," Says Prisoner.

STATEMENT TO LAWYER.

Duper of Women Said to Have Posed in Minneapolis as Rich Australian.

Edmund E. C. von Klein, whose mask of mystery was penetrated two days ago by THE TRIBUNE, last night admitted his identity, in a statement to his attorneys, who visited him in the county jail. He is the son of Dr. Carl H. von Klein, medical bibliographer and collaborator whose research work and ancient translations are widely known in the medical world.

Charles Erbstein, Emile Van Bever, and Charles V. Barrett, attorneys for Von Klein, gave out the following stenographic statement from their client:

"I am no man of mystery, but the son of a reputable citizen and scholar. My name is Edmund E. C. von Klein. I am past 30 years of age, and from my boyhood the one desire of my father has always been to rear me in an atmosphere of learning and honesty, and to that end and purpose I received a thorough academic training.

"Mysterious man? No! Business man? Yes. And when the time comes for me to tell my side in court no finger of suspicion or scorn will be pointed my way."

Father Admits Identity of Son.

Dr. Von Klein for the first time admitted that the man who since Sunday has been known in the county jail as "Handsome Jack Lewis, the man of mystery," was his son.

Information from Minneapolis is that Von Klein made his advent in that city in January, 1902, under the name of Dr. Harry Kohler of Sydney, Australia. He secured rooms at the home of the parents of the girl who later became his wife.

He was handsome and cultured, said that he had graduated in medicine in Australia and was then something of fortune teller or seer. Several months later he disappeared and two days afterward Miss Louise Illstrup left home. Shortly afterward Mr. and Mrs. James Illstrup, the girl's parents, received a letter from Chicago signed by their daughter and E. E. C. Von Klein and also "Dr. Kohler." The letter read that they had been married in Chicago, but did not explain the change in names. After the wedding Von Klein in some way gained the reputation of being a wealthy land and stock owner of New South Wales.

Builds First Bungalow.

It was at this time that Von Klein built the first bungalow on the north shore at Evanston, built spacious stables in which he installed high bred horses and pedigreed dogs. The Von Klein home at 1310 Lee street, Evanston, was the scene of a number of social events.

Six years ago the couple moved to Minneapolis, where Von Klein joined the Elks' club and several other organizations. The couple occupied a residence in the best section of the city, maintained a garage with several machines, and were reputed wealthy.

Under a warrant for Jack Lewis, alias Clarke, Von Klein is held on the original charge of Miss Ethel Newcomb of Fort Wayne, Ind., who alleges that Von Klein married her in San Francisco in September, 1911, three days after a flirtation in the St. Francis hotel, and that he deserted her three days later in Portland, Ore., taking with him several thousand dollars' worth of her jewelry.

PHILIP MUSICA IN CONFESSION TELLS OF DEFRAUDING BANKS

Member of New York Hair Dealing Firm Charged with Getting Money by False Invoices, Makes Statement.

New York, April 11.—Philip Musica, accused with his two brothers and their aged father of defrauding banks here and abroad of several hundred thousand dollars through false invoices on shipments of human hair, has confessed, District Attorney Whitman announced tonight. The young man told his story shortly after pleading not guilty in court today. Arthur and George, the brothers, made the same plea. Old Antonio Musica, the father, lay ill in the Tombs and was not arraigned.

"Philip Musica made a lengthy confession," Mr. Whitman said, "and did not attempt to shield his father or his brothers."

Philip's disclosures were not ended today, however. Tomorrow he will go on with his story. Whether his confession involved persons outside the Musica family Mr. Whitman would not say. The prosecutor declared the aggregate amount of the hair swindle was nearly $600,000, according to Philip Musica's statements. The latter were made voluntarily, Mr. Whitman added, no promise of leniency being held out.

MORGAN'S BODY IN NEW YORK

Lies in State at His Home Among Many Art Treasures.

U. S. FLAG DRAPES CASKET.

Hundreds of Persons Brave Drenching Rain to Pay Respects to Dead.

New York, April 11.—The body of J. Pierpont Morgan lies tonight among the art treasures of his private library. It reached New York on the steamer France in a driving rain this afternoon and at dusk was taken from the ship's mortuary chapel, somber in heavy velvet and resplendent in silver and gold, to a motor hearse, which conveyed it from the pier to the library. Hundreds braved the drenching rain and stood in the streets to watch it pass.

Among the rare bronzes, costly paintings, and other art objects which he brought here from Europe the body of the dead financier will lie in state until Monday morning, when the funeral services will be held in St. George's Protestant Episcopal church.

Relatives Leave Before Body.

Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, the dead financier's daughter, and Miss Helen Morgan Hamilton, his granddaughter, the only women in the funeral party, were met aboard the vessel by Mrs. J. P. Morgan Jr. The three women left in an automobile for the Morgan home before the body was removed. J. P. Morgan, son of the dead man, met the France at quarantine and remained aboard with Herbert L. Satterlee, H. H. Harjes, a partner in the Morgan banking firm in Paris, and Dr. George Dixon. Junius S. Morgan, grandson of the financier, joined the party when the vessel docked.

When all other passengers had left the vessel, the men of the funeral party assembled in the mortuary chapel to follow the body to the hearse. The mirrored doors opened and ten uniformed men of the France's crew emerged with the heavy casket.

Across it was draped a great American flag—the same flag which the United States government gave to the France to commemorate its maiden voyage as the largest ship which the French had ever sent over to America.

Many Floral Offerings.

Among these offerings was a wreath wrought in solid silver from the town of Aix-les-Bains, a beneficiary of Mr. Morgan's generosity. A great cross of orchids, which had withered on the trip across the Atlantic, remained in the chapel. This was the offering of the German emperor. Later it was sent to the Morgan library.

A garden of rare flowers, which perished en route, were strewn upon the Atlantic before the ship reached port.

ACCUSED SLAYER OF PARENTS FACES JURY TO PLEAD CAUSE.

Ray Pfanschmidt Offers Alibi—Says He Was Not at Farm When Crime Was Committed.

Quincy, Ill., April 11.—Ray Pfanschmidt today told the jury which is trying him for his life that he is innocent of the charge of murder hanging over him. Without hesitation and with an explicit recital of his actions, he sought to establish for himself an alibi for Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 27 and 28, 1912, the two nights when the state alleges the triple murder on the Pfanschmidt farm was committed.

"The last time I saw my parents was on the Sunday before the fire," he said. On Friday night, the young man asserted, he went to see his fiancée, Miss Esther Reeder; left there about 10:30 and then came to Quincy, stopping at a lunch counter and then going to his tent in the camp north of the city.

Saturday he was around Quincy all day long and throughout the evening he played pool until 10:30 and then went directly to his tent, no one being there when he arrived.

The defense is working on the theory that the fire at the Pfanschmidt farm began early Saturday evening, when Ray Pfanschmidt was still admittedly in Quincy. The defense further insists there was an odor of burning flesh about the Pfanschmidt farm all day Saturday, claiming thereby to prove some person was in the house destroying the bodies of the victims.

ANGRY CITIZENS COW I. W. W. CROWD

Unwelcome Visitors at Grand Junction, Colo., Leave on Demand.

ASK MAYOR TO RESIGN.

Grand Junction, Colo., April 11.—Confronted by the hasty organization of business men, high school athletes, and members of union labor locals, sworn in to preserve the peace, the band of more than a hundred Industrial Workers of the World, waiting here for reinforcements from the west to march to Denver, left town tonight.

Three thousand people thronged the streets until a late hour, while special police patroled the resident section in anticipation of trouble.

The exodus followed a massmeeting of 500 citizens, which adopted resolutions demanding the sheriff drive out the invaders.

The meeting also demanded the resignation of Mayor Todd, a Socialist, because he was considered friendly to the workers.

Bull Pen for Visitors.

The citizens' organization to maintain the peace will be continued in anticipation of 300 more workers due tomorrow from the west. The visitors will be escorted to the bullpen and fed on bread and water until ready to leave.

Seattle, Wash., April 11.—Members of the Industrial Workers of the World will not be admitted to citizenship in any court of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana, as a result of an understanding reached today by Chief Naturalization Examiner John Speed Smith and his assistants, who will challenge all such applications for citizenship.

Buffalo Car Strike Settled.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 11.—The strike of motormen and conductors of the International railway company, which began last Sunday, was settled today through the mediation of Mayor Fuhrmann. Both sides made concessions.

GOMPERS SICK IN HOSPITAL.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is confined in a hospital here, threatened with mastoiditis of the left ear. For several weeks he has suffered considerable pain, and today he was taken to the hospital for constant attention and complete rest from his work.

STRIKE TO TIE UP BUILDINGS

Trades Council Calls Out Workers on Two Structures.

SYMPATHY FOR MARBLE MEN

Effort Will Be Made to Force an Early Settlement.

Workmen on two large downtown building under construction last night were ordered not to return to work today. The order was given by the business agents of the building trades council. It is feared it will be followed by others that will obstruct seriously work on several big buildings in various stages of completion.

The structures immediately affected are the Consumers' building at State and Quincy streets and the Advertisers' building in Madison street between Clark and La Salle streets. Each is eighteen stories high.

The council has empowered its agents to call general strikes on all buildings where the marble workers are kicking.

Four thousand elevated railroad employés were told yesterday that no wage and working conditions agreement had been reached, but that the arbitrators are hopeful of a settlement on Monday.

The delay in signing the agreement is caused by minor differences, which, it was declared, will not affect the scale of hours and wages.

It is believed a wage scale giving an increase of 2½ cents to 5 cents an hour has been gained by many of the trainmen, but other employés will receive only a slight raise.

NO CLEW FOUND IN LONDON TO MISSING RICH AMERICAN.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 11.—The search for Joseph Wilberforce Martin, the wealthy cotton merchant of Memphis, Tenn., who disappeared a few days ago, continues, but no clew has been discovered.

A report that he was among the guests at the Hotel Savoy proved to be without foundation. Another story was to the effect that a man supposed to be Mr. Martin was seen in the company of a beautiful Brazilian woman and he was represented as being in a semi-dazen condition. Inquiries proved, however, that the man who not Mr. Martin.

Friends say Mr. Martin's banking account in London is intact. All his jewelry and papers, including valuable documents relating to business, are safe.

HOPE TO DEFEAT GENERAL STRIKE

PLAN TO HALT DISORDER.

Members of Brussels Typographical Union Decide to Remain at Work.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 11.—The Belgian government is preparing to resist with all its resources the general strike of the Belgian workmen, which is scheduled to begin on Monday. The government has the support of the conservative interests of the country.

The Socialists are confident that nearly 400,000 men will leave their work in response to the strike order. The local strike committees are showing great activity in arranging to find indigent strikers, and in placing the children with sympathizers beyond the frontiers.

Workers Warned by Leaders.

The workmen have been admonished that the best means of gaining their end is to display restraint and calm and peaceful endurance.

Some of the members of the cabinet believe the strike will be feebly supported by the workmen. Others think it will become general and declare order must be maintained, and anybody desiring to work must be protected in exercising that right.

Workers' unions in many districts throughout the country took a vote last night on the question of joining in the strike. At Horstal 2,700 of the 3,000 employés of the National Arms factory voted in favor of the movement.

The Typograhical union of Brussels showed little sympathy with the strike, and the members decided to remain at work. In other places, however, the typographical unions resolved to strike by a unanimous vote.

Means Loss of $800,000 a Day.

Belgium stands to lose $800,000 every day the general strike lasts, if, as the Socialists declare and hope, 50 per cent of the industrial laborers quit work next Monday. This is the estimate made by economists.

The full realization of the tremendous economic blow impending is beginning to permeate all sections of the population, and a feeling of great uneasiness reigns.

The decision of the glassworkers to join the strike has produced consternation. Every furnace that is permitted to die down must be destroyed with dynamite and rebuilt.

LEONINE.

The Spartan firmness of the Hon. John E. Owens, judge of the County court of Cook county and therefore and thereby source of all authority in the election commissioners' office in calling upon the Hon. Maclay Hoyne, state's attorney of Cook county, to proceed sternly and quickly to inquire into the purchase of voting machines draws new admiration to that leonine young judge.

The fact that the house of representatives has passed a resolution for such an inquiry merely fires his ardor and braces his determination.

DANCE HALL DANGERS.

The condition in Chicago dance halls, to which attention was directed in a recent editorial, is now brought up for the consideration of the senatorial vice commission. The general superintendent of the Juvenile Protective league gave testimony in line with THE TRIBUNE's statements, and her revelations unquestionably make important factors in the problem which the commission is studying.

It should be insisted, nevertheless, that the responsibility for them rests upon local negligence and the duty to correct them upon local authorities. Mayor Harrison is right in opposing state control of Chicago police. But he would do well to back his argument by prompt, energetic, and persistent handling of this shameful abuse of the people's resources of entertainment.

WORTH REPEATING.

A pair of eyeglasses costing but 56 cents, if secured in time, will prevent a schoolchild from becoming backward, asserts a New York physician. Neglect, on the other hand, those repeated headaches of the child, and not only will his work in school suffer but his career also. Such neglect may handicap him for life.

What the New York physician asserts is not new. The school authorities know it, and many parents know it. Still, it is the things that are self-evident that are most often disregarded.

There are many parents in our large cities who have an unreasonable dread of the surgeon's knife. Just because they never have suffered from enlarged tonsils, or never have known what adenoids were, they shrink at the suggestion of having their child operated on for these things. They will stuff him with medicine, and cause him to suffer and his physique to run down, in the hope that in time these ailments will disappear of themselves. If nothing else will, repetition eventually may bring these parents around to respond to the suggestions of the school physician.

GOOD WORK.

The Seventh regiment returns to Chicago with honors. They went forth to war, a war with belligerent nature which meant hardship and danger, and they have acquitted themselves well to the honor of their officers, their regiment, and the community which is their home.

We are ready enough to thank them now. We are equally ready to make our thanks substantial. The men who go into the national guard are performing a patriotic service. If war ever comes they will be in the first line with the regulars. We ought to see to it by liberal legislation that these men are given the best opportunities to perfect themselves. That means well equipped armories and opportunity to use them. It means some slight compensation, such as is proposed in the conservative militia pay bill championed by Maj. Gen. Young of the Illinois National Guard.

And Col. Moriarty of the Seventh infantry will not begrudge it if the credit his command has won reflect some of its influence upon the cause of Col. Foreman's First cavalry, which needs and, what is more, deserves a new armory. Both regiments are a credit to the national guard, to Illinois, and to Chicago. Our appreciation of their merits should not be all words.

OUR BUDDING CENSORSHIP.

Max Reinhardt is, perhaps, the greatest living man of the theater.

Maurice Maeterlinck is one of the greatest living writers.

"The Miracle" is Reinhardt's most tremendous attempt to revive in beauty the art of pantomime. It is based on the Belgian poet's reverent and lovely dramatization of the legend of Sister Beatrice.

Two thousand people take part in the performance. Two hundred thousand dollars were spent on the performance before the first ticket was sold. "The Miracle" ran through the winter in London to what were probably the largest audiences that have ever attended any theatrical representation in modern times. Critics and clergymen praised it. The jealous British censor approved it. It was only when its scenes were reproduced in moving picture films, and thus encountered the acute moral sense of Chicago's censor, Police Sergeant O'Connor, that it was discovered to be offensive to morals and met an official ban.

The incident is more interesting than that of "September Morn." The work of art then involved was unimportant if innocuous. Our censor now challenges the work of two very great men. With a wave of his masterful hand he overrules two men of genius, the judgment of two world capitals, and the applause of hundreds of thousands of people in Germany and in England.

It might be suggested to him who is responsible for Sergeant O'Connor's activities that the spectacle of a policeman enthroned in the high seat of judgment in the fourth city of the world is rather remarkable. As was pointed out at the time of the "September Morn" episode, if we are to have censorship in these matters, and within bounds censorship is desirable, a somewhat more enlightened tribunal is needed.

HURRY, GENTLEMEN, HURRY.

Let the investigation of all things that have been or are or are to be, proceed. Let the legislature adopt the Hon. Mr. Ryan's resolution, clothe an inquisitorial body with powers of search and seizure, with domain over life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness, with authority to hale and examine, to judge and condemn, with palatine jurisdiction, with high, low, and middle justice, and the privilege of pit and gallows.

Let's have all things in all times investigated in Chicago and have the job done up so brown that all will be known, from the size of Citizen Jones' grocery bill to the fate of the Chicora.

Let us hear no more of an investigation to cover ten years. Such mere trifling with conditions will offend the earnestness of our citizens. Let inquiry be thorough and effort unrestricted.

Let us have a searching out of things, a probe that will go down like an oil drill and tap the deepest pocket in this city's hideous past. Let's have responsibility fixed for the Fort Dearborn massacre, and then come inquiring down, looking into the high jinks in the Green Tree tavern, where rum was 25 cents the half pint; into the outrageous discharge of Bernhard Blasy, the poor baker, by Thomas Cooke for getting married; into the suspension of publication by the Weekly Democrat on the specious pretense that the brig carrying its supply of paper was delayed in reaching port.

Let's discover who set fire to the Tremont house in '39, and look into the assessment against Joseph Laframboise, who got away with a 50 cent tax in '25. Let's find out why the legislature in '29, by nefarious vote and in pernicious intent, changed the method of voting in elections from ballot to viva voce, and thus enabled a muscular candidate to beat up all and sundry who voted against him, coercing the freemen and causing scandal.

With such a start as this it will be known that the legislature means business and is resolved to go to the furthest depths of our blackest past.

Let it be suggested to the investigators that while the iniquities of other years are being dragged out shrieking by the heels a subcommittee of the honorable commission sit in judgment upon the present.

Let an iniquity be taken red handed and wet with sin, fresh hatched or just discovered, before this stern tribunal, and let it be stamped out then and there, before it has grown to have a past. Iniquities so multiply in this fair city that without this agency for detection, correction, and punishment we shall soon be overwhelmed.

Wickedness prevails in high places and we need succor. Let the investigators sit as a summary court-martial upon affairs in city, county, sanitary district, election commission, etc. We know no other way to keep pace with the day's happenings. There is no agency now which possibly can prove itself adequate to the emergency.

Let the commission be established for life, with suitable appropriation out of funds not otherwise appropriated, biennially renewed, and let it sit as municipal guardian.

If ever a community sorely were in need of watchful care, this is the city. We are sure the Haitch & Haitchers, both upper case Haitches and lower case haitches, will lend their moral support to the establishment of a legislative tribunal for swift justice for present iniquities and for painstaking research into past ones.

The legislature has the opportunity; the Hon. Mr. Ryan has the inspiration; Chicago has the need.

The citizens are on the city walls looking for help. Let it come quickly. Let no cautious, contentious statesmanship whittle fine points on blunt and irrelevant questions. The main issue waits and Chicago perishes.

Quickly bring the universal, all embracing, all comprehensive, from the beginning of things to the end of time investigators, and let us know peace.

HOW VOCIFEROUSLY and persistently a flat wheel pertaining to an elevated railway car manages to advertise itself!

THE TRIBUNE doesn't mind an adverse criticism now and then, but it hopes that unfriendly critics will endeavor to refrain from using the phrase, "different than."

A CORRESPONDENT says "a good way to lose an old umbrella is to take it with you to a restaurant and forget it." To lose a good umbrella—but nobody needs any formula for that.

IN desperate cases it has been found possible to have an alley suitably paved if the owners of the contiguous property indicate a willingness to pay the rightful and necessary expenses of the job.

BUT wouldn't it be perfectly terrible if anything should happen to Col. J. Ham Lewis in the meantime?

THE song birds, we assume, do not keep track of the weather predictions, but they seldom arrive prematurely on the scene, and they seldom fail to show up promptly when comes the first real spring day.

AT this distance it looks as if the British authorities would be guilty of a mistake if they were to encourage Mrs. Pankhurst to make a martyr of herself.

AS A result of this year's experience, the baseball park of the future probably will be built up to a height just above the existing high water marks.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

SPITTING.

THE advice is given—and it is good advice—to encourage a productive cough. If bacteria are in the tubes or sacs causing mucus and pus to exude, some machinery for removal must be provided. Coughing is the machinery. It is the switch engine pulling the loads from the tracks out of the switch yards. It is good policy, wherever loads are ready, to send the switch engine in after them. It is bad policy to send the switch engine in when cars are loading, but not loaded.

After the switch engine has drawn the cars out of the yard it would be unwise to leave them on the main line track, particularly if passenger trains fully loaded were passing over that track every few minutes.

After the sputum has been coughed up it is projected on the ground. It contains the germs that caused the disease in the expectorator. The expectorator gets these loaded cars out of his switch yard, it is true, but they have been sent out on the through track, unless the expectorator has taken proper precaution.

The best destroyer of sputum is heat. Burning is usually feasible. Boiling water in volume four times the sputum will be effective. If heat disinfection is not feasible, carbolic acid solution will answer. The solution is made by dissolving one part of carbolic crystals in twenty parts of water. If liquid carbolic is used to make the solution use one part to eighteen parts of water.

To "throw in a little carbolic" does not get results. If you are disinfecting a cup of sputum use a cup of carbolic solution and let the mixture stand an hour.

After all these years of education pretty much everybody knows that the sputum of consumptives and of people with bronchitis and common colds should be disinfected.

No doubt many would like to know whether the spit of tobacco users is harmless. Some even believe the fallacy that tobacco sterilizes the spit.

It does not. The saliva of the tobacco user is the rinsing of his mouth—the wash water. Sometimes the sputum going through the mouth leaves consumptive germs behind.

The pneumonia germs and the germs of common colds are ofttimes in the mouths of well people. The wash water contains these.

If they fall on the floor the chances are the sunlight and air will kill them. They do not stand one chance in a hundred to survive.

However, the hundredths that survive give pneumonia and colds to people who wonder where they have got their infections.

The remedy is to stop all spitting. A partial remedy is to see that spitting is done into spittoons which contain carbolic acid solution.

WHEN TO WEAN BABY.

R. W. M. writes: "A nursing mother of an 8 months old baby is experiencing considerable nervous exhaustion as a result, apparently, of nursing the baby. The baby is the personification of health. Considering the near approach of summer, would it be advisable to wean the baby at this time or a month or two later, in order to give the mother a chance to recuperate? What disadvantage would this be to the baby, if any? What, in brief, are the symptoms of gastric ulcers and the general treatment? In their inception can they be cured without operation?"

REPLY.

1. If the mother is in condition to nurse the baby until October, she had better do so. If it seems probable that the mother will get too nervous or worn out before October, it is better that the baby be weaned before June than during the hot weather. April is better than May.

2. Hyperacidity, pain coming on at a definite time after eating, and faint traces of blood in the stools. Vomiting of blood is present in some cases. A careful physician can usually diagnose ulcer of the stomach. The treatment is rest in bed, light diet, and tonics. Skillfully treated for months, cure results. Cure without operation is the rule.

DRIVEN TO SUICIDE BY WORRY.

About ten days ago, a boy 19 years of age killed himself. The newspapers said he had no love affairs and there was no way to account for his act. The following note comes written below a newspaper notice:

"This boy killed himself because he had varicocele. I was his best friend, and we used to be together a great deal, and lately I noticed he seemed worried. I asked him what the trouble was, and he didn't want to tell me at first. But when I told him he should not worry about anything in this world he finally said he couldn't help it, as he had varicocele, and it couldn't be cured. I made light of it, and told him all he had to do was to wear a suspensory, but he did not seem satisfied. He told me not to tell any one, but now that he is dead, I thought I would let you know how serious some men take it when they have varicocele. S."

REPLY.

You were right. Varicocele is of no consequence, does little or no harm, and should not cause anybody to worry a moment. Yet I have known young men to worry night and day, to develop insomnia, and sometimes to lose out by reason of foolish fears, excited by reading varicocele advertisements.

THYROID INTOXICATION CASE.

E. W. R. writes: "A woman, now 64 years old, developed an exophthalmic goiter five years ago. At first there was violent palpitation of the heart and pain in the chest so severe that morphine and whisky were needed. These spells kept up for four years. A year and a half ago, she went on a farm, and began leading a simpler life. Now the symptoms are less severe, the attacks are rare, and the goiter is nearly gone. Two weeks ago, the head got wrong. There is a tendency to fall over and a constant throbbing in the right ear. The blood pressure is 200. Is this a forerunner of apoplexy? What is the trouble? Is staying in bed the proper course?"

REPLY.

1. No.
2. You have been suffering from thyroid intoxication. Within the last two years you have become partially accustomed to your dose of thyroid. It is possible that your symptoms are due to a temporary increase in thyroid secretion. It is probable you have some condition in your semicircular canals in your right ear. Your physician should examine carefully for this condition.
3. Yes.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

HOLLAND is perhaps the most democratic monarchical state in Europe, and has been celebrated through centuries for its independence with regard to thrones.

Yet the states general, that is to say, the national legislature, in discussing the proposed amendments to the constitution, have by an overwhelming vote insisted that all royal proclamations which now begin, "We, Wilhelmina, King of the Netherlands," shall in future run as follows: "We, Wilhelmina, by the grace of God, King of the Netherlands."

The ground is taken that since all human power emanates from God, it should not be lacking either from royal proclamations or from the provisions of the national constitution.

Although no salic law prevails in the Netherlands, the sovereign power is vested in a king, and that is why Wilhelmina in all Dutch official documents is referred to, not as "the queen" but as "the king."

Another amendment to the constitution accepted by the states general, and which is certain to pass, provides that in the event of the crown of the Netherlands passing to a foreign prince occupying another throne, he must renounce the latter within a period of ninety days, failing which he forfeits forever all his rights to the sovereignty of Holland.

The civil list of the monarch is increased by the terms of the amendment from 600,000 to 800,000 florins, which is less than $500,000. Queen Wilhelmina receives as much more from the crown domains.

Fortunately, however, she is wholly independent of these revenues, since she enjoys one of the largest private fortunes of any ruler in Europe, the foundations of which were laid by King William I. in the prosecution of vast enterprises tending to raise the commerce of the Netherlands both in Europe and in the orient.

The sovereign, her daughter, and any son to whom she may give birth, and who will bear the title of Prince of Orange, are exempt by the amendments from all taxation, no matter of what kind.

However, neither the queen mother nor Queen Wilhelmina's consort, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, enjoys any such immunity.

Another amendment requires the consent not only of the sovereign but also of the states general for the marriage of any member of the Dutch reigning house. Unions contracted without legislative consent are ipso facto invalid.

Finally, the amendments to the constitution provide for a simplification of the methods of naturalization. At present, these are a matter of considerable difficulty, requiring the enactment of a special bill in each case.

For the future, a law is to be devised covering all applications for citizenship, which will be granted by the government without further reference to parliament, if the provisions are complied with.

The first constitution after Holland's reconstruction as a kingdom was given in 1815, and amendments were voted in 1848 and in 1887.

One feature of the series of projected amendments which deserves attention is the expectation expressed therein of the birth of a male heir to the throne, who will necessarily supplant little Princess Juliana, now the queen's only child, and who will celebrate on the 30th of this month her fourth birthday.

The new lord chancellor of Ireland, the Rt. Hon. Ignatius O'Brien, hails from Cork, and is a Nationalist and a Roman Catholic. He has hitherto been attorney general, and in his new office will receive a salary of $30,000 a year.

He began life as a reporter on the Freeman's Journal in Dublin, which has been the nursery of so many Irish lawyers and government officials. Called to the bar in 1881, he won the hand of the daughter of John T. Scallan, one of the leading solicitors of Dublin, and this naturally had the effect of bringing him a large and lucrative practice, and of assuring his future, since the members of the English and Irish bar are not permitted to deal directly with their clients but are obliged to do so through solicitors. The solicitors engage their services and pay them.

Until the restoration of Ireland's parliament at Dublin the lord chancellor of Ireland has no legislative duties, and has to be content with presiding over the Court of Appeal and of the Chancery division of the High Court of Justice at Dublin.

Once Erin recovers home rule the lord chancellor of Ireland will be called upon once more to preside over the deliberations of the Irish house of lords, just in the same way that the lord high chancellor of Great Britain presides over the sessions of the house of lords at Westminster.

Sometimes the lord high chancellor of Ireland is a member of the cabinet, but more often not. In fact, the matter depends largely upon political exigencies, and the importance of the personage intrusted with the care of the great seal of the kingdom of Ireland.

The first lord chancellor of Ireland was Stephen Ridel, who was appointed in 1187, and the office has been in existence ever since.

In the obituaries of Lord Wolseley in the English papers I find a story ascribed to him which, of right, refers to the late Gen. Lord Dormer.

It intimates that Lord Wolseley, during his expedition up the Nile for the relief of Gen. Gordon at Khartoum, in endeavoring to extract information from a captured Arab, declared in Arabic that he, Wolseley, was a wizard, in token of which he drew out his glass eye, threw it up in the air, and put it back in its socket.

Now, although Wolseley had a glass eye, he was unable to speak a word of Arabic. On the other hand, Lord Dormer, who spent a number of years in Egypt in various military capacities, including that of commander-in-chief, was a master of the Arabic language. He, and not Wolseley, convinced the natives of his supernatural powers by means of legerdemain with his glass eye.

This glass eye of his used to get so warm while he was on the upper reaches of the Nile, where the temperature was almost intolerable, that he was wont to have a spare glass eye always by his side, cooling in a cup of water, in order to take the place of the other when its heat had become unbearable.

Lord Dormer afterward was appointed to the command of the British military forces in the presidency of Madras, where he was killed by a huge tiger which this gallant old soldier, despite his age and his glass eye, had attempted to stalk on foot in the jungle, a feat which was really courting death.

The capture of Adrianople and the marvelous preservation throughout all the siege of the magnificent sixteenth century mosque of Sultan Selim, with its four exquisite minarets, each of them 200 feet high, serves to recall the fact that its architect, a Bulgarian, Sinan by name, who likewise designed the Shahzadeh, or Prince's mosque, at Constantinople, was among the earliest aviators.

Having learned that Sultan Selim had determined to put him to death as soon as he had completed the great mosque at Adrianople, to prevent his building anything finer elsewhere, he devoted all his ingenuity toward effecting his escape.

HORACE ON A PENNY WHISTLE.

TO Q. H. F.

(Before paraphrasing certain of his Odes.)

Dear Horace, you've been paraphrased
So often and so badly,
By men who ponderously praised
And took your verses sadly,—

I wonder whether you, whose heart
Was light as any thistle,
Would not approve my simpler art,
And like my penny whistle.

You have been "done" so many times
In fashion fine and futile,
You might esteem my tinkling rimes
And listen to me tootle.

My Latin is, like Nanki-Poo,
"A thing of shreds and patches";
More pertinent my mood to you,
If so your mood it matches.

Be that assured, I'll pipe ahead
Without the least misgiving:
The letter of your song is dead,
The spirit still is living.

NO FRONTAGE CONSENT FOR MOTORCYCLE STATIONS.

Chicago, April 8.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform me if there is not an ordinance prohibiting a motorcycle garage in a three story flat building. A motorcycle garage has opened in the store beneath us. They carry considerable gasoline.

The starting and stopping of the motorcycles when repairing them causes a continuous noise and the vibrations jar the house and this has continued as late as 11 o'clock in the night. Also the smoke and smell of the gasoline comes up through the chimney and fills the house full of soot and gasoline odor.

The owner of the building says that they have a lease and claim that he can do nothing. R. W.

The corporation counsel's office has ruled that a place where motorcycles are kept is not a garage in the meaning of the ordinance and no frontage consent therefor is required for the establishment or maintenance of same.

With reference to noises and noxious odors, will say that the health department receives and investigates complaints of this kind.

The matter of storing gasoline is under the control and jurisdiction of the board of fire prevention and public safety. HENRY ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

STOPPING AT JOGS.

Chicago, April 5.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I have had several arguments and have seen several neighbors argue with conductors and motormen on the Evanston avenue cars as to the proper place for cars going north to stop at Briar place.

This street runs from the lake to Evanston avenue, and instead of being cut through direct continues west of Evanston avenue from a point about 250 feet north of the point it strikes Evanston avenue from the east.

I have been told by several of the crews that instructions are for the cars to stop between the two points, while some of the crews refuse to stop any place except the near side of the south junction, which leaves a person getting off the rear platform about three-quarters of a block from the west branch of Briar place, and other more accommodating crews will stop at either corner.

On both cars the motormen refused to stop except at the south junction.

I was on car No. 194, which reached the corner in question at 1 a. m. today and requested the motorman to stop at the north corner. He told me that he would not do so and stopped the car several feet before it reached the south junction. I told him that I wanted to get off at the other corner, and he told me to get off there or he would carry me on north.

T. B. CADY, 634 Briar place.

"Where there is a jog in the street intersecting any line the stopping point will be at the near side of that section of the intersecting street on the right hand side in the direction the car is going." This means that a northbound car should stop at the south corner of the right hand jog. This rule has been in force about one month. CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY.

REFUSE FROM CARS.

Chicago, April 10.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I wish you would call the attention of the Chicago Railways company to a nuisance which we Austin people have stood for a long time. When the limits cars on Madison street reach Austin avenue, instead of having the newspapers, transfers, etc., collected and put into a box which I believe is there for that purpose, they are thrown or swept off the cars, and the result is that our yards are filled with newspapers and other rubbish. In other words, some of the families on Howard avenue are compelled to clean up these papers every other day. This is something that should not be permitted within the city limits, and I have no doubt if same is called to the attention of the street car company's officials they will have same remedied.

HOWARD AVENUE.

We have made efforts in the past to prevent the throwing of papers, transfers, etc., from our cars into the street at Madison and Austin avenue. We found that much of this was done by the passengers, but we have started another investigation to determine if our men are doing this. CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY.

PAVING OF TWO STREETS.

Chicago, April 9.—[To the Friend of the People.]—During the last year several articles appeared in this department from parties inquiring when Leland avenue, east of Clarendon avenue, would be cut through to the lake. Promises were made that the street was to be opened. I even understood that an assessment had been spread to pay the expense. Regardless of all this, the street still remains closed and there are no indications of any move being made to accomplish results. May I ask that this matter be looked into again, so that some reliable information may be had on the subject?

OLD READER.

Chicago, April 8.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Is it a settled fact that Monticello avenue, from Indiana street to Chicago avenue, is to be paved this summer?

G. H. JR.

1. Docket No. 29280, proceedings for opening Leland avenue, from Clarendon avenue to Lake Michigan, is one of the cases on a condemnation calendar which will soon be called for trial in the County court, and we expect to have judgment of condemnation in the case above mentioned in the course of a month or six weeks.

2. In repaving Monticello avenue from Indiana street to Chicago avenue, the assessment roll has just been filed, under docket No. 36766, and if none of the property owners file objections within the time allowed by law, we can obtain an early confirmation of the assessment, and the improvement will be made this year.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

NEW SOCIAL CONSCIENCE.

Evanston, Ill., April 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your editorial, "The Boy Bandit," properly ascribes a large share of responsibility for this career to the neglect of the public to provide in some manner against just such a result when the facts of his early criminal life were so well known. Your attitude placing prevention above punishment is well based upon facts now well enough known.

Our community life requires moral supervision more than it needs even sanitary supervision. The question arises, who of us "is sufficient unto these things?" To whom should power be given to forcibly remove those with criminal tendencies and place them where a good moral and physical education may be given so as to equip them as factors for good instead of evil?

The answer to that question is that we have already a beginning in the use of probation officers and juvenile courts. The training for such public service should be thorough and systematic, but the especial equipment should be a high standard of personal morality and a profound understanding of the psychology of crime and a true love for men for love's sake. We are just at the beginning of a new social conscience. We begin to understand that "no man liveth to himself," and that in deed and in fact we are our "brother's keeper."

The material cost of criminality is a tribute levied against society for the purpose of maturing and ripening this thought.

We all need greater awakening to the requirement of more ethical methods of dealing with justice. It has been proved true by a thousand illustrations that no criminal was ever helped by punishment. The very name "penitentiary" is of itself an indictment of a state of public mind. The word "reformatory" is better, but this has been so associated with punishment that it has ceased to be a proper expression. These should be "homes" or "sanitariums," "hope hospitals." Words have social power and are attractive or repulsive as they become optimistic or pessimistic in expression.

CHARLES O. BORING.

LOWERED TARIFF AND WAGES.

New York, April 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Speaking about the reductions of the tariff and its effect on wages, is it consistent to expect that after a radical reduction on duties of hundreds of manufactured articles coming from countries where the scale of labor is much lower than ours that the laboring classes will receive the same compensations they are now getting? Or can the laboring classes under named conditions expect to receive more wages, the goal they are striving for?

Is it not advisable that the newspapers through their columns inform the masses of working people of the danger which is threatening industry through reduced production, which of itself would throw out of employment 100,000 workers?

The workingmen, when aware of the true conditions affecting their very existence, would quickly let their congressmen understand that there must be no radical reductions in the tariff which would reduce their wages and jeopardize their employment.

Take our own industry, for example: We pay boys and girls from $9 to $15 per week, while the wages paid by makers of the same article in Ceylon are from $1.25 to $1.50 and $2 per week. In spite of 25 per cent protection the importation of this article is increasing in dangerous proportions. Reduce the tariff on this article and we must quit.

We know that the difference in wages between Europe and here is not so extreme, yet a prominent manufacturer of buttons told the writer: "Reduce the duty on our line in the extreme and it will throw all our people out of employment and we will have to move our factory to Europe." The same will apply to many other businesses and industries.

L. SCHEFF COMPANY.

BOYS AS CITY FARMERS.

Evanston, Ill., April 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your editorial on "Keeping Tab on the Boy" will doubtless gain the approval of a great body of our citizens. Fathers and mothers will be well pleased, and suffering neighbors will provide loud and prolonged applause.

Senator Magill's bill, if enacted, will render a great service by making it possible for boys of 14 to 16 years to gain employment which is beneficial in many ways. Yet he has missed the point if he thinks that boy nature can be legislated into citizenship. He has missed the point if he thinks that a system of espionage—a card indexing of boys' activities is going to make strong healthy citizens of Chicago.

Dayton, O., has found a solution to the boy problem which has been a source of wonderment even to the people who planned the work. The National Cash Register company of that city ten years ago was confronted with a growing community of destructive boys. Force and legislation were tried without avail. As a last resort the company purchased unused land and turned it over to the boys, under competent instruction. This land was plowed at the company's expense, and tools and seed were provided from the same source. The boys were organized and responsibility was placed upon their shoulders.

The results obtained seem almost incredible. During the summer of 1912, on one and one-quarter acres, they grew $1,600 worth of vegetables. They sold these vegetables in Dayton and turned the money into the funds of the Boys' Gardening company, in which they all hold stock, and from which they receive dividends.

Dayton has employed a man to take charge of such work throughout the city. The slogan for this year is, "Every vacant lot a garden."

Cannot a similar thing be done for Chicago? It is a case of multiplication of equipment, and organization, and capital.

I see no reason why some such plan cannot be put into successful operation, to the relief of countless homes and the great betterment of our boys.

"COURTESY TO MEN."

Chicago, April 5.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Referring to the editorial, "Courtesy to Men," in THE TRIBUNE, I wish to state that in my opinion this is a strong appeal for a noble and worthy cause. However, right here is a spot to come to the defense of men.

I am always considerate of the weaker sex, especially while traveling in public, but I have been so ungratefully thanked by street car employés for such assistance that it is discouraging.

Imagine a man helping a woman and children on a street car, after which giving others of her sex a chance to get aboard, when suddenly the car starts with a jerk and leaves him in a scramble with others fighting for a "holt," leaving you to repeat the performance when the next car arrives. This is the treatment I have received more than once, and I have noticed others in the same plight.

WHAT LIQUOR PAYS—AND COSTS.

Chicago, April 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The payment of taxes through the liquor revenue has beguiled thousands of voters into an ignoble servitude to a system the reputation of which is as infamous as it is widely known. By far too many have failed to see the taxes which the liquor traffic has created because they could see only those it paid. It may be difficult to estimate the direct and indirect expenses of the liquor curse, but it may be safe to say that it doubles our taxes and places millions of money into doubtful and damaging channels.

STATE CHARTER DEFIES CHANGE

Illinois Constitution Framed to Be Difficult of Amendment.

BIG REFORMS DEMANDED.

Owing to Difference of Opinions Improvement Desired Fails.

Even this does not give a fair idea of the difficulties of the situation. Certain proposed reforms, such as the short ballot and the recall, would each necessitate amendments to three or four articles of the constitution. Since only one article may be amended at a time, it would take eight years, with everything else out of the way, to put through each of these proposed changes.

Certainly when the fathers of the state drove the nails into the lid of the ark of the covenant they countersunk them on top and clinched them at the bottom.

HAVING secured the necessary two-thirds vote in both houses of the legislature, the reformer's little darling has still to run the still more dangerous passage of the next election. To win at the election the proposed amendment must secure the favor of a majority of all the electors voting. That is an extremely difficult thing to do.

Unfortunately a great many voters are more interested in the election of Woodrow Wilson as president of the United States, or of somebody else as county commissioner, than they are in the cause of ballot reform or any other question of constitutional change. The man who is running for office will probably always attract more public attention than a proposed amendment to the constitution.

Consequently, while the candidates who run at the head of the tickets may get 400,000 votes, the constitutional amendment is likely to get less than a quarter of that number. In an election where 400,000 votes are cast an amendment must get at least one more than 200,000 to carry. Every voter who, because of lack of interest, or for any other reason, fails to vote on a constitutional amendment is practically counted as voting against it.

Just how difficult it is to get a majority of the votes at any election for any abstract proposition is shown by the fact that although the question of the initiative and referendum has been indorsed in two public policy votes, at the elections of 1902 and 1910, at neither did it receive a majority of all the votes cast, and if it had been submitted as a constitutional amendment would have failed of popular approval.

THERE have been, it is true, seven amendments adopted to the constitution of 1870, but five of them were put through under conditions quite different from those which now exist.

Until 1891 if one of the political parties indorsed a constitutional amendment all the straight party ballots cast by members of the indorsing party were counted in its favor. That made the work of securing a favorable vote comparatively easy.

For the next eight years constitutional amendments were printed on the official ballot without any statement of party indorsement, and during that period less than a quarter of the voters expressed themselves one way or the other.

Since 1899 all proposed amendments and measures have been submitted to the voters on separate small ballots, and again it became possible, after long and expensive campaigns of publicity, to secure the interest and the vote, one way or the other, of more than half the electors.

STILL, with the large number of amendments which are at present urged, it is practically impossible to get favorable action on any of them. It has been suggested that the quickest way out would be to persuade the present legislature to submit to the people a proposal for the calling of a convention to revise the present constitution, or to construct a new one. That is a process which would necessarily take much time.

If the proposal for a constitutional convention were approved by the people, a call for its assembly would be issued by the legislature which meets in 1915. It would take a year or more to get such a convention together, and it might complete its work within the succeeding six months.

The new or revised constitution would then have to be submitted to the people for their approval. Perhaps in 1916 or 1917, if immediate action were taken and the whole proceeding went through without a hitch, the state of Illinois might have a brand new constitution.

At any rate, the men who in their strength and wisdom built, in 1870, a fundamental charter for the state of 2,500,000 people made it extremely difficult for their descendants, now grown to more than twice that number, to in any way alter the work of their hands.

SMALLPOX IN EAST CHICAGO.

Disease Breaks Out in Parochial School —Sister of Mercy and Several Children Afflicted.

The health department has been informed of the outbreak of twelve cases of smallpox in East Chicago.

Dr. Heman Spalding, chief of the bureau of medical inspection, made a trip into that locality on Thursday in order to make a diagnosis for the purpose of satisfying the local authorities that the cases were really smallpox.

The disease is said to have started in a parochial school, where one of the sisters and children attending school were taken ill.

Senator Owens Wants Fund Created to Insure Immediate Payment of Creditors Rather than Direct Guaranty.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—A modified form of bank guarantee probably will be recommended by Senator Owen, chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, when the committee begins preparation of a currency reform bill. His present plan is not for a direct guarantee of bank deposits, but for the establishment of a fund to insure immediate payment to creditors and depositors when a bank is forced to close its doors.

Senator Owen today said he believed such a fund out of which the depositors could be paid immediately, in proportion to the visible assets of the defunct bank, would be a great factor in allaying panic and preventing financial distress. The amounts thus expended would be returned as fast as the bank's assets could be converted into cash.

The currency problem will be taken up as an entirety through coöperation of the senate, house, and the president, according to plans now under discussion in congressional sessions. Senator Owen and Representative Glass, who is preparing the house bill, had separate conferences again today with secretary McAdoo at the treasury department. Later Senator Owen said the senate committee when it began work on a bill would be in close harmony with the house committee.

Short hearings are to be allowed in the senate, preliminary to the preparation of any currency reform legislation. The desire of several members of the senate committee to secure additional information upon financial conditions has influenced Senator Owen to arrange for hearings in the near future.

PULMOTOR BABY FAILS TO LIVE.

Infant Dies After Being Kept Alive Twenty-four Hours by Use of Oxygen Pump.

Artificial means of prolonging the life of Baby Ters, the little visitor at the residence of Arthur Ters, 1504 Fortieth avenue, failed yesterday morning. The child, declared dead at birth, was revived and kept breathing for nearly twenty-four hours by use of a pulmotor, but the constant need of oxygen prevented the giving of nourishment, and death resulted from exhaustion.

CONGRESS BALKS EFFICIENT NAVY

CRITICISED IN LEAGUE.

Radical Reforms in Methods of Promotion of Younger Men Are Advocated.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—Congress stands in the way of efficient control of the navy, according to Col. Robert M. Thompson, chairman of the executive committee of the Navy League of the United States, which is holding session here.

"Younger admirals," he declared, "also were necessary to make an American fleet effective in time of war. For some reason congress has always had a strong prejudice against giving high rank to officers in the navy. When the Spanish war broke out our entire system of promotion was ignored. Officers to command the fleet were selected even from the captains' list, the senior officers being ignored, and congress has persistently refused to provide for the situation which confronts it.

"Under the present law our admirals are too old when they reach the flag rank, and they have had too little experience in command to be properly qualified for handling the fleet in time of war.

Other Nations Get Young Men.

"Every maritime nation in the world except our own has appreciated the vital importance of the position of admiral, and they have taken steps to secure young, vigorous, and highly qualified men and give them necessary experience to fit them for the supreme command."

Commander J. S. McKean, U. S. N., discussed the strategic value of the Panama canal to the navy, while Henry H. Ward, vice president of the league, took up the subject of consolidatioon of navy yards with a view to greater efficiency.

According to Capt. W. I. Chambers, U. S. N., neither the dirigible nor the aeroplane will ever supplant the modern battleship as a sea fighting force. He added, however, that the aeroplane would be of great value to a strong naval force in an auxiliary capacity.

Rear Admiral Thomas O. Selfridge, U. S. N., retired, advocated radical reforms in the methods of promotion for naval officers, so that there would be younger men of flag rank in active service.

Greater Navy Up to People.

"When the people plead for a greater American navy we will have it, and not till then," declared Secretary Daniels in his address at the banquet of the league tonight.

"If we can convince the people of the United States that the navy is theirs and you and I are here as their servants to carry out their wishes and interests in regard to it," said the secretary, "I will feel that my service here has not been in vain. I don't want the people to feel that the navy is anchored somewhere away from them in the far mid-ocean of professionalism, but that it is moored alongside of the American home, and for its protection. I want them to know about it, not only its glories of the past, but its present efficiency and its future possibilities."

KIRBY APPEARS AND GIVES BOND

SAYS HE'S NOT WORRIED.

Attorneys, Charged with Contempt, Ask Court to Set an Early Day for Hearing.

Dr. William T. Kirby, who was indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of perjury and concealing assets of his defunct private bank, surrendered himself yesterday to United States Marshal Hoy. The prisoner was arraigned before United States Commissioner Charles A. Buell, who released him on bonds of $10,000.

The bonds were signed by Mrs. Mary Durkin of Waukegan, Dr. Kirby's mother-in-law, and Edward McCann, former police inspector. Dr. Kirby was accompanied to the federal building by his wife, mother-in-law, and Attorney Francis J. Houlihan. Assistant United States District Attorney William Lawson represented the government at the proceedings before the commissioners.

The four lawyers for the Kirby defense, James Rosenthal, Patrick H. O'Donnell, Thomas B. Lantry and Francis J. Houlihan, who were cited by the grand jury to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court, will make an effort to have their cases heard as early as possible.

At a meeting of the stockholders on Monday, March 24, 1913, a complete report and audit was presented of the business for the fiscal year ending on the last mentioned date, as a result of which it was ascertained that said business was in an exceedingly unsatisfactory condition, to such an extent as to materially depreciate the holdings of said stockholders. It was determined that under existing conditions it would be necessary that some radical step be taken, and by practically unanimous consent of all the stockholders it was determined to take such steps as would best conserve the interests of all stockholders and creditors and to use every effort in making a quick turn of the merchandise on hand and in transit in order to meet the deficit.

Is surprised, even astonished, not to say astounded, at the failure to accept its challenge in THE TRIBUNE of last Tuesday of a wager of $2,000 against $1,000 that the prescription business of THE ECONOMICAL exceeds that of the next four largest drug stores on State Street COMBINED! Here was a chance for each of these four "largest and best drug stores in Chicago" (in their ads but not in their personal property tax returns!) to make a little nest egg of $500, to get their books audited, saving $250 apiece, and free advertising, another $250—total $1.000 each—IF THEY WON THE WAGER!—a sum not to be sneezed at, and surely more profitable than "one cent bargain sales."

But, Heavings! Can It Be Possible

That the provision for auditing the books is the deterrent cause of non-acceptance? THE ECONOMICAL might not win its bet, but it would cheerfully pay if it lost, for the information obtained from the proposed audit of the books of the contestants! The Board of Tax Assessors of Cook County would doubtless also be deeply interested in this phase of the subject!

EW PORTFOLIO IN WILSON CABINET?

oods and Inability to Control Them Calls for Public Works Department.

RESIDENT FAVORS PLAN.

heme to Be Pushed by National Drainage Congress; Dr. Evans Tells of Malaria Cure.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 11.—[Special.]—The United States department of public works, with its secretary or director a member of the president's cabinet, will be a fact within a few months, according to predictions made here tonight.

The prophecy was based on two things. The formal resolution to be passed by the third annual drainage congress tomorrow emphatically urges the necessity of such a department, and word was received from Washington that such a resolution would be welcomed there.

The few men in the secret would not disclose the source of this message, but it was such as to encourage them almost to the point of cheers. It was intimated that if it did not come from President Wilson personally it came from some one sufficiently close to him to know his views on the situation. The contents of the message and even its whereabouts were just as rigidly guarded; and it was said the entire matter was "strictly confidential," but the most authoritative statement had it that the message indicated the action of the convention would set the wheels in motion at the national capital.

Wilson Asks Recommendations.

President Wilson did wire the drainage organization recently and indicated his desire for recommendations upon the most efficacious method of procedure in fighting "unfriendly waters."

"The calamity in Ohio and Indiana," read that telegram, "makes clearer than ever before the imperative and immediate necessity for a comprehensive and systematic plan for drainage and flood control. I very earnestly hope that your deliberations may mark a long step forward in this direction."

Because of this message the executive committee of the congress has spent all the available time during the last two days endeavoring to formulate a comprehensive national plan that would meet the needs of the situation.

In the form in which it was approved the declaration of the congress is said to be brief merely 300 words in length—still a forcible plea for broad, vigorous action.

As it was discussed in the joint session of the resolutions and executive committees the proposed public works department would cover the entire nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to Mexico. Within its province would lie all matters pertaining to drainage, reclamation, flood protection and control.

In addition it was said congress might assign to this office all matters of construction such as the erection of postoffices and other federal buildings.

Point Out Work for Office.

Rules at length the functions of the proposed office in connection with the "unfriendly waters" were set forth as follows:

The protection of the public welfare by the drainage and reclamation of the 75,000,000 acres of swamp and overflowed lands in the United States and their utilization for agricultural purposes.

The protection by drainage and reclamation of the public health, which is constantly menaced by these swamps.

The protection by levee construction and other means of the people and their lives, their homes, and their lands from floods, storms, and tides.

The protection of the financial interests of the United States, the various states, and the individual land owners by cooperation and an equable sharing of the expense of carrying out this plan in proportion to the benefits received.

Evans on Malaria Prevention.

Extermination of the mosquito as one of the quickest methods of ending a vast economic loss due to malaria was urged today by W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, speaking before the congress.

As a direct result of Dr. Evans' speech, a malaria commission was organized as a department of the congress to make a careful investigation of malaria throughout the United States and report next year a plan for a systematic campaign to stamp out the disease.

Dr. Evans said that by an energetic campaign the disease could be eradicated from the United States in four or five years.

The former head of Chicago's department of health has found that the annual loss from malaria is so great as to demand some effective measure.

The death loss, he believes, is not so large as figures would indicate, and that the statistics include deaths properly attributable to other causes.

Yearly Loss $160,000,000.

Of the economic loss through lassitude and general inefficiency of those not fatally ill plus property loss, he said, would be in the neighborhood of $160,000,000 a year, this representing the decreased efficiency of about 1,200,000 affected to some extent and depreciation of real estate.

Dr. Evans showed how Italy had reduced the malaria rate from 70 to 4 per cent, and how on the isthmus of Panama the death rate from this cause had been cut from 5.57 to 1.34 per thousand.

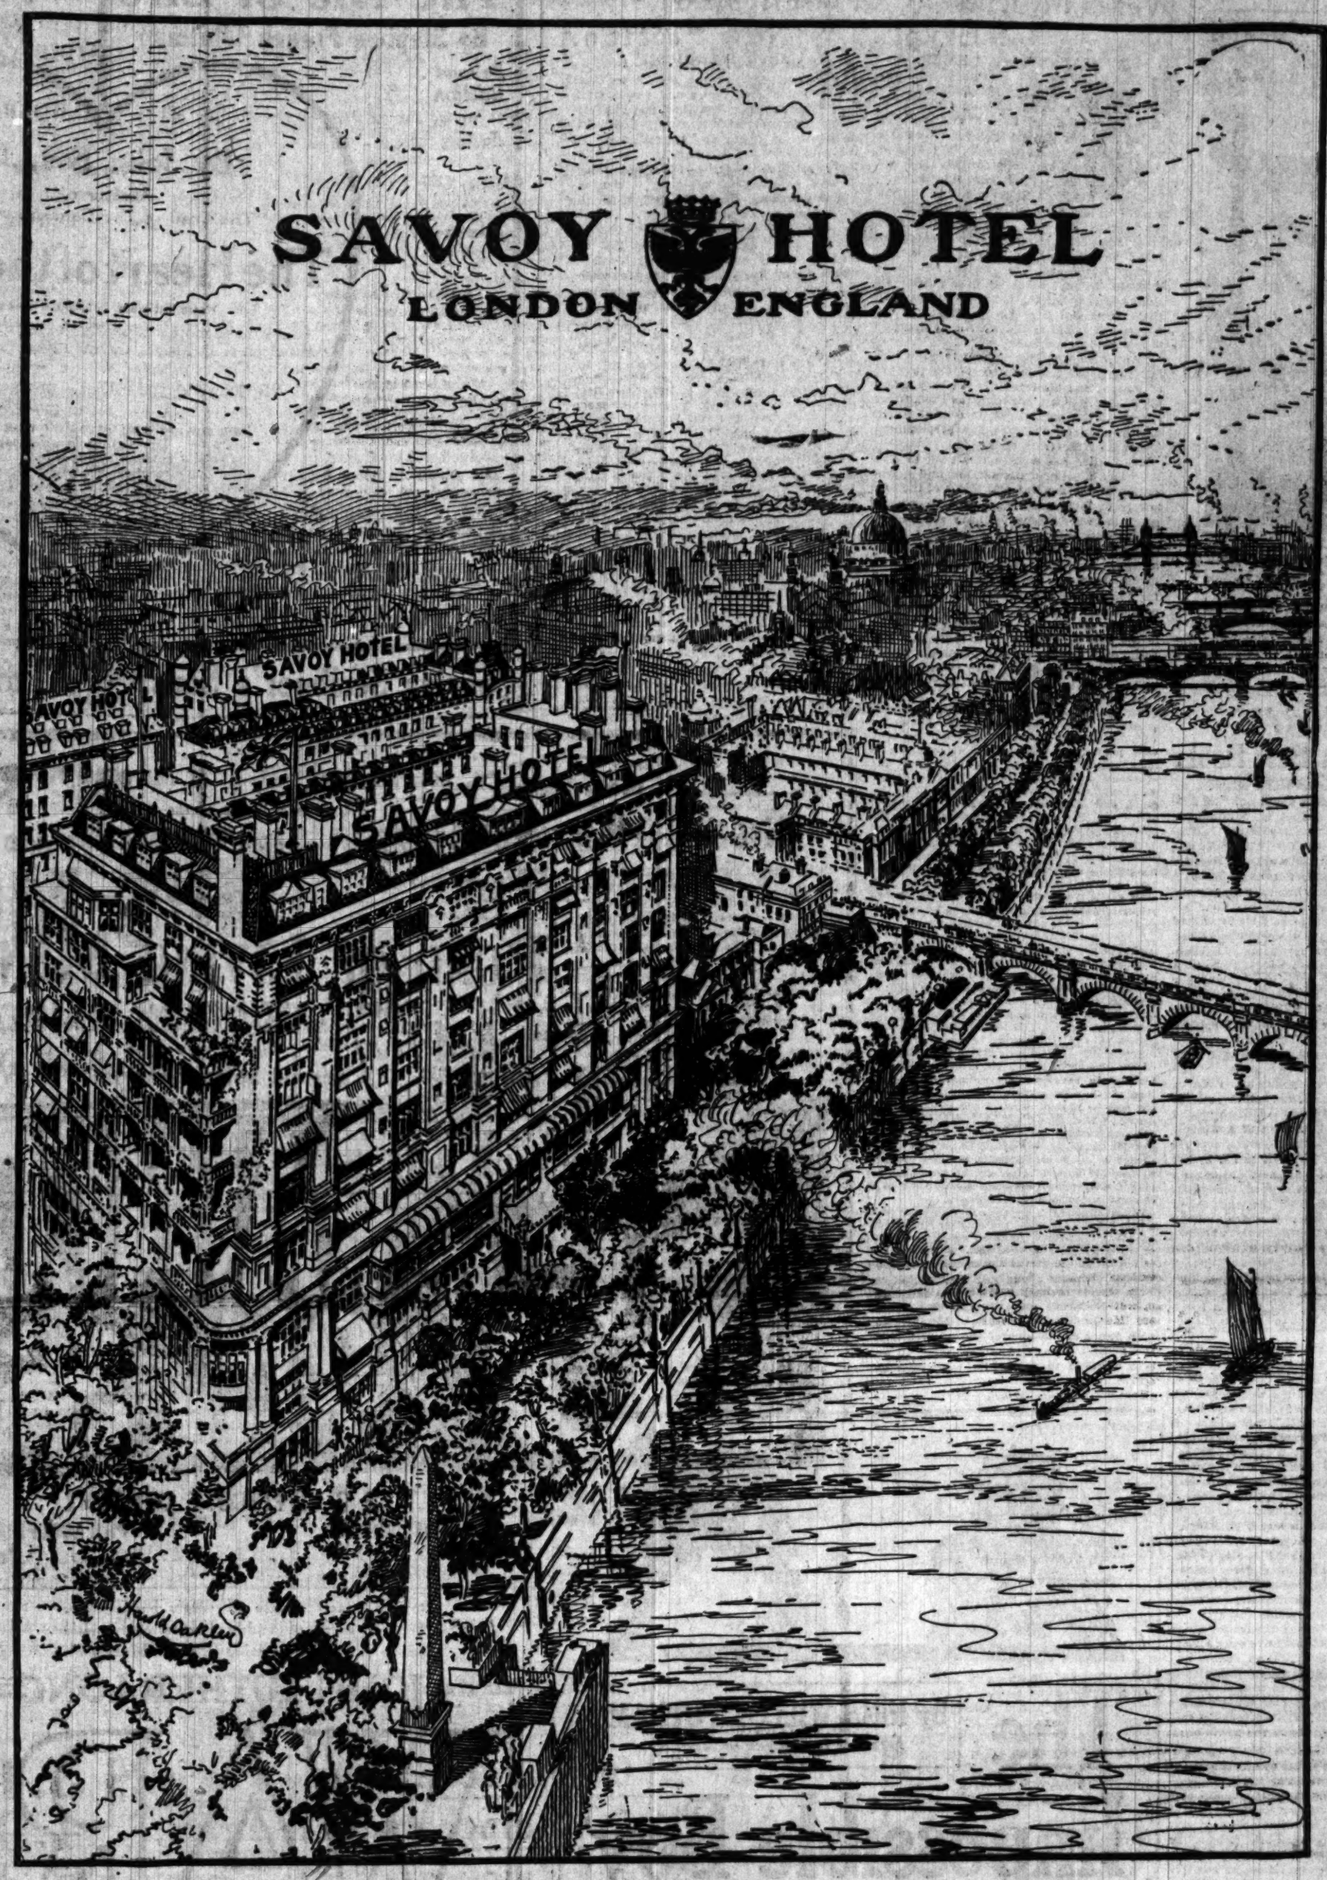

He found great gains made since the discovery of the part the mosquito plays in transmitting the disease, as shown by the decline in half of the once infected area. The strenuous effort for the elimination of the disease should be in three directions—to prevent the breeding of mosquitoes, the destruction of mosquitoes, and the infection by mosquitoes. The first would be effected by draining the land, cutting out grass and underbrush, killing the larvæ and the grown insects.

The other two preventive measures, he said, could be carried out by barring the insects from residences and by liberal quininization.

Talks on Flood Prevention.

The prevention of floods was presented as a profitable business proposition by Frank B. Rae of Chicago.

"The floods we have faced today, last year, and in this long series of catastrophies that has passed have been due to the reckless disregard of known laws of nature by business men of this country," he said. "Today the same men are slowly awaking to the fact that even yet by artificial means we may control water by dams, flood reservoirs, and filled channels, levees, drainage, irrigation, and thereby regain the wealth we have lost and add the new wealth we have not yet realized by power development, real estate, navigation, protection of life, and added industry, and adding an inland empire of the most productive land the world has known."

"The advent of the motor car is responsible for many changes, and it "seems to have transferred a good deal of the City luncheon business to the "Savoy Restaurant. The fact that it only takes five minutes to motor from "the Bank of England to the Embankment entrance of the Savoy no doubt "accounts for the large number of City men one sees nowadays having "luncheon on the Savoy Balcony overlooking the Embankment Gardens "and the River Thames, where the discussion of business seems easier "under the influence of an after-luncheon cigar and a cup of coffee."

—From Financial News, London.

From The Evening Standard, London.

The comforts and luxury of the Savoy Hotel, its cuisine and service, combined with the most moderate charges, place it absolutely in the front rank of all hotels in Europe. The beautiful suites—with bathrooms attached—overlooking the River Thames and Embankment Gardens, away from the noise and bustle of street traffic, although in the center of London, are greatly appreciated by all European and American travelers.

Season's Offering of New Books

Will Comfort's "Road of Living Men."

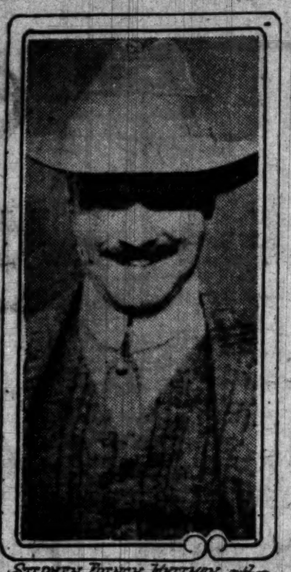

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

WILL LEVINGTON COMFORT IN writing "THE ROAD OF LIVING MEN" (Lippincotts) had no further idea than to write a beguiling and complete romance. He wished to lead his readers on "expectant and fresh-eyed as children," and to provide them with an autobiographical hero, keen for adventure, and a heroine of mystery "who does not betray herself with the writer's hand."

To achieve this happy end he has involved China, the United States, and Ecuador. Mysticism and realism lock hands; tragedy and mirth go hand in hand, and mystery and excitement abound. But this is not to say that the story is merely a sensational one. Sensational it is, but it is much more than that. It shows study, travel, genuine sympathy with many sorts and conditions of men, liberal mindedness, mental excursiveness, and, of course, very entertaining invention.

As a love story it is ardent and pure; as a story of friendship it is exceptional; as a tale of adventure, it is original. What is said in adverse criticism must relate to some extravagance of incident and to a redundant and too poetic style. This prettiness in writing often gives the reader a sense of unreality as if the writer were uncertain what to do next and was waiting upon the chance of inspiration. A style more downright and emphatic certainly would be reassuring. The reader would have more confidence in the characters and a surer expectation of artistic consistency in the tale. This poetic fashion of writing prose is appropriate only to certain scenes and as an indication of high emotion. It seems to get in the way and clutter the course of fiction ordinarily. Moreover, to use rather an absurd expression, it is out of fashion nowadays.

Mr. Comfort takes the romantic view of life, women, love, and friendship, and in all things idealizes. He has no place with the modern literalists, though they are thronging all about him. He offers the abundant, decorated style of romance, the sort that holds the reader to the story until the happy conclusion, and he brings to his work the understanding of many lovely things, the indications of a kindly spirit, a finely inquisitive mind, and a glowing sympathy with those who walk "the road of living men."

STEPHEN FRENCH WHITMAN, author of "The Isle of Life" (Scribner's Sons).

Mr. Whitman, who first appeared as the successful writer of a prize short story, has since written several successful novels. His latest is "The Isle of Life." At present he is living in Europe.

"THE TWO SAMURAI," by Byron E. Veatch (F. G. Brown & Co.) is one of those excellent short stories upon which we of the United States may congratulate ourselves. Dramatic, concise, intense, with the spotlight steadily upon the central figure, it moves swiftly to its tragic yet satisfying conclusion, and is an example of what can be done in that most engaging of literary achievements—the short story.

The tale is that of a young Japanese nobleman who came to America to study war, and who, denied an enlistment, forced himself on a company of hard riding and hard fighting fellows in one of the far western posts. There, among relentless critics and scoffers, he succeeded in making a magnificent hero of himself, and of passing on to a friend—a mysterious secondary hero—his own vacated place in life. The story thrills and inspires like the clang of swords struck in a righteous cause.

Ethel Gertrude Hart has written a pretty little romance called "THE DREAM GIRL" and she has provided so many quaint and humorous suggestions that Mr. Gordon Grant must have had little difficulty in finding subjects for his illustrations. The story of Polly Carrol, the typewriter girl, and of Max Herrick, the young man of wealth and experience, is told in the form of letters, but the matter being cleverly contrived, something after the fashion of Aldrich's "Marjory Day," Max Herrick was kept in ignorance of the fact that his "dream girl" was really his "little pal" Polly, who was close at hand. The treatment is vivacious, simple, and sentimental. The word is not used opprobriously. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

Booth Tarkington is one of those writers who win out by sheer cleverness. A story teller, with the self-restrain which enables him to keep to his tale, he fascinates the reader with his ingenuity, his dry humor, his unexpected turns of speech, and the rude dramatic force of his situation. "THE FLIRT," his latest story (Doubleday, Page & Co.), is the brief history of a young woman of the wanton type whom the rigors of a middle west town have kept from ruin. Surrounded by traditions of honor, economy, and propriety, she has the Cleopatra habit of mind and contrives in the course of what she means to be a merely blithe career to be responsible for the death of two men and the financial ruin of another. Then she marries an egotistic, loquacious bore with money and enters, the reader is convinced, upon a wider program of destruction.

Mr. Tarkington would have little difficulty in finding a model for this luscious, soft voiced, subtle, infinitely beguiling creature, who might have inherited her experience from the greatest unsubjected wantons in the world, but a turn here and there—a something almost valiant about the girl—suggests a lovely and excursive woman, famous for her charm over parts of two continents. However that may be, the "hellion" of a small brother, the honest, dull old father, the mother with her family pride and her lack of discipline, and the good sister who took so long to discover herself, make up an interesting and turbulent family group. Clarence F. Underwood has illustrated the book charmingly.

"ELEMENTARY JANE" is the intriguing title of one of Richard Pryce's novels. (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.) The reader will be quite safe in inferring that Pryce was in one of his best moods when he conceived the notion of this novel and added Jane Smith, a music hall girl, to his catalogue of women. Jane is an orphan with a tender but idyllic talent; one who can sing of dewy lanes and waking birds as if she had grown up with them, and in her white frock, with her kind, shy little country face she captivates the London audiences. She has many lovers, but she keeps them well at bay. Their gifts are returned, and their notes are stuffed, laughingly, in an old trunk. But there are two men who enter her life, and who, naturally enough, call to her differing qualities. For Jane Smith changes, after all, when she assumes the stage manners of "Jenny Tandem" each night, and makes her simple tricks histrionic. So, though Jane Smith would have waited long for the worthy lover—the talented musical composer who goes away to study—"Jenny Tandem," who sees each night the lights of London and in whom the heartbeats are loud and impatient, marries the handsome, unworthy lover and loves him wonderfully and valiantly to the end. After that—well, the novelist does not say what happens after that, but he leaves the reader to hope that Jane will find herself in a realization of a good man's love.

The charm of the book is great. It is written with the impulsiveness and whimsicality which characterized "Christopher," and marks Mr. Pryce as one of that slowly increasing number of writers in English who can create without self-consciousness and who dare draw their inspiration from unusual sources.

"Stella Maris" Locke's Best Book.

BY ELEANOR DOHERTY GEHR.

THERE can be little doubt but "STELLA MARIS" (Lane) is William J. Locke's greatest achievement. It possesses all the wistful, winsome delicacy of his former works, it has the same tender sentiment, but its philosophy seems deeper and more humanly satisfying. Yet this is true rather by contrast than because there was a palpable lack in any of the other works. At the outset the reader is charmed by the prospects of "STELLA MARIS"; as he proceeds with the story his sympathies with the little heroine and her friends are fully awakened; but the memory of the book sweetens with age and in retrospect more beauties, more inspiring meanings are discovered.

For the purpose of analysis the novel may be divided roughly into two parts. In the first Stella, affectionately surnamed Maria, the victim of a serious spinal malady, passes her childhood and the first years of her young maidenhood on a bed in front of a window overlooking the sea. She knows the world without only as it is pictured to her by her relatives and friends, and they, obeying an unwritten law that only the good, the cheerful, and the beautiful shall enter her room, picture life a joyous span of years and the world a place where truth, beauty, and love hold sway and where poverty, injustice, and unrighteousness have no place. Thus it comes about that the land of delight imagined by her friends is for her the land of reality, for the possibility that she should ever leave her bed and her room was too remote for serious consideration.

But the unexpected does happen; Stella is cured, and, without forewarning as to what she may find outside of her room, goes forth to learn the character of the world of which she is a part. With what result can be easily imagined. One illusion after another is shattered upon the cruel rocks of experience; even her faith in her loved ones is shaken, and were her nature less fine and her character less strong she herself would have been overwhelmed, sacrificed to the imaginings of well meaning friends and relatives. Fortunately for the reader, a large, philosophic mind conceived the plot of the novel and drew its characters, so that Stella's development, which makes possible her complete adaptation to existing conditions, is inevitable and as convincing as the fairy like world in which she passed her youth.

Stella Maris is, of course, the center of the story, yet there could not have been a story without Walter Herold, John Risca, and Unity Blake, whose lives are so closely interwoven and who are bound to Stella Maris by the strongest ties of love. The romance that rounds out Stella's character is natural, convincing, inevitable, as is the whole book.

A succession of surprises awaits the reader of Nina Wilcox Putnam's "THE IMPOSSIBLE BOY" (Bobbs-Merrill), a book which will be read with increasing pleasure and laid aside with a sigh of satisfaction. At first it seems as if the story was going to be in the nature of an idyll, with Pedro, the leader of a dancing bear, and the small group of wandering entertainers of which he is a member, as the central figures, against a background of the more conventional world of men and women.

Then Pedro heeds the call of his ambition to be a great painter and leaves his companions to go to the great city to study and work. From that point things begin to happen with startling rapidity, for the boy possesses a charm that none can resist, has more talent than the majority of artists, and, considering the roughness of his externals, is strangely at ease in any gathering, no matter how formal. Yet he refuses steadfastly to talk of himself, merely saying, when asked who he is, "I'm Pedro." To tell more of the story would be unfair to the author and reader, for the name of Pedro hides more than even the most suspicious might imagine.

A young girl, evidently the victim of an accident, is found unconscious in the room of a house in a suburb of New York, and when she comes to herself, she has no remembrance of former life, friends, or her own name. The mystery surrounding her excites the curiosity of the suburbanites, while her beauty and gracious manner appeal to the fancy of the young men of the town, all of whom promptly fall in love with her. Such is the slender plot of Etta Anthony Baker's novel, "MISS MYSTERY" (Little, Brown & Co.), the work of one serving her novitiate among writers of fiction.

Edna Ferber's "ROAST BEEF, MEDIUM" (F. A. Stokes & Co.) must be familiar to a number of readers. The author says in the foreword: "Roast Beef, Medium, is not only a food. It is a philosophy," and the story that follows is something in the nature of an explanation and amplification of this homely dictum. There is nothing homely, or even prosaic, however, about Emma McChesney, whose business adventures as a traveling saleswoman for a firm of petticoat manufacturers are fully recounted. She is as ready witted as she is attractive personally, wonderfully successful in business, and at the same time has a full appreciation of what constitutes the worth-while things in life. Miss Ferber is as successful in turning an apt and cogent phrase as Mrs. McChesney is in selling skirts to an unwilling merchant, so that the pages of her book might be taken as an example of the conservation of verbal energy.

Veiled Mysteries of Egypt.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

I HAVE before me a large volume entitled "VEILED MYSTERIES OF EGYPT," a most alluring title. It is written by S. H. Leeder and will be published by Messrs. Scribner. We have no end of books on the east, but few of them written from as profound a knowledge of the subject as has this author. I should say that he knows this subject almost if not quite as well as Capt. Burton, for he has had every opportunity of studying it from the inside. Mr. Leeder has found very little knowledge of this subject among Europeans, even those who have lived in Egypt, and as for missionaries, he thinks there is nothing more misleading than their writings. Mr. Leeder finds the ignorance of Islam in the west is as great as it is incomprehensible.

"Any man who has nothing to guide him but the popular knowledge of the prophet of Arabia and his teachings, as they affect his followers today, must find, as I did, when I came to live with the Arab folk of North Africa, and later of Egypt, how perplexingly ignorant of the truth he is."

Mr. Leeder has written this book to give the world a better understanding and appreciation of the motives and ideals of the followers of Mohammed than even those supposed to be well informed have attained.

"My only equipment is sympathy, a fairly long residence with the people I have sought to know, and quite exceptional facilities, in Egypt especially, for getting behind the veil, for penetrating the mysteries of the religion predominant there."

In the chapter on the position of women in the east he would seem to prove that Mohammedan women possess privileges which compare very favorably with those enjoyed by their sex in other countries. For example:

An unmarried woman, until she is of age, is under parental control. After that she is entitled to similar property rights with men. She shares with her brothers in the inheritance of her parents' property, in different but relative proportions, having in this way an immense advantage over the English custom, by which some, and especially the firstborn, gain so enormously by inheritance over daughters. She cannot be married without her consent; a marriage settlement by the husband upon the wife is demanded and enforced by law; the husband is compelled to support his wife; he has no right to her goods and property, nor may he appropriate her earnings or ill treat her. A father has not full control over a daughter after she is of age; she then may manage her own property, and even choose a husband without necessarily taking the advice of her parents.

If the legal condition of women be considered in conjunction with that of their sex in several European lands it will readily be seen that technically it need not fear scrutiny. How recent is the passing of the "married women's property act" in England, by which a woman has control over her own fortune! In France a woman is a minor in the eyes of the law. A married woman there cannot undertake any employment or appear before a court of justice unless her husband has first granted his consent; it is only since 1907 that she has been legally entitled to dispose of her own earnings. In Germany a husband can if he wish forbid his wife to engage in any business. In Italy a married woman cannot sign or draw a check on her own account for her own money; her testimony alone is not accepted in a court of law; she cannot engage in trade or dispose of her own property without her husband's consent; he has full power over her earnings, and she cannot plead in a court of law without his permission.

Islam, I maintain, clearly uplifted women from a very degraded position, granting her rights never known to her before. It is an entirely erroneous notion which prevails in the west that the seclusion of the harem was part of Mohammed's rule of life for women.

Mr. Leeder's book carries conviction and it will be found most interesting reading. He has been able because of his intimacy with the high ulemas of the university, of the great sheiks, and of the fellaheen and tent dwellers to show how the people live and to tell us what they think and talk about.

Flashlights on New Fiction.

MUCH of our current fiction is as ephemeral as the dew, even that which later comes out in book form, so anything that is "stayable" is uncommonly welcome, both because of its worth and its rareness. Of this class most emphatically is Alice Brown's "VANISHING POINTS" (Macmillan), a collection of short stories exquisitely human, every one giving, for the most part, a new angle of vision on that life which we generally consider commonplace. They are mainly about just the kind of people and the kind of incidents which we all know so well, yet they widen our mental horizons in a most uncommon manner. Each story is perfect in itself, but it is impossible to give an adequate idea of any of them in limited space. All the reviewer can permit himself to do is to say that any one who likes people and living ought to have a copy of "Vanishing Points," and this he says most enthusiastically.

"THE LAND OF CONTENT," by Edith Barnard Delano. (Appletons, New York.) A sugarish bit of amiable fiction in which the heroine is an incalculably wealthy young woman with simple tastes, who goes off in the West Virginia mountains to live, collecting a group of needy ones about her, and educating them or marrying them off, as best suited their respective temperaments. All the men in the book fell in love with her, too, but they all mercifully recovered except one, and she discovered that he was "the one" who made her "land of content," so there were no loose fragments of hearts left lying about.

"THE WOMAN IN BLACK," by Edmund C. Bentley, (Century). An elaborate mystery story centering around the murder of a man whom no one liked which is solved in the middle of the book by a superintelligent artist-reporter, then knocked nearly all to pieces by actual confession on almost the last page. A good deal of trouble to go to for the meager results one obtains, from the reader's point of view. Of course the royalty point of view may be different.

"THE TURN OF THE SWORD," by C. MacLean Savage (F. G. Brown & Co., Chicago). An exceedingly vivid portrayal of Japanese life, centered for its theme about a young prince of the reigning house, who in a sword contest was given a blow that destroyed his memory. The throne was seized and he himself grew up in the home of a simple rice farmer, quite unconscious of his real position. The story is concerned with his slow finding of himself, through anger at the tyrannical despotism of the usurping ruler, who ruined the peasants, his organization of an army of rebellion, and finally his returned memory through a second sword blow. There is also a dainty love story and the whole thing carries the Japanese spirit with delightfully sure touches.

"THE INVADERS," by Frances Newton Symmes Allen (Houghton-Mifflin). The theme is the dying out of stanch New England families and the filling of their old homes with the "invading foreigners," arousing in the few remaining descendants a blind but helpless bitterness. The heroine is a college girl, who attempts to study agriculture and save the old place, mortgaged up to its fence posts. The hero is one of the "hated Irish," a most ingratiating youth, however, who has been to Dublin university and has a "crest." The outcome is obvious, but tracing it is interesting, and makes a pretty love story. The author really had a big theme here, but she idealized it a bit too much to make a strong book; it is just pleasantly pretty.

Every lover of good fiction looks for the books which come all too seldom, the books in which there is the spirit of youth, of romance, of adventure, and the warmth and color of real life. To all such readers we recommend this new novel. From the first scenes in China during the Boxer rebellion until the end there follow swiftly scene after scene of splendid conception, told with a swing and a go and a growing intensity of emotion that sweeps one along until the fine poetic climax. It will be pronounced one of the year's greatest romances.

An elusive mystery and a delightful love story in which Fleming Stone, the great American detective, again figures. Well-planned crimes are often those which are easily ferreted out, but in this case the solution of the mystery, on account of its very simplicity, eludes all investigation and the climax is a complete surprise.

POSTPONE ACTION ON HOYNE REQUEST

Judges Delay Decision on Authority to Assign Criminal Cases.

COMMITTEE GIVEN ISSUE.

Another Month to Elapse Before State's Attorney Will Get His Ruling.

Another month must pass before State's Attorney Hoyne will know whether he will be allowed to assign criminal cases for trial at his own initiative or be compelled to submit to a calendar rule by which trials will be distributed by rotation.

This was decided upon yesterday at a largely attended meeting of the judges of the Superior and Circuit courts, who are judges ex-officio of the Criminal court.

The meeting was held in the courtroom of Judge Baldwin, who is in California, and was presided over by Judge Ben M. Smith.

Hoyne and C. C. Case Speak.

The state's attorney and Charles C. Case, his docket clerk, argued against the present system of a term by term calendar. He was supported in this by several of the judges and opposed by others.

As a result the chief issue at stake was left for further discussion to a committee consisting of Judges Kersten, Windes, Cooper, Burke, Petit, and Barnes, and these jurists will make their recommendations to another meeting to be held in a month, when Judge Baldwin is expected to preside.

Several new rules were adopted, but they are of a technical character. The rank and file of lawyers whose practice takes them to the Criminal court are in favor of publishing the calendars and assigning the cases to judges, as is done in the civil branches.

One of the Rules Referred.

One of the rules which was passed to the committee for further consideration refers to trial calls, as follows:

Cases shall be called for trial by the judge to whom they are assigned in the order in which they appear upon the trial calls, except that the court may first dispose of cases in which defendant pleads guilty or waives a jury. The call for each day shall be announced by 11 a. m. of the preceding day.

There will be no trial call on Saturdays except of emergency cases or by special order of the court.

Trial calls shall be made from day to day by the clerk as directed by the state's attorney from the cases marked for or set for trial as ordered by the court, and notice as to when they may be called shall be published in the Law Bulletin at least two days prior to the day on which they will be subject to call, unless the time of the call is changed by direction of the court on the day before the cases may be called.

Another Rule of Importance.

Still another rule of importance, upon which the judges deferred action, is as follows:

Each judge assigned to duty in this court shall, at any time before 3 p. m. of any day when all cases on his call shall have been passed, continued, or disposed of for the day, request to be assigned to his court cases on the call before any other judge in said court who is actually engaged in a trial, and try any case so assigned to his court.

When necessary for the trial of an emergency case, or appeal cases, it shall be the duty of each judge assigned to this court to suspend his trial call which does not include an emergency case and try appeal cases or an emergency case on the trial call of another judge who is absent or actually engaged in the trial of such a case or any long trial.

Cases in which a defendant is entitled to a discharge under section 18, division 18, of the criminal code of Illinois shall be deemed emergency cases.

A New Law Partnership.

A new law partnership was announced yesterday by Edward R. Litzinger, National Life building, with whom will be associated George W. McGurn and Leonard C. Reid. The firm name will be Litzinger, McGurn & Reid.

Woman Physician at Morals Court.

Dr. Anna Dwyer.

Dr. Anna Dwyer, a leader in Chicago settlement work, yesterday assumed duties as an officer of the new morals court. She occupied a seat in the jurors' stall, but did not find it necessary to take part in any of the cases.

"I was assigned here by Health Commissioner G. B. Young," Dr. Dwyer said. "Frequently the services of a woman physician seem indispensable in adjudicating justice. It takes a woman to understand a woman, and I presume that is the object in assigning a woman physician to this post."

Tribune Fund for Flood Sufferers.

THE TRIBUNE relief fund for flood sufferers was increased to $16,188 yesterday. Contributions during the day amounted to $125. Mrs. Alonzo Emans of Magnolia, Ill., sent a draft for $11, collected from residents of Magnolia, and also sent six barrels of clothing. The Daily News Base Ball Team

Big leaguers of baseball are now in action. So are tens of thousands of fans. So also are the men who write of the doings of the big leaguers for those same fans to read.

It is the newspaper with the STAR TEAM of writers that makes the strongest appeal to baseball enthusiasts.

BUT—to be stars, big leaguers and writers about the big leaguers must be fair and square. That is an essential part of KNOWING THE GAME.

Here Is The Daily News Team for 1913

Christy Mathewson—For years the famous pitcher for the New York Giants. Known everywhere as one of the brainiest players in the business and one of the squarest in whatever he writes about the game of which he is a master.

Ty Cobb (if Ban Johnson doesn't choke him off)—Spectacular outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, great batter and great runner of the bases. In point of braininess Ty Cobb is at the top of the list. He, of course, writes about the American league.

W. A. Phelon—Of Joe Tinkerville, sometimes called Cincinnati. His twenty-five years' connection with the game gives him the ability to write of it with a knowledge that is possessed by few. No writer is better known to baseball men and the baseball loving public.

John O. Seys—His feature stories of the game are inimitable, and his knowledge of Chicago's players, from the oldest regular to the youngest recruit, is thorough His preliminary reports of this year's players and teams have been unsurpassed.

Oscar Reichow—He has studied the Cubs and their leader till he knows them like a book, has traveled and lived with them in other seasons and during their preliminary work this year, and will tell of their playing understandingly and without prejudice.

George S. Robbins—In the American league he is as much at home as is Reichow in the National league. He knows all about Comiskey's pets and the other great teams they are to meet on the diamond.

Lambert G. Sullivan—Lover of athletic sports who will write entertainingly of baseball and incidents of the game.

In the General Sporting Field

As well as in baseball, The Daily News scores an exceptionally large number of base hits. Its writers on golf, tennis, track work and automobiles are experts in their respective lines. Further, for the man with the motor car The Daily News, through its specialist, will endeavor to point out "WHAT IS THE MATTER" when his car goes wrong.

The excellence of The Daily News Sporting Pages rests securely upon the excellence of The Daily News team of writers.

HONORS TO KELLY IN KENOSHA BOUT

VICTOR STRONG AT FINISH.

BY RAY C. PEARSON.

Kenosha, Wis., April 11.—[Special.]—Spike Kelly outslugged and outroughed Billy Walters, the naval station welterweight, in the ring of the Kenosha Athletic club tonight and certainly showed that he has as much right to claim the welterweight title as any other aspirant. He won the bout by several city blocks.

Kelly's punches were the cleaner and landed with more telling force. It was as rough a battle as any one might want to watch and one of the surprising features was the ability shown by the Chicago boy to deliver the rough stuff with greater effect than Walters. From the first round on to the finish it required no guess work to tell to whom the fight belonged.

Walters Shows Best in First.

The opening session was the only one in which the naval station boy made any showing, and he probably would not have done so but for the care both took of themselves. In the second, third, and fourth rounds, Kelly's margin was not great, but the fact that he forced the milling earned him a shade. From that time on to the end it was all Kelly.

In the seventh round, which the Chicago boy won by a big margin, Kelly landed left and rights with telling effect, one of the punches splitting Walters' forehead over his left eye and bringing the blood in a stream.

Walters Loses Half a Pound.

Both boxers weighed in at Lewis' gymnasium at 3 o'clock. A controversy resulted when the naval station boy was nearly half a pound over the limit of 145 pounds. Fred Gilmore, Kelly's manager, declined to take the forfeit of $100, but insisted that Walters' scale in at the required weight. He was forced to spend three-quarters of an hour in the hot room at the gymnasium before he swayed the beam at 145 pounds.

There was not a great amount of action in the first round, both men being careful. Most of the fighting was done at close quarters. It was an even round.

Both boys warmed up to their work in the second round. Kelly assumed the aggressive and earned the round for that reason. They bulled each other around the ring and with close in work both played left and right punches to the body. Kelly continued to force the pace in the third session, and on cleaner punches got a slight shade.

Fourth and Fifth Alike.

The fourth and fifth rounds were as alike as two peas in a pod. Kelly devoted a lot of attention to the sailor's body and kept his opponent busy at close quarters. The Chicago man did nearly all the leading.

The sixth round was one mixup after another. Most of the blows landed were body punches at close quarters. Kelly had a slight shade.

Kelly handed out a world of damaging punishment in the seventh round, opening a cut over the sailor's left eye with a stright right. He outpunched Walters at every stage and landed three blows to Walters' one. Both were tired at the gong.

The eighth and ninth were two more Kelly rounds. The Chicagoan outpunched and outroughed the sailor, who seemed to slow up considerably.

The final round was a slambang affair, both boys slugging for all they were worth. Walters made the better showing at the toe-to-toe game, but Kelly was too strong for him. The Chicago Irishman mixed his punches for the body with some for the face, and kept the gore flowing from Walters' injured eye.

Accident Stops Semi-Windup.

A feature not on the bill was provided during the semi-windup between Mattie McCue and Paddy Kellar. The boys were slugging merrily on the ropes in the middle of the first round when the supports gave away. It was necessary to stop the battle for ten minutes and wait for a repair man to bolster one of the corner posts which had torn from its mooring. On resuming fighting McCue had a shade in the first and second rounds and scored a knockout with a straight right to the jaw in the third round.

The first preliminary, between a pair of 122 pounders, resulted in a one sided victory for Bobby Williams of Kenosha over Battling White of Chicago. The bout was limited to four rounds, Williams beating his man in every session.

Jack Smith, the latest naval station battler, carried too many rapid fire jabs for Jack O'Keefe in the second preliminary and took four of the six rounds. The other two were even. They fought at 145 pounds.

LOGAN VICTOR OVER M'CARRON.

Hands Jack O'Brien's Middleweight Champion Aspirant Beating in Six Round Contest

Philadelphia, Pa., April 11.—[Special.]—Jack McCarron, Jack O'Brien's middleweight champion aspirant, received a beautiful trimming from Frank Logan in their six round affair at the Nonpareil A. A. tonight. Logan staggered McCarron on three different occasions, sending him to his knees. Logan's quickness in getting his blows started made McCarron's efforts look cumbersome. Logan was never in serious danger, except in the fifth, when he ran into a wicked left to the chin which came near ending the mill.

IGOE FATHERS NEW FIGHT BILL.

Measure Introduced in House by Chicago Representative Provides for Only One Commission.

Springfield, Ill., April 11.—A new boxing bill was introduced in the house today by Representative Michael Igoe of Chicago. It provides for one commission of three members appointed by the governor. There is no restriction against all the commissioners belonging to one party. The bill is contrary to Mayor Harrison's desire to have a special commission for Chicago.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

William M. Fitzgerald, the New York boxer, known in fistic circles as the "Fighting Harp," was born in Waterford, Ireland, April 12, 1881. Willie is a veteran of the ring, having started his professional career in 1899, when he knocked out Jack Lowery in three rounds. For five years he was successful in his battles in the lightweight division, but in 1904 lost to Jimmy Gardner and Joe Gans. From that year to the present time he has taken on welters as well as lightweights. His greatest fight was a twenty-five round draw with Willie Lewis, which took place at Colma, Cal., in 1906. Fitzgerald's ring record shows that he has knocked out Otto Sieloff, Tommy Connelly, Fred Landers, Amby McGarry, Tommy Sullivan, Kid Stein, and a number of lesser lights. In the ten round bouts at Brooklyn, in which he has been appearing of late, he has shown that he is still able to slap and duck as of old.

"GUNBOAT" SMITH HITS SNAG

BOER FAILS TO HOLD PACE.

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—"Gunboat" Smith struck a snag in George Rodel, the Boer heavyweight, in a ten round bout at the Forty-fourth Street Sporting club tonight, but outstayed his opponent.

Smith scored five clean knockdowns, but Rodel had the better of six rounds on clean hitting. If he had finished stronger he might have secured a draw. Smith violated the boxing rules by holding and hitting and by hitting on the breakaway, offenses which were allowed to pass unnoticed by Referee Sammy Kelly.

It was a fierce, sanguinary battle all the way. Rodel, believed to be an easy mark, furnished a surprise. He was strong and game, and showed an unexpected knowledge of how to use the left hand. With solid left hand jabs he made Smith's nose bleed in the first round, the "Gunboat" finding it impossible to connect with his famous right swing. Rodel won this round on points and also showed superiority in the second period.

Smith then tried rushing tactics, and landed several half punches in the region of the Boer's heart, but Rodel more than evened this up by sending Smith to a corner and rocking him with a series of right hand swings on the neck and jaw.

Rodel was the master in the third round. Smith's rushes were met with clean left hand smashes. Smith was staggered by a left hand and a right hand swing on the head and was forced to assume the defensive.

The fourth was the worst one for the Boer, and thereafter Smith showed better staying power, scoring five knockdowns.

GIBBONS WOULD BOX 'EM ALL; THEY ALL LOOK ALIKE TO HIM.

St. Paul Scrapper Says He Is Ready to Tackle McGoorty, Papke, or McFarland at the Next Kenosha Show.

BY KNOCKOUT.

Eddie Reddy, manager of Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul boxer, passed through Chicago yesterday accompanied by Tommy Gibbons, who is tentatively matched to make several fights in New York and Philadelphia. Reddy asserts he is willing to match Mike with Eddie McGoorty, Packey McFarland, or Billy Papke at the next Kenosha show.

Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Kenosha A. C., received word from Freddie Welsh that the latter would be willing to meet Charley White in the central west if proper inducements are offered. Lewis says he is willing to guarantee Welsh $1,500, with a privilege of 35 per cent of the gross receipts, to meet Charley White.

Promoters of the Home A. C. of Hammond are planning a show for the final boxing exhibition of the season. If Jimmy Clabby refuses to allow Tim O'Niel, the Irondale middleweight, to weigh in at 158 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the fight Tony Caponi is willing to meet Timothy at catchweights.

There is a possibility that Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion, will meet Artie Armstrong in a private bout in the near future. Because of the many challenges which have been hurled at him by Eddie Campi, Frankie Burns, and "Kid" Williams, the king of the bantams is anxious to try himself out with some one of lesser class.

Danny Goodman, who is training at O'Connell's, yesterday announced that he is matched to meet Chuck Larson in Terre Haute the latter part of the month.

HITCH IN PLANS FOR MAT BOUT.

Le Marin's Manager Wants Interpreter in Ring When Charge Meets Zbyszko—White Refuses.

A hitch arose yesterday in the plans for the match between Stanislaus Zbyszko and Constant Le Marin at the Coliseum on April 23. George Kennedy, who looks after the interests of Le Marin, telegraphed from Montreal that he would not allow Le Marin to enter the ring unless he had a German interpreter in the roped enclosure.

According to Kennedy, Le Marin cannot understand English well enough to heed the referee's instructions. For this reason Kennedy demanded permission to have an interpreter in the ring when the arbiter gives instructions.

Manager Ed White said he would not consent to such a request, declaring Le Marin knew the catch as catch can style of wrestling without being told. Unless Le Marin agrees to meet the Pole without the help of an interpreter there is a possibility the match may be called off.

Mat Show at C. A. A. Tonight.

William Demetral and Frank Prindle will clash tonight in the windup of the final wrestling show of the season at the C. A. A. Ernest Kartje will meet the "Mysterious Conductor" in the semi-final. In the other bouts Otto Suter will take on Tom Rolewicz and "Tug" Wilson will tackle "Young" Sharkey.

PLAN MATCH RACE FOR HYDROPLANES

RYAN SENDS CHALLENGE.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

A match race between the fastest hydroplanes of the east and the west for the American championship, a big purse and a side bet of $5,000, is likely to be a feature of the power boat races to be held in Chicago's lake front harbor this summer.

The chance for securing the race came through the rivalry between John J. Ryan of Algonac, Mich., and Johnny Wolff of Astoria, Ore., drivers of the fastest boats in their respective sections. Ryan, who competed here in last summer's water carnival, is designer and builder of the Baby Reliances owned by Commodore J. Stewart Blackton of New York. Baby Reliance III. defeated about everything worth while in the 1912 events, and will be a contender in the next international races.

Easterner Builds New Boat.

Johnny Wolff has campaigned two or three boats named Oregon Wolf, and at present is engaged in building another which it is claimed will be faster than any of its predecessors. Wolff's confidence in his prospective craft's ability led to his giving out an interview in which he made the claim that his new boat would be able to defeat anything else in the hydroplane line.

Ryan heard of it and issued a characteristic defi to Wolff, whom he dared to race one of the Blackton Baby Reliances for a side bet of $5,000 and the largest purse that could be secured from any of America's power boat clubs.

The conditions developed by the scrap looked good to James A. Pugh, commodore of the Columbia Yacht club and one of the prime movers in the plan of the Associated Yacht and Power Boat clubs to run a number of speed boat races in the harbor this summer. He lost no time wiring both Ryan and Wolff that the associated clubs would hang up a purse of $1,000 for a race between the rival boats as a feature of the local carnival. If the proposed race is held it will be at thirty miles, best two out of three.

Nineteen Speed Boats Coming.

Commodore Pugh and his associates have announced a list of nineteen speed boats that are certain to come here for the carnival. As all are capable of going from thirty to fifty-five miles an hour, some exciting contests are assured. The prospects include Commodore Pugh's 650 horse power Disturber III., three Baby Reliances, two Kitty Hawks, Peter Pan, Oregon Wolf, and several others.

Triple and Double Big Factors in Loss of Opening Contest at Cleveland.

ERRORS ALSO HELP OHIOANS

SCOTT STARTS; CICOTTE FINISHES

BY SAM WELLER.

Cleveland, O., April 11.—[Special.]—Joe Jackson battered down the defense of the White Sox and Cleveland won the opening game of the season today from Chicago in a contest filled with thrills and excitement. The score was 3 to 1.

Every time Jackson went to bat he clouted the ball. Twice he slammed drives against the concrete wall in right field, once for a double and once for a triple. The other time he slashed a liner along the left foul line for two bases. He scored two of the three runs and the other was made by Larry Lajoie, the veteran slugger.

Another time when the Sox were about to overcome the prowess of Jackson, with two men on the bases and two out, the southerner raced back almost to the wall and caught a line drive by Jim Scott that should have been a double good for two runs. As a result Jackson owns Cleveland tonight.

Scott Chosen to Start.

Jim Scott was the hurler finally chosen by Manager Callahan, and he looked great against every batter but Jackson. He gave six hits in as many innings and three were made by the right fielder. Jim also was given bad support.

For Cleveland, the star southpaw, Vean Gregg, was placed on the slab and proved to the public that the stories about his condition were false. In seven innings he held the Sox to two base hits, and he might have gone along at that pace only Manager Callahan changed the makeup of his team at the start of the eighth, taking every left handed hitter out.

This switch nearly upset the southpaw and nearly turned Joe Jackson's victory into defeat, for in the last two rounds the Sox belted out five base hits and might have pulled a serious game out of the fire if two things hadn't happened. Just when they had Gregg badly fussed, so badly that there were signs on the Cleveland side of removing him and substituting some one else, Ping Bodie was picked off second base, and Gregg was out of the hole.

Sox Lose Chance to Tie.

There were two out at the time the Sox had scored one run, three singles had been laced out by the substituted right handed hitters, and Ping was on second with Callahan on first, waiting for Mattick to clout one so they could race home with the tying runs. Plainly, Gregg was worried and in distress, and that's why he turned the trick on Bodie and caught him. The signal was flashed for the play, and when Gregg wound up Chapman ran to second, Bodie took a run toward third, and Gregg pitched wide of the plate. Catcher Land shot the ball to Chapman and Bodie was trapped ten feet off the bag.

The other thing that happened and saved Gregg came in the ninth when he got in a terrible hole only to have a lucky double play get him out and save the game for him.

Mattick led off with a drive to right center for two bases. Such a hit in the previous inning just when Ping was nipped would have tied the count. Weaver followed with a terrific smash right through Olson for a single, and Mattick stopped at third. It looked as if Gregg was gone, but Schalk's best was a hot line smash which went to Chapman on the first bound and a double play was easy.

Cal Uses Fifteen Players.

All told, Callahan used fifteen athletes in his effort to create more runs than Joe Jackson had done for Cleveland. At the start of the eighth inning the Naps had their three runs and the Sox hadn't counted. It was Rath's turn at bat, and Joe Berger was sent up in his place. Zeider replaced Lord and followed Berger in the batting, then Collins and Bodie were next, and Callahan himself went in and hit for Borton, Fournier going to first base when the round was over.

Previous to that Lange had batted for Scott, and Eddie Cicotte went to the slab hurling the last two innings against the Naps in quite remarkable style. He struck out four men, fanning the side in the eighth, and no one got anything that looked like a base hit. Of course if Cicotte could have gone all through the game at such a pace he should have been chosen to hurl instead of Scott.

Although the weather was far from ideal for baseball, Cleveland made a great affair of the opening. There were fully 15,000 fans present, the stands and bleachers being just about filled. During the morning the sun had been out for a couple of hours or more, and it was warm and cheery, but before 1 o'clock it had clouded up and all through the game it was dark.

Hot Coffee Sells Fast.

Outside of Jackson, the most popular thing at the game was hot coffee. Some one knew it was going to be cold and made money out of it. There were dozens of boys in spotless white who passed through the stand with wire crates of thermos bottles, and each bottle contained steaming hot coffee. It was a new idea, and every one wanted to buy. For a nickel one could get a little paper cup full of the hot Java and a lump of sugar. This put the ice cold soda boys on the bum in a hurry. The sandwich venders followed the coffee boys and were sold out before the game was half over.

The largest part of the crowd was out early to look over the players in practice and watch the moving picture men catch the athletes in various stunts on the ball field. The canvas covering over the diamond had been removed at noon, and the grounds were in excellent condition. The bit of morning sunshine had almost dried up the outfield. Callahan sent both Scott and Benz to the warming up slabs fifteen minutes before game time, and Manager Birmingham of the Naps sent out both Gregg and Mitchell. Every one thought Benz would be chosen for Chicago, and Mitchell for the Naps, but both leaders changed their minds after watching the hurlers in action.

Gregg Fans Two at Start.

Gregg started off in fine form, striking out two batters in the first round. Rath was making him work and had the call of three and two when Gregg surprised him by curving over the third strike. Lord followed with a roller that went right through Chapman, and after Collins had died on a fly, Lord stole second, but Bodie fanned, ending it.

Scott also opened strong, fanning Johnston. Chapman popped to Bodie and Olson was thrown out by Lord. The Sox had a chance to score in the second, but Jackson spoiled it. Borton began with a walk, and after Mattick had fanned, Weaver was safe when Graney dropped his fly. Schalk lifted to Birmingham, then Scott hit a liner to right, which could easily have been a double, only Jackson sprinted, raced back, and caught it.

Right after that Jackson hit in a line against the concrete wall in right field for a double. Lajoie hit the first ball a terrific smash right through Rath for a single. Jackson was held at third. Birmingham followed with a nasty short fly in right field and Morris Rath made a wonderful running catch. He tried to catch Lajoie off first, but threw wildly, letting Jackson trot home. Lajoie moved to third. Graney drew a base on balls and on an attempt to steal was caught. Land bounded one to Weaver, who made a wild heave to first, letting Lajoie count. Gregg fanned, ending the bad round.

Jackson Lines Out Triple.

Jackson, first up in the fourth, lined one to the wall in right center for a triple. Lajoie came right through with a long fly to Collins in right center and Jackson scored. Birmingham fanned and Graney singled, but was nipped a moment later stealing.

The Sox threatened in the sixth, when "Shano" Collins led off with a double to right center, but his effort was wasted, because no hits followed. He made third when Bodie flied deep to Birmingham, but Borton tapped out to Gregg, and Mattick rolled to Olson.

Callahan changed his team in the eighth and the Sox got their one run. Berger went up for Rath and grounded out, then Zeider, who had replaced Lord, pulled a stinging single inside of third base. Collins boosted to Birmingham, but Bodie walloped a liner to left center for a single, Zeider going to third. Callahan batted for Borton and drove a single right through Olson, Zeider scoring, while Ping had to stop at second. Then, with Mattick, at bat, the trick was worked on Bodie and he was picked off second, retiring the side.

Gregg was lucky in the ninth, when a double play came to his rescue. Mattick had doubled and Weaver singled, Mattick stopping at third, when Schalk slapped into a double play. Cicotte then popped to Chapman and the game was over.

SAM WELLERISMS.

Cleveland, O., April 11.—[Special.]—One more with Cleveland will end this series. Benz and Mitchell are named as the hurlers.

The Sox will rush from the grounds tomorrow to the train, being scheduled to leave here for St. Louis at 5:30 o'clock.

Charley Somers made himself popular with the baseball writers by sending a boy up to the press stand with thermos bottles of hot coffee.

Capt. Lord succeeded in stealing second once only because of a great slide. The ball was there much ahead of him, but it was on the wrong side of the bag.

Eddie Cicotte was using the "spitter" much of the time and had it breaking low and fast. He seems to be in as good pitching form as any one on the staff.

Chapman, the new shortstop for the Naps, showed a lot of pepper in his playing and working along side of Lajoie he should develop into a star at the job.

Ed Walsh worked out for a half hour today and looked to be in pitching form. He will wait until the series with the Browns before trying a game.

No one hit any long fouls down in the corners of the field so the new rule prohibiting the retrieving of them immediately was not tried out. However, Silk O'Loughlin tossed out a new ball every time a foul tip went back to the grandstand.

ROUT HAMILTON IN EIGHTH.

Crawford's Batting and Fielding of Vitt Feature Contest.

St. Louis, Mo., April 11.—St. Louis and Detroit engaged in a slugging match today, the locals winning, 8 to 6.

St. Louis piled up a good lead in the sixth, scoring five runs when Johnson got his third single with the bases full. The Browns then bunted over three more before being retired.

Detroit knocked Hamilton off the slab in the eighth, scoring two runs on four successive singles and a wild pitch. Baumgardner, who relieved Hamilton, was unsteady. Crawford's hitting and Vitt's fielding were features. Score:

NAPS GIVEN SMALLPOX SCARE.

Secretary of Club Suffers from Slight Attack of Disease, but Players Appear Safe.

Cleveland, O., April 11.—[Special.]—The Cleveland club owners and players were given a scare today when it was discovered that William Blackwood, club secretary, had a mild attack of smallpox.

Blackwood was taken ill on the way home from Pensacola, Fla., and when he reached here on Tuesday went to bed at once. The physician at first pronounced the case chicken pox, but this morning he said it was smallpox and notified the health office.

The authorities decided not to take stringent measures until it was seen what progress the disease made. The players all will be examined tomorrow before the game, and if there is no evidence that others have been attacked there will be no vaccination order given, as to vaccinate the men now would play havoc with the team.

Blackwood is getting along nicely at his home and will be released from quarantine in a few days.

FEDERAL LEAGUERS ARE HERE.

Keeley's Men Assemble and Will Start Training at St. Vincent de Paul Field on Tuesday.

Bert Keeley's Federal leaguers were assembled yesterday and on Tuesday will start training for the Federal season, which is to open on May 6.

Magnates of the Federal league will go into session at Indianapolis at noon today to complete plans for the season, which is to open with six clubs in the field.

Manager Keeley will give a smoker at the Monroe Athletic club Monday night to introduce his team and Tuesday morning the club will start active training on the grounds at St. Vincent de Paul in preparation for the season's opening.

The chances are that the Chicago Federals will open on grounds closer to the city than Gunther park. The announcement of the location of the new park will be a surprise, it is said.

CUBS IDLE AGAIN; MAY PLAY TODAY

Opening Features Will Be Retained if Game with Cards Is Possible.

PEST SCARE DIES OUT.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

By knocking the works completely out of the National league schedule and half of the American league program yesterday the weather bureau did its best to convince baseball magnates that trying to open the baseball season right after town meeting day is a hazardous and costly experiment.

Another effort will be made today to pry the stopper out of the local season, and the announcement is made officially that the twice postponed features will be retained on the card until the opening does come off, no matter if it is delayed until next week.

Cubs Escape Vaccination.

The Cubs escaped vaccination, partly because the reports coming from Minneapolis were found to be like baseball attendance figures—slightly overestimated. The first rumor crediting two Minneapolis players with smallpox infection was reduced Thursday night by half, and yesterday's developments were to the effect that the other half of the scare was untrue. In other words, there wasn't a sign of the dread disease in the Cantillon camp.

Not taking any chances, the local board of health went through with the original orders for inspecting the Trojans. Dr. W. K. Murray, who was detailed to look after the matter, examined the Chicago players and reported most of them already well protected by vaccination. He did not find any of the players in need of the virus, consequently there will be no sore arms in the local squad except those due to idleness. The players will be kept under technical surveillance for a few days, however.

Trojans Practice at Park.

The Cubs went out to the ball park and warmed up for a brief spell on the high spots so as to retain as much as possible of their training trip form. The rest gave Vic Saier's ankle a chance to limber up a bit, but it will not be known whether or not he can take part in today's game—if played—until time to begin the scrap. Something depends on what pitcher Manager Huggins uses on the slab.

Some gloom in the Cardinal camp grows out of the fear that Arnold Hauser, the Chicago boy who has been starring at short for St. Louis, may be permanently disabled. Hauser wrenched his knee playing indoor baseball last winter and the injury became serious during the spring trip. It is thought Hauser, who was left in St. Louis, may have the same difficulty that kept Russell Blackburne of the White Sox out of the game for so long and cost him a job with the south side team.

President Britton of the Cardinals yesterday wired Hauser not to consent to any operation on his knee in St. Louis, but to come to Chicago for examination by Dr. J. B. Murphy if it is found necessary to use the knife. Dr. Murphy removed a troublesome cartilage from Blackburne's knee a year ago last summer and the young shortstop proved by his work in Milwaukee last fall that the operation was successful.

Roger "Almost" Meets Huggins.

Roger Bresnahan and Miller Huggins almost met yesterday in the corridors of the Hotel Sherman, where both are quartered, but passed without exchanging even wireless greetings. It may be interesting if Roger should happen to make a two base hit during the only remaining game of the St. Louis series today. Charley O'Leary probably will cover second if any attempt is made to catch Roger napping.

SEVERAL PIN LEAGUES CLOSE.

Taylor Trunks Land Title in Randolph by One Game—Al Toemmel Tops the Individuals.

Several bowling leagues celebrated final games of the season last night. The Randolph, Chicago Transportation, and Jefferson leagues were among the number.

The Taylor Trunks captured the title in the Randolph league by a margin of one game over the Pelikans after the Kellys had saved the day by springing two league records on the Pelikans in the first series of a double header.

With a lead of three games the Taylors almost lost out when they lost two games while the Pelikans won all three. The individual title went to Al Toemmel, with Ed Kelly and Charley Collier running second and third.

The C. T. A. "pennant" was captured by the Hoosiers, who celebrated their final series by defeating the Twentieth Centurys. The Centurys had a big lead at one stage of the race. Hurless won the individuals with an average of 189.

Other races decided were the Novotny, where the Melichs won the team event and Pribyl took the singles, and the Jefferson, where the Sir Cliftons ended in first position.

JOHNSON BACKS UP UMPIRES

NOT GOOD FOR DISCIPLINE.

Ninety Per Cent of Trouble Caused by Use of Vicious Language.

BY HANDY ANDY.

Suspensions will continue to be handed out to American league baseball players for serious infractions of the rules without the formality and delay of giving the offenders a hearing.

That in effect was the reply made yesterday by President Johnson of the American league to President Fultz of the players' organization who recently presented a formal request that punishment of men ejected from the grounds by umpires be withheld until their side of the case could be heard.

Mr. Johnson takes the ground that 90 per cent of these suspensions are for the use of profane and vicious language, an evil which has required years of persistent work to reduce to its present minimum. Punishment is meted out on the reports of umpires and these officials are aware that they cannot retain their positions unless their reports are veracious. The players' contention is dismissed as unworthy of serious consideration because it would be too obstructive to maintaining discipline on the ball field.

"I have your letter under date of April 7 and note the contents. Ninety per cent of the players suspended in the American league are disciplined for using profane and vicious language. It required years of persistent work to minimize this evil, and the American league will make no departure from the course it has always pursued in handling players of this class. The reports of umpires simply convey the facts, and they must be absolutely the truth. In all the years that I have been president of this organization I do not recollect of a single player that has submitted an affidavit to me impugning the veracity of one of my officials. Your suggestion, if adopted, would be too obstructive to good discipline and cannot have our serious consideration."

BAUMGARTNER A PUZZLE.

Holds Rival Club to Four Scattered Bingles and Strikes Out Twelve Foes.

BY MAROON.

Stanwood Baumgartner, the former Wendell Phillips high school athlete, broke into Maroon baseball fame when he pitched the Midwayites to a 1 to 0 victory over the Commonwealth Edison team yesterday on Marshall field. The young Maroon traveled the entire distance, allowed his opponents only four hits and fanned twelve.

The south siders made their only tally in the second inning with one out. Capt. Freeman shot a whizzing grass cutter into center field for a single and advanced to second on a passed ball. Des Jardien scored him with a hit twenty feet over the left fielder's head for two bases. The Maroons will play the "Medics" today. Score:

HE CITES BRAVERY CASES

Committee Must Decide Which Is Entitled to Honor for the Last Year.

Sixty-six members of the fire department are recommended for consideration by the board which will award the Lambert H. Tree medal for bravery, in a report submitted to the civil service commission yesterday by Fire Marshal Seyferlich.

A similar award is made in the police department out of a fund established by the late Carter H. Harrison.

NEGRO AND JEWELS VANISH.

Hall Man and $600 Worth of Gems of Miss Birdie Bowman Disappear at Same Time.

Miss Birdie Grace Bowman, local representative of an eastern magazine, with headquarters in the People's Gas building, has asked the police to search for $600 worth of jewels stolen from her room in the Maryland hotel, 752 Oakwood boulevard.

The loot consists of two diamond brooches, a diamond, and a garnet ring. Miss Bowman wore them last on Sunday. That night, instead of following her custom of storing them in an iron bound trunk, she placed them in a pasteboard box in her bureau drawer. She never looked again until she returned from her office Tuesday evening, when the theft was discovered.

A negro hall man who had entered Miss Bowman's room to clean windows during her absence, suddenly resigned his position. The police have since sought him for information, but say he no longer hangs around his former haunts.

U. S. PRISONERS TO GO TO JOLIET

Hereafter, for an indefinite period, all men sentenced to the penitentiary from the federal courts in Chicago will be sent to Joliet instead of to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas. Notice of the change came yesterday to District Attorney James E. Wilkerson, who said he did not know the reason of the change.

WESLEY HOSPITAL UNDER FIRE

Coroner's Jury Recommends Investigation of Institution.

RESULT OF QUEER DEATH.

Verdict Finds Patrick J. Halpin Died of Poison.

That Wesley hospital and its physicians, especially Dr. Moses N. Nielson, be investigated by the health department, was the recommendation yesterday of the coroner's jury, which returned a verdict that Patrick J. Halpin died at the institution on Feb. 28 of arsenical poisoning. The jury was unable to determine how the poison was administered.

Had Trouble with His Eyes.

Halpin lived at 5017 Aberdeen street and had gone to the hospital for treatment for his eyes. He became violent in the night and Dr. Nielson, one of the internes at a previous session of the coroner's jury, admitted on the witness stand that he administered drugs whose constituents he did not know. These drugs were morphine, ergot, and hyoscin.

Coroner's Methods Incomplete.

Incomplete methods of the coroner's office in performing the autopsy on the body of Halpin were disclosed by the testimony at the inquiry by Coroner's Physician Joseph Springer.

It developed that the stomach and brain of the decedent disappeared before they could be subjected to chemical analysis.

Health Commissioner George B. Young declared when he heard of the verdict that it was not within the jurisdiction and authority of the health department to investigate the acts of doctors or internes of a hospital.

He said that such a probe would come under the jurisdiction of the state board of health.

JUDGE ORDERS MAN IN COURT NOT TO PAY A LOAN SHARK.

Owens Acts When Nonsupport Case Defendant Pleads Inability to Pay for His Child's Living.

"Tell the loan shark I told you not to pay him," said County Judge Owens yesterday to Jacob Silberstein when the latter said his payment of $3 a week to a money lender made it impossible for him to support his child.

"I would be willing to pay $10 a week, your honor, but she got a divorce by fraud," said Silberstein. "I had to borrow $25 from a loan shark to pay the lawyer. He filed a cross bill, but then said I had better not contest. He said I would not have to pay anything to my wife in that case. He was Henry Seligman."

"There ought to be an investigation in this case," said the judge. "I will talk to Mr. Seligman. Give your wife $5 a week."

Johnson Pounds Floor with Bat—Unsportsmanlike Neighbor Douses Enthusiasm with Hot Water.

Spring baseball training at 415 South Ashland avenue ended in explanations at Desplaines street court yesterday when Walter Johnson and his wife were arraigned. Mrs. Belle Stevens, who occupies the first flat, declared Johnson rose in the middle of the night and pounded on the floor with a baseball bat. She responded by pitching some boiling water at him. The Johnsons were ordered to move by next Tuesday or pay fines of $100 each.

DID HE JUMP INTO THE LAKE?

Hatless, Coatless Man Seen Running Toward Beach and Police Vainly Hunt for Body.

Police yesterday searched for several hours along the lake shore in the vicinity of Hawthorne place for an unidentified man who is supposed to have committed suicide. The man, running without hat or coat, was seen by Joseph Matier, 738 Barry avenue, and Miss Helleman, 3229 North Halsted street.

Stylish Clothes
For Women

Clothes competition is a good thing in a way, but if for the sake of seeing how cheaply a garment may be merchandised in competition the ingredients are diluted, then it's a very deplorable affair.

We prefer to make our raiment the best we know how, adding as small a percentage of profit as is possible, but seeing first that stanch, desirable qualities constitute the make-up of a garment.

They are garments then that bring you back again because of lasting satisfaction.

Elsie Schey, soprano, will take the principal rôle in the music and song festival to be given by the augmented choir of Rogers Park Evangelical Lutheran church, Morse avenue at Paulina street, the evening of Friday, April 18. This is the first of a series of monthly festivals, the purposes of which are to wipe out the church debt and increase efficiency of the organ. The entire Lane Tech. Glee club and orchestra will assist. Philip Heusel, director of music at the church, has made elaborate plans. The Rev. N. J. Hadley, pastor, has confidence in the choir and believes the success of the festivals will be pronounced.

The performance is given by the Chicago Alumnæ Club of the University of Chicago and is for the benefit of the University of Chicago settlement and the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations. It consists of a one act play, a musical sketch containing a number of Kentucky mountain ballads, of a number by Mrs. Phoebe Bell Terry, and of a reproduction of a dance and reading of "L'Allegro." John Hand's orchestra will play for the "L'Allegro" and during the intermissions. The University of Chicago Glee club will attend in a body and will sing between acts. The University of Chicago baseball team will occupy boxes.

The Dramatic club of the St. James parish house is to give its first performance on Wednesday evening next in the Sunday school room of the house. The club is another step in the general scheme of social work which St. James' Episcopal church has launched under the guidance of its social secretary, Miss Ethel Comstock. Some few months ago the parish instituted its series of Tuesday evening dances and Sunday evening suppers for young people of the parish and the innovation and attendant success have been widely discussed.

The one act farce "Ici On Parle Français," under the direction of Miss Louise Demmon, will be given. Miss Agnes Forsman will open the program with costume dances at 8:15, and after the play there will be dancing until 11:30 o'clock. Robert C. Adams will take the rôle of Mr. Spriggins, and Miss Mabel Towner of Mrs. Spriggins.

Asserts Christianity Needs Hatred Force.

"A LOVE that cannot hate its opposite is a love without self-respect, and an individual who can look upon injuries done others with the same serenity with which he enjoys his own blessings needs new moral blood corpuscles.

The above epigrams figure in an editorial under the caption, "The Driving Power of a Common Hatred," contained in the current issue of the Biblical World, issued yesterday by the University of Chicago Press. Dean Shailer Mathews of the divinity school of the university is editor of the magazine.

"Politeness never led a crusade," he writes. "The ultimate worth of a theology will be measured by its power to kindle love of good and hatred of evil. You cannot save the world with illumination. A locomotive needs a headlight, but it needs a blazing firebox more.

"The church needs truth, but it needs more a driving, unifying love that can beget a driving, unifying hatred of evil.

"We are living in stirring times, and the most surprising of all is the combined assault of Bulgarians, Servians, Montenegrins, Macedonians, and Greeks upon the Turkish empire.

"Whatever political rearrangement this triumph of little Europe over the Turks may ultimately mean, it is an object lesson in the driving, unifying, and constructive power of common hatred. And this is a lesson that the church may well ponder.

"Jesus never pretended that love of what is good means easy going tolerance of what is evil. The first duty of the holy spirit was to convict the world of sin. If the forces of the modern church are to follow the impulses of the holy spirit, they will not only love God with all their might but they will hate evil with all their might. If they hate evil they will cease hating each other.

"When men hate they are no longer investigative, neutral, 'seeking for truth.' They want to destroy something.

"Until we get this sort of hatred our religious message will be too optimistic. If the forces of evil are not destroyed the forces of good will be so far handicapped. If we Christians are to get together we must hate together, and when we hate together we shall get together."

Tuberculosis Exhibit on West Side.

Since the exhibit of the Tuberculosis institute was placed in the loop there has been a demand for its appearance in other portions of the city, and it is already scheduled for the balance of the year.

This evening at 8 o'clock it will open in West Park No. 2, with Dr. Theodore B. Sachs, president of the institute, as chairman. The speakers will be Dr. George B. Young, commissioner of health, and William Kolacek, representing the West Chicago park commissioners.

All clubs of the park are coöperating to make the exhibit a success, and its local expenses are being borne by the Jewish Consumptive Relief society.

How to Earn Money at Home

The purpose of this department is to find profitable employment for women in occupations which they can carry on at home without interfering with their domestic duties. To stimulate suggestions, The Tribune will award $1 each for every help published. Address—Sally Joy Brown, care The Tribune, Chicago.

The exhibit room in The Tribune building is open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., except on Saturday, when it closes at noon.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

ARE you a country woman?

Do you have a little garden of your own where you raise fresh vegetables for your little family?

Do you often find that you have more than you can use?

Why not send some of these good, fresh things to people who have been unable to buy them except at exorbitantly high prices?

It makes it possible for you to send one basket of your fine special strawberries, if that is all you have to ship at the time.

What a joy it would be to the city woman to have boxes of strawberries just glistening as they do on the vines and with the luscious perfumed taste that the fresh strawberries have!

How are you going to reach the people who would like to buy the things you have to sell?

That, too, is so simple!

All you have to do is to have a small advertisement printed in THE TRIBUNE Home Workers' Market Place that is just below this column!

That will tell city dwellers of the good things you have to sell—of the early strawberries, crisp green beans, fresh eggs, creamy butter.

Don't you think that a basket of those fine strawberries for which your garden is famous would look mighty attractive if they were packed with a few of the pretty green leaves around the edge?

Don't you think that some of the extra large white eggs that you have on the farm would appeal to city people who have to take their eggs mostly on faith?

Just consider the wonderfully wide possibilities that the parcel post system opens up to you.

Just think of the possibilities that the advertising section of THE TRIBUNE Home Workers' Market Place opens up to you to reach the people who can make a bank account possible for you.

Take the time to write to me of the things that you have to sell from your farm or from your little home place, and let me help you to reach people who want to buy these things.

Write to me and let me suggest attractive and unusual ways of packing the products, so that they will bring the best possible price.

I know of the great things that you can do with even a small start, and I want you to know of them by experience.

Made Oilcloth Aprons.

A sister of mine who lived near a high school made a few aprons for the girls to wear to protect their dresses while working in the laboratory. These aprons, made of table oil cloth, became such a boon that they were soon introduced into the kitchens of the various homes from which these girls came. My sister's trade grew until now she has all the work she can do. The aprons differ in price according to the grade and color of the oil cloth used.

Outfits for New Babies.

One woman makes baby clothes, furnishing everything necessary for an infant to wear. She buys flannel, dainty dress material, etc., by the bolt, also large quantities of pretty embroidery and lace, getting them at wholesale price. She also buys the little shirts and stockings to add to the collection, making the outfit complete. Fine flannel skirts are daintily embroidered, others plain. The dresses are made in different styles, some plain while others are tucked and trimmed and look dainty and pretty when finished. She can sell these "baby outfits" reasonable and has all the orders she can fill. Her customers are mostly young expectant mothers, who have worked in stores and offices and know little about sewing and getting the necessary garments ready for the infant. There are also the class of women who do not care to spare time shopping and sewing and are thankful to get things made in this way. She thoroughly enjoys the neat, dainty work and makes a fine profit.

Recipe for Spice Cake.

Here is my recipe for an inexpensive spice cake. It is so delicious and will easily sell for 50 cents: One cup sugar heaping, one egg, one-half cup meat fryings, one cup rich sour milk in which has been beaten one small teaspoon soda, two cups flour (measured before sifting), one heaping teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ground cloves, one-third of a nutmeg, grated; one large cup raisins, seeded and cut in two with scissors (not chopped). Bake in a small dripping pan in a slow oven. Frost with a plain boiled frosting. This cake is moist and keeps so for a long time. Cottage cheese is also a good seller.

Sells Wild Ferns.

A resourceful Indiana woman makes her clothes money by selling wild ferns to her townsmen. With her son she goes to the woods and carefully takes up the ferns which grow there in abundance, roots, dirt, and all. Her son takes orders and delivers them in his express wagon. Some order enough of the sword ferns for porch or window boxes; others order the more delicate varieties, such as the maiden hair for fern dishes for the dining room; others fit up ferneries, while almost any house owner will order enough for a generous row for the north side of the house, where it is always cool and shady.

M. BRANDENBURG, 6856 South Park avenue, Chicago.

New and Fine.

Recipe for cherry cake: Cream one cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter; add three well beaten eggs, three tablespoons of cream, one teaspoon of cinnamon, nutmeg, and cloves, one and one-half cups of flour into which has been sifted one scant teaspoon of soda. Mix well and add a cup of canned cherries, juice and all. New and fine.

Profits From a Window Garden.

I have found a window garden to be an interesting as well as a surprisingly profitable home employment. By getting reliable seeds of high class varieties of flowering and ornamental plants one can occasionally produce an extra fine or new specimen which will sell for a large price, while practically every plant that comes forth will sell well. Little, shallow pine boxes such as can be procured at any grocery store can be used to sow the seeds in. After the plants get four leaves on them they can be transferred to flower pots of small size, two to four inches. Geraniums, carnations, begonias, coleus, sweet ferns known as artemisia, abutilon, ageratum, violets, fuchsia, and baby roses are among the best to use. Be sure to get the good seeds. Directions generally accompany them or can be had for the asking. Seeds cost 10 cents to 35 cents, according to the variety, or one can buy a large plant of several of the above varieties and propagate them from cuttings and thus get three to seven plants from each original. You would hardly believe how many nickels and dimes one can get off a couple of little boxes of mint and parsley. A 10 cent can of green paint will make the seed boxes quite presentable in most any window.

[Aut]horized to Rent Rooms Outside Federal Building Because of Magnitude of the New Business.

[W]ashington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]—[Post]master Campbell of Chicago will be [auth]orized to rent additional space for the [han]dling of the enormous parcel post business of that city. Mr. Campbell conferred [tod]ay with the treasury and postoffice department on the situation.

[Th]e treasury officials said the proposed [add]ition of a mezzanine floor in the federal [buil]ding could not be made without authority [of c]ongress, and the only alternative is the [leas]ing of space in outside buildings.

[Mr.] Campbell also asked for additional [carr]iers and clerks. First Assistant Post[mas]ter General Roper said additional help [wou]ld be allowed at once.

[W]hen asked what he thought of Postmaster [Gen]eral Burleson's plan of placing all post[mas]ters under civil service and appointing [the]m without regard to locality, Mr. Campbell said:

"Theoretically the plan is a good one, but I [hav]e my doubts that it would work out suc[cess]fully in practice. A postmaster able to [han]dle a force of fifty men admirably in one [tow]n might be unable to direct 500 men in an[othe]r town."

[MO]THER'S PENSION BILL WINS.

[Me]asure Passed by Ohio House Now Goes to Governor, Whose Approval Is Assured.

Columbus, O., April 11.—The Greenlund [bill] providing for pensions for indigent moth[ers] was passed in the house today by a vote [of 9]2 to 4. It now goes to Gov. Cox, whose [app]roval is assured.

[D]estitute widows, women whose husbands [are] completely disabled, have deserted them, [or] are serving prison sentences, are to be [car]ed for.

[J]uvenile courts are to be authorized to pay [suc]h women $15 a month for a child under [16] years of age, and $7 a month for each ad[ditio]nal child under that age. The bill [ame]nds the juvenile code by prohibiting the [sale] of newspapers or chewing gum by boys [und]er 14 years of age.

[W]ives Sue Under Dramshop Act.

[Tw]o suits were filed against saloonkeepers and a [brew]ery in the Circuit court yesterday under the [dram]shop act. Damages of $10,000 are sought in [each] suit. Mrs. Ellen Conroy and her family are [the] plaintiffs against Hyman Lowenthal and Frank [...]owitz. The other suit is by Mrs. Margaret [...]alton against Joseph Berdel and the Conrad [Seipp] Brewing company. The suits are for damages as the result of the habitual intoxication of [the] husbands of the women.

CHILDREN GIVEN TO DOLPH; VICTORY OVER WIFE COMPLETE

Aurora, Ill., April 11.—[Special.]—Litigation over the possession of the children of Fred A. Dolph, a Chicago attorney, which has been going on here for some time, ended today in a complete victory for the husband.

After a conference lasting six hours attorneys for Dolph and his former wife reached an agreement which was subsequently incorporated into a decree by Judge Mazinni Slusser. The terms of the decree are as follows:

The two children, Martha, aged 18, and Roy, aged 15, are to be given into the custody of Dolph and are to be placed in a school which has the approval of the judge; Dolph shall pay his wife $30 a month for three months beginning May 1, as well as $300 in back alimony. On July 1 Mrs. Dolph shall move out of the Dolph family residence. Dolph agrees to furnish for her a five room flat.

BREAK! BREAK! BREAK! POOR SHE

Pasadena, Cal., April 11.—Miss Belle Sams of this city was the victim of a peculiar series of accidents today, all occurring within the space of a couple of seconds. While washing dishes Miss Sams dropped a soup tureen on her foot, breaking one of the bones. She put out an arm to save herself from falling and struck the edge of the kitchen sink so violently that the arm was broken. Collapsing in a faint, the young woman fell to the floor in such a manner that one of her legs was twisted under her and broken.

Franck D Minor Symphony Again Pleases Hearers.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

THE César Franck symphony in D minor, which in the last thirteen years has grown from an unintelligible work to one of the most favored and beautiful in the répertoire of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, was given another superb reading at yesterday's matinée. Those who have attended the concerts for years will recall the puzzled attitude at the close of the first reading in the ninth season of the orchestra, an attitude little different from that at the Conservatoire ten years earlier, save that Chicago was willing to learn, whereas Paris was not so disposed. That since that time the puzzle has disappeared and a sincere, earnest enjoyment developed is due not alone to the actual merit of the composition but as well to the art of the orchestra and the devoted enthusiasm of the director.

Mr. Stock must find his reward first in the consciousness that the persuasive eloquence of his interpretation has converted thousands to belief in an expression of beauty far removed from the conventional and the obvious. But it is hoped that his satisfaction in having thus contributed to the progress of the art is not lessened by the realization that the serenely poised, authoritative and inspiring recreative gifts which he discloses in this work, as in the "New World" symphony of Dvorak, the "Faust" and "Dante" symphonies of Liszt, or the "Unfinished" symphony of Schubert—to mention only a few of his notable achievements—entitle him to a place among the foremost masters of orchestra in America or elsewhere.

The program opened with the overture to "Der Improvisator" of d'Albert, a brilliant bit of orchestration. The "Finlandia" of Sibelius, which the composer termed a tone poem, rhapsodic in treatment, strikes the hearer as quite unnecessary and hardly entertaining. Even less can be said for a later offering of the day, "Die Nächtliche Heerschau" of Jean Paul Ertel, which purports to follow the idea of the poem, describing the ghostly resurrection at midnight of the soldiers of the first Napoleon. The theoretic climax is built about a tedious repetition of a few bars from "The Marseillaise," dropping suddenly to silence at the stroke of 1 by the gong. The midnight hour is too long, and the clock which strikes 1 should be set forward about fifty-eight minutes.

There is much more to be said for the principal novelty of the day, the "Elegy, Chorale, and Fugue" of Thorwald Otterström, a Danish pianist and composer, for the last twenty years a resident of Chicago. For those of the audience qualified to follow appreciatively the interesting intricacies of Mr. Otterström's work the reading given by Mr. Stock was highly interesting. The theme, announced by the violas, develops into the massive chorale for the brasses, and is further varied in rhythm to become the subject of a well constructed fugue that has more than technical merit to commend it. The orchestra responded sympathetically under Mr. Stock's baton, and a part of the audience extracted a high degree of enjoyment from it. The composer was twice recalled to acknowledge polite applause.

William Middelschulte, the day's soloist, contributed his own "Passacaglia," which was given its first hearing under the same auspices fifteen years ago. Since then Mr. Middelschulte has revised the composition, originally for the organ alone, scoring it for brasses and drums for the concluding chorale, "Ein Feste Burg." The work, studied in detail, is found to offer some three score variations on the principal theme. Mr. Middelschulte, whose services with the orchestra have been considerable, was recalled for an encore, offering his version of Bach's toccata and fugue in D minor. The audience was moderately responsive.

MISS INGA ÖRNER
Soprano Metropolitan Opera

Miss Inga Orner, soprano of the Metropolitan opera, was the assisting artist at the concert of the Norwegian Singers' league last evening in Orchestra hall.

Norwegian Singers' League.

A concert by the Norwegian Singers' league last evening in Orchestra hall introduced to Chicagoans the Norwegian soprano, Miss Igna Orner, now of the Metropolitan opera. Miss Orner disclosed the possession of a voice which, in the mezzo range, is of rarely beautiful quality, the agent of a sympathetic and versatile interpretative art in the presentation of songs. Unfortunately the youthful singer was sufficiently misguided to adventure into the realm of the coloratura soprano because with much effort she can produce a clear but toneless high E flat. She therefore succeeded in defining the limitations as well as the advantages of her present stage of artistic development. Great beauty of person and charm of manner were important factors in her success with the public.

The concert likewise introduced Miss Esther Alfhild Erhart, pianist, in compositions of Schumann, Chopin, and Liszt, who displayed well schooled fingers, a tone of genuine beauty and much variety as well as commendable taste. The best male choruses in the city—the Mendelssohn club excepted—are those which testify to the love which Scandinavians cherish for the simple songs of their native land. Under Conductor Paulsen the Norwegian singers developed refinements of choral art that deserve unqualified approval.

Right Home Teaching Necessary.

I know several women whose husbands' salaries do not exceed $200 a month, who pattern after Mrs. Smith, whose husband's income is $6,000 a year. They deem it essential to their "social standing" to pay exorbitant prices for wearables, such as $1.50 for a lace handkerchief, $2.50 for silk hose, $10 for a corset made to order, $15 for a silk underskirt, $50 for a tailor made, $25 for a hat, etc.

Then hubby must live in a certain locality, where rent is $35 or $40 a month; keep a maid at $5 or $6 a week; call a taxi to go to the matinée, and one hundred and one other extravagances, entirely beyond their means, setting examples for their daughters (if they have any). I believe this method of "high" living is what makes prices soar, gives the merchant his millions, and keeps the middle class, who are the principal indulgers, always at the bottom. They never climb the ladder of success in finance or happiness, as they are always in debt, always paying bills, and never have anything for the future.

I believe the home making belongs to and is in the hands of the wife and mother, and the foundation of the home is the sweet, innocent boy's face, looking up to yours for love and sympathy, the link that binds and holds and makes the home a home. If women would turn their minds and hearts to the foundation work and the real responsibility that should rest with every mother, the future of our country would be safe and sound; teach their daughters economy and the foolishness of the dress mania, which seems to have a grip on every feminine being. It may seem a long way from the subject, but the right home teaching should be the root of all our ambitions, and the closer we keep to it the better for our country's good. We must break up this high cost by going back in our methods to where our mothers left off. The young generation, that is, must be taght wherein lies the fault. Mothers must teach their sons to be honest, virtuous, trustworthy and God fearing patriots, and their daughters by precept and example that the luxuries of dress are out of place, when you must go in debt for them and sink a husband's salary before it is earned.

I believe every mother should have an allowance and run her home on a business plan, keeping acccounts of what is spent, avoiding waste by looking into the affairs of her household, and not leaving it to servants; paying cash for everything and living well within her means, enjoying the best we can afford, but not believing that we can afford the best there is always. I believe instead of paying rent, that it is far more advisable to go in debt for a home, and put our savings into this, as it is a great incentive to economy; and that if economy is the watchword it will not be long until we can own our homes. There is too much squandering, needless destruction, useless consumption, too much superfluous expenditure of money without any gain.

MRS. M. H.

Moved to a Farm.

We have lived all our lives in a large city until the last few months, when we moved on a farm. Many people seem to think all is milk and honey there, but it means strict economy if a home is to be paid for. While everybody can't move to the farm as we did, yet I don't understand why folks live in the high rent district and try to economize on food. If you live next to a vacant lot why not rent that? It surely will help to fight high costs. I have a plot of land on which to raise our vegetables no larger than city folks have planted in grass. Grass is all right when it can be afforded, but not when every penny must count. All the lettuce, beets, radishes, beans, carrots, onions, peas, corn, tomatoes, and strawberries we cared to eat were raised from this plot. Any one can do the same and be surprised at the bountiful harvest. And that means money earned, as well as saved.

Many women I know buy most everything they see, if they have use for it or not, and when marketing is done complain of "high prices."

I do our laundry work and surely that is clear profit.

Try my garden plan. I assure you your vegetables will be fresher than when bought at the corner store, and money will be in your pocket beside.

A FARMER'S WIFE.

Three Housekeepers Combine.

Three young married couples hit on a plan of buying which has proved itself a good one. We noticed many bargains in staple groceries advertised in the Chicago papers at reduced prices.

Our plan is as follows: We each deposited $5 in the treasury and appointed one housewife to go to Chicago the next day and do the buying for the three of us. Out of the $15 she was to have her carfare and 25 cents for lunch and reserve enough for shipping the goods to our city.

She went to a department store and found that by buying canned goods, flour, sugar, coffee, and lard in large quantities she could get a price even lower than the advertised price. The assortment is large and the quality excellent.

About every three weeks one of the housewives takes a trip to Chicago for a $15 order. We have all carefully figured and find that we are buying the above mentioned articles from 10 to 15 per cent cheaper than we did the old way of the grocer.

We now have a regular organization and are delighted over our plan, and the writer is sure that if some more people with moderate incomes would try it they would be well pleased.

MRS. M. OWEN,
555 Adams street, Gary Ind.

Good Meals at Low Cost.

My mother and I, having a small income, by careful management contrive to live within its limits, keep well and happy, and put money in the bank.

We never buy cereals, etc., in packages, which we think is the dearest way to buy food. About once a week for breakfast we make a large pot of yellow cornmeal mush, which can be eaten with milk or with butter or molasses on it. Enough is left to fill a large square pan, which we slice and fry the following mornings and eat with molasses. This is considered a healthy diet and we enjoy it.

We always use butterine instead of butter; it costs about half as much, is just as good, and decidedly better than poor or cheap butter and none of our company knows the difference.

We have watermelon preserves, which is like honey, but cheaper, and watermelon pickles.

We seldom have meat, but when we do we buy the cheapest cuts and stew them, which is just as nice. We find soup an economical dish. A bowl of potato soup with bread will make an entire meal.

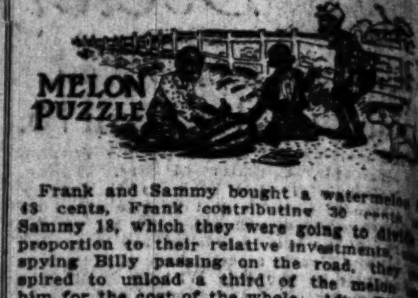

With our cornmeal mush and apples in some form every day, either raw, stewed, or baked, we save doctor's bills, and sleeping with our windows wide open all winter helps also.

Having a gas stove, we use many matches, but where it is possible we use each match twice or more. If one burner is going and we want to light another, instead of lighting a new match we light an old one from the burner that is going, and in that way our matches last twice as long.

We never patronize nickel shows, but save our nickels until something good comes along we want to see, then we go in the gallery, where many nice people go nowadays.

M. R.

From Near and Far.

Frank and Sammy bought a watermelon for 43 cents, Frank contributing 30 cents and Sammy 13, which they were going to divide in proportion to their relative investments. ... spying Billy passing on the road, they conspired to unload a third of the melon ... him for the cost of the whole. After Billy had gone the boys proceeded to divide the ... as they thought right, and then each of them ate a half of the remainder. How should the money be divided between Frank and Sammy?

Origin of "Dun."

In the days of Henry VIII. there lived in Lincoln, England, a famous bailiff named John Dun, so active, cunning, and successful in his business that the saying, when a debtor refused to pay, "Why don't you dun him?" became a proverb, which exists to this day.

The Italian Cauliflower.

GENOA.

THERE is much that is characteristic in this quaint old city. Its situation alone will always make it unique, with its circle of hills rising almost out of the sea, making of this chief seat of Italian commerce a strong fortress, even had not man augmented this natural stronghold with numerous forts.

The guide book says: "Its situation, rising above the sea in a wide semi-circle, and its numerous palaces justly entitle it to the sobriquet of 'La Superba.'" But there is so much to counteract this idea of superbness that it seems impossible that any one today should have for his idea of the superb such a place as this.

The guide book goes on to say: "The old town is a network of narrow and steep streets, lined with many storied buildings; but the newer quarters have broad and straight thoroughfares. Since the seventeenth century Genoa has been protected on the landward side by a rampart over nine miles long. The heights around the town are crowned with ten detached forts."

It is wonderful that the town has climbed as far as it has toward those forts, but there is still considerable space between them and the city below. There is no place on land from which one can look up at the city and get any true idea of its size. You must go out into the harbor in order to obtain an adequate view of the wonderful contour and picturesque huddle of the strangest buildings almost that ever were.

Not only is there no other way of seeing the city but there is no other way of knowing what the shipping is in this port, where the discoverer of America was born and in which there are so many memorials of him. It is amazing to see also the number of mere row boats with freight of all sorts that seem to cover the water completely and yet get out of the way in time to escape disaster when boats of larger cargo come plowing along.

After all, it is quite as impossible to describe this old city as it would be to describe the coliseum at Rome without some sudden and great inspiration. The guides who hang around the hotel doors mention the campo santo, or cemetery, first.

It is a wonderful ride by tram around one of the back heights of the city—back in the sense that the winding tableland is shut off from view below by high buildings. Part of the way is through tunnels, the last of which, as you descend, goes through the old wall that once surrounded the town, the western extremity of which has not yet been torn down. This wall looks to be at least a hundred feet higher than the street which is under it, on the outside, and it is exceedingly thick.

The covered market seems rather scanty, but these open markets, which clutter up an old square in front of some such place as a centuries old church and then have to scamper away, basket and box and hamper, by 9 o'clock, are always interesting.

The Italians of this portion of Italy are fond of the cauliflower, which seems to take the place of the cabbage, few of which are to be seen. A great part of the debris left after the morning market consists of the remnants of this plant.

FRIED CAULIFLOWER.—Boil the cauliflower and let it get cold. Cut it into little pieces which can be flattened; dip in egg and bread crumbs; fry in oil or butter and drain well.

Of course this is one of the numerous "fritti," but it is quite unbelievably delicate and creamy on the inside. The little bouquets of the cauliflower are put in the thick minestra, or soup, just as asparagus points are.

This vegetable makes a pleasant addition to the rissole, or croquette. An Englishwoman here, in making these from left overs (usually two kinds of meat), cooks some cauliflower on purpose, if she has none left over, for this dish. In the rissole she also puts any cold vegetables she has, some bread, some rice, binding the whole with egg, dipping the shapes in egg and bread crumbs, frying in hot oil, and draining well. These are not the slightest bit greasy.

Marion Harland's Helping Hand.
By Marion Harland

Frizzled Beef Creamed.

MAKE a good white sauce by cooking together a tablespoonful each of flour and butter until they bubble, adding a cupful of milk and stirring until smooth. Into this stir dried beef cut into strips. I think myself it is better if it has been crisped for a few minutes in a little butter before adding it to the cream sauce, but this is a matter of taste.

German Apfelstrudel.

One cup flour, one tablespoon melted butter, one egg well beaten; make a hollow in the middle of the flour, add melted butter, a pinch of salt, and the beaten egg. Mix all well together and put the bowl containing the dough over a kettle of boiling water for a few minutes, covering the bowl. Then lay the dough on a clean cloth and stretch it until it is as thin as tissue paper. Cut apples in thin slices—you may use peaches when they are in season—put with them seeded raisins, sugar to taste, three gingersnaps, and a few chopped almonds at the last. Strew this on the dough, scattering butter on it generously. Grease a baking pan well, lay in your cake, folding it over, and bake it a good brown. Sprinkle with powdered sugar after removing it from the oven.—Kindness of S. F.

Recreation for a Blind Man.

And now I am pleasing myself and, I hope, my readers, by giving at the end of this week a number of letters telling of gifts made and received—what we call our "echoes" of good deeds. I offer them without further explanation.

"I will send checkers at once to F. F. F. of Highland Park, Ill. I have written to W. L. of Williamsport, Pa., the blind man who asked for games he could enjoy and such will go forward as soon as I hear from him. Yours to serve, CLARA D. F."

To bring recreation into the life of a blind man is to "serve" in no mean way.

Gift of Stereopticon Views.

"Your letter giving me the address of Molly P. of South Bend, Ind., was received this morning. This afternoon I sent by parcel post a package of views for the stereoscope her mother had. I hope I may be of further use to the Corner. L. S. C."

Replies to the daughter who asked for gifts of stereopticon views for her mother have been generous. This is one of many, and each has brought a message of cheer.

Has Many on Her List.

"Will you kindly give me the name and address of M. D. N. in today's Corner? She wanted something for her little 15 year old daughter. I have no pieces—they all went to the women whose names you sent to me—nor have I a canary, but I would like to send her six months' subscription to some nice magazine. By the way, the woman in Lena, Ill., sent me a splendid letter in reply to the book I sent to her club. It was so wholesome and sincere. The others to whom I sent pieces have not answered, but I trust they reached them safely. "M. E. K."

The address for which you ask has gone to you by mail. But I cannot resist the temptation of printing your good letter. You recall what Mrs. Browning says:

"So others shall

The same lines come to the mind in reading the next letter:

"Just before Christmas I answered an appeal from your helpful Corner, and I must truthfully say I am much interested in the person. She is a crippled shut-in from South Bend, Ind.; her case is surely a sad one. I write once a week and she always answers. Next week I am going to pack a box of birthday presents for her—a pair of worsted slippers, a fancy apron, and I don't know for sure what else now. I feel sorry for her and anxious to cheer her all I can. MRS. N. B."

Gives a Baby Carriage.

"Your communication with reference to Mrs. E. B. was received and I shall take pleasure in writing to her at once. She can have the baby carriage, and I desire to express my appreciation of your good work in behalf of the needy, with the hope that others will do their share in order that you may take care of every worthy appeal. I only regret that I cannot do more just at present. JOHN E. W."

This letter is from a man who, though rushed and crowded with business, yet has time to remember to do kindnesses "in behalf of the needy."

Sent to a Lonely Woman.

"Today I am pacing a big box of old magazines for Mrs. M., whose name you sent to me. I was away from home when your reply came or the box would have reached her sooner. "M. B. Q."

We can imagine the wealth of happiness that "big box" contained for the lonely woman to whom it was sent.

Complains of Lonesomeness.

"The 'boy in the woods' has been a great source of delight to me. I enjoy his breezy letters. I just finished the second box of books and papers this week, besides sending some clothing, a jewsharp, and a mouth organ. He complains of loneliness and wishes for an accordion. I will get that later for him. "MRS. M. E. S."

Our "boy in the woods" has interested us all. It is good to know that he is to receive an accordion in due time. We shall doubtless hear from him when he gets this musical instrument. And our hearts thank the giver in anticipation of the lad's joy.

Another Request for Pennants.

Now for more requests:

"I am a little boy and I would like some college pennants to hang in my room. Won't you ask some one to send me some, if he has no use for them? My little sister would like some, too. I wrote to you a year ago, but you did not get my letter and I did not get the pennants. I wish I had something to give in exchange. ROBERT H."

A small boy who, after twelve months, still desires pennants to hang in his room and is generous enough to mention the desire of a "little sister" in the same breath, surely deserves them. Will the college students who have grown tired of these long narrow strips of colored flannel send to me for the address of the patient lad?

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.
By Lillian Russell

Hands.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

IT is said "Man speaketh with three tongues—the word, the tone, and the gesture." Correct poise is the mastery of all these. Balzac says in his "Comédie Humaine," "We acquire the faculty of imposing silence upon our lips, upon our eyes, upon our eyebrows, and upon our foreheads; the hand alone does not dissemble."

No feature is more expressive than the hand. The hand is the victim of emotion without forethought. The graceful path to this dexterity and the education and control of it is through physical exercise.

No part of the body appeals so sympathetically to the Delsartian method as the hands. Because it is the highest method, combining ethical and mental with physical culture. Hands can be vitalized and devitalized. Even stiff, awkward hands become relaxed and graceful in repose. And much nerve force is exhausted by women who keep the motionless hand vitalized with as grim determination as if it were clinging to a lifeline.

Gestures are outward expressions of inward emotion. When you acquire poise you will have complete control of the hands and body, and you will move so gracefully and naturally that the method of art whereby you acquire the ability will be entirely concealed.

All constrained, tense, awkward movements must be shunned. A position of repose should be restful to gaze upon. The action of giving a flower or a book should be done gracefully. And the action of taking a fan or a cup of tea should be graceful to behold.

Besides having a graceful motion of the body, one needs a wideawake, energetic bearing. This does not mean nervous activity, but the alert, alive movements that signify splendid vitality and an interest in life.

Don't drag yourself about, whiningly complaining of the state of your health. Carry yourself with grace, learn to sit properly. Stand correctly, and under no circumstances allow your body to settle down on your bones. The body must be supported by the muscles. The chest must be held up, the spine kept straight, and the weight placed on the balls of the feet.

Practice walking on your tiptoes for five minutes daily. It will help you to place the weight of the body where it belongs—on the balls of the feet. This gives a graceful poise to the figure. It is a frightful thing to see a woman shuffling along, hips forward, chest caved in, chin drooping—all giving the impression of despondency, dependency, and general unloveliness. No one wishes to be seen with such a person. Her influence is depressing.

Carry your head so that you can look everyone squarely in the face. That's the only way to do.

Breathe deeply. Deep breathing brings in its wake a train of good results. It tones up the nerves, gives better circulation, and has a wonderfully encouraging effect on the mind. If people would pay more attention to breathing, letting the air trickle into every part of the lungs, there would be fewer unlovely women and aged young ones.

Breathe plenty of air. The moment you are aware of having taken a cold, breathe deeply and slowly through the nostrils. Drink plenty of cold water, too. These are nature's medicines, too often overlooked and vastly superior to any of the remedies handed out at the drug store.

Remember: Woman depends largely upon her fascinations to keep happiness or to regain it, to combat or sue for pity. They are her weapons of warfare and her doves of peace.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

WILLIAM H.: When the hair falls more than is natural there surely must be some cause for it. Perhaps the scalp has become tightened and doesn't allow the hair to get enough nourishment. Have you ever thought to move the scalp with your finger tips? The scalp should be loose and flexible, and if it is not the hair will lose its luster and fall. Scalp massage is the secret of keeping the hair and scalp in a healthy condition. It does not take much time or patience to massage the scalp, and one need not be an expert at it, for it is easily done. Try massaging your scalp for about fifteen minutes each night, using a good hair tonic. In a few weeks you will see a vast difference in your hair. It will become full of life and stop falling. I shall be glad to send you instructions for scalp massage and formula for hair tonic if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

WILMA T.: I am afraid there is nothing you can do to bring your hair back to its natural color, but in time, with good care, it may return to its original shade. One is so foolish to bleach the hair. I would advise you to take treatments by an expert.

X. Y. Z.: I cannot send you a formula for bleaching the hair. I do not believe in changing the color of the hair. To bleach the hair means to ruin it, both in color and texture. In time your hair will become brittle and more like straw than hair from the constant use of a bleach. It is very difficult to keep the hair one shade after bleaching it. The hair will remain light at the ends, but will become dark and streaked near the roots. Give up the idea of bleaching your hair. Leave it as it is and take good care of it. If it is turning darker shampoo it with a good hair shampoo. I shall send you a formula for a shampoo for blonde hair which will help to keep your hair light. This is not a bleach.

Laura Jean Libbey's Advice
By Laura Jean Libbey

Girls Who Have No Lovers.

[Copyright: 1913: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

IT is all very well for a girl to say that she does not care if she never has a beau—that she is perfectly satisfied with her girl chums. Those who know her best wonder how long this notion will last. The girl who makes her boast that she does not care for the opposite sex soon wakes up to the fact that even her bosom friends have no sympathy with this view. Before they accept invitations to balls, affairs at each other's home, and dinners they are sure to inquire eagerly what young men have been invited.

Looking forward to having a beau stimulates the monotony of life—in short, puts it to rout. It is nature for a girl to look forward to having a beau. Every one must have some hope to look forward to to make life worth while.

The girl who has no lover has no incentive to put on a fresh blouse for evening or a dainty dinner gown. There is no one coming in to see her unless, perhaps, it is the girl next door who might drop in or her friend from around the corner to tell her the latest news about the couples she met at some recent affair.

The girl without a beau does not put up her hair in curl papers. She knows that she will be just as attractive in the eyes of her girl friends. It comes to pass that even these two friends drop off after awhile.

She hears from outsiders that each one of them has a beau. This is confirmed later on by the girls themselves, who come to tell her soon after of their betrothal.

She listens in awe to their enthusiastic chatterings. Both have the same story to tell: that they wonder how they ever thought themselves happy in the past without a lover, some one to expect when night drew its sable curtains and pinned them with a star. Now they have some one to take them hither and thither, some one who sent them bon bons and long, sweet letters to keep them company on the evenings which they would not be there.

They even confided to her how they were planning for the dear little cottage which was soon to be theirs. They invited her to come and look on and see how happy they were. It is not until this girl realizes that all her chums have left her for the love of a man that she begins to understand that the theory she had started out with as a young girl is all wrong—that it makes for desolation later on in life. She sees visions of being an inmate later on in the "aged spinsters' home," with no kinfolk's hand to hold a glass of water to her lips.

No one can travel back over the road and stand a second time at the gate of youth. While one is there she should resolve to let fate take its sway, content to follow in the same path that her mother chose. While it is wisest and best not to consider a beau, love, and marriage the great aim of life and gifts of happiness, it should be remembered that they should not be discouraged. Love is supposedly the natural outcome of the generality of lives, has its own place and fulfills its own mission.

Every girl—in fact, every single woman, regardless of age—should encourage the calls of a good, sensible man rather than discourage them. For there's nothing like the coming of a beau to set the songbirds a-warbling in the heart.

There is no life, no age which love will not brighten and glorify, even as the sun is bright and glorious in life's morning, sweet with strength in life's noon, and even tints the declining years with its rosy glow in its setting as it slants toward the west.

It is not natural for young girls to declare themselves against love by saying they can live happily without it. Those who have held determinedly to this belief have discovered their error when it was too late to rectify it. Love knocks at every one's door. Wise are those who bid it enter.

Did the Girls Do Right?

"Dear Miss Libbey: We are two young men of 22. Have been keeping company with two sisters, age 18 and 20. We were away for two weeks on a vacation, and while we were gone they went to a dance and other places with two other fellows. Do you think they did us right, as they never would go to a dance with us? They always said they didn't dance. We are not engaged. C. AND A."

If you are not engaged to the girls they are at perfect liberty to attend dances with other young men. Don't you think you were a bit unreasonable to expect them to give up everything while you were away on a pleasure jaunt yourself? I do.

He Has Proposed.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have been corresponding with a young man for the last seven months. This young man has proposed and insists on me waiting until I am of age. I am 16 and he is six years my senior. I love this young man dearly, but he sent me a ring Christmas I did not appreciate. I think he should have sent me something nicer if he loves me like he says he does. Sometimes he does not write quite as affectionately as at other times. "N. T. G."

O, you don't love the fellow at all! That's all there is to it. If you did you would not be measuring his affection for you by the value of the gift. You are entirely too young to be engaged, anyway. You'd better put out of your head all thoughts of men and marriage until you are a few years older.

IRREGULAR RANGE IN WHEAT TRADE

COARSE GRAINS STRONG.

Futures Close Higher on Short Covering in Corn; Provisions Rise Sharply.

The trend of wheat prices was irregular yesterday. The opening was firm on the relatively steady cables, after which there was free selling of long wheat by local bulls and commission houses. In the last hour the selling was overdone and the market had a fair rally. Last prices for the day were ⅛@⅝c lower to ⅛c up, the new crop months being relatively firm.

Liverpool was ⅛d off to ⅛d up, and Paris ⅛@½c lower, while Antwerp and Berlin were unchanged. Buenos Aires continues firm. Stocks of wheat in southern Russia were reported light, and this helped steady the foreign markets, especially as world's shipments were estimated at a smaller figure than expected. Liverpool was also influenced by the stronger tone at Winnipeg the last few days.

Conditions Better Northwest.

Weather conditions were more favorable, and reports indicated seeding would be in full blast in a few days if there were no further setbacks. These reports, together with the glowing accounts of the winter wheat conditions, led to moderate selling, and support was less active than recently. The Modern Miller's weekly summary said there would be but little abandoned acreage, and crop experts all sent in favorable reports. John Inglis, after a survey of the flooded districts in the Ohio valley, finds but little loss of acreage.

Receipts were fair at western points, 412,000 bu, compared to 268,000 bu a year ago; and receipts here were 24 cars, with 11 cars the estimate for today. Northwest arrivals were 200 cars, against 136 cars a year ago. Winnipeg had 269 cars, against 447 cars a year ago. Minneapolis stocks increased 60,000 bu for the week, and Duluth gained 150,000 bu.

Fair Cash Trade Reported.

Cash trade was good and there were sales of 100,000 bu reported, including 50,000 bu No. 2 hard for export all rail to the seaboard. Duluth sales have been fair recently and prices appear to be fairly attractive to buyers on the other side. Winnipeg reported 504,000 bu wheat sold for export Thursday. World's shipments were estimated at 14,200,000 bu. This country and Canada shipped 4,190,000 bu, compared to 2,615,000 bu a year ago. Argentina shipped 6,096,000 bu, Australia 1,648,000 bu, and India 280,000 bu. Clearances for the day were 510,000 bu, including 70,000 brls flour.

Corn Rallies After Decline.

Corn trade was fairly active and at the finish prices were ⅛c to ⅝@½c higher after an irregular range of prices. Shorts were fair buyers late in the day. Selling early was led by Lamson, Noyes-Jackson, and Kidston. Prospects for more favorable weather were a factor, but so far there has been no increase in the movement.

Receipts here were 153 cars, with only 80 cars inspected yesterday. In the west arrivals were 340,000 bu, compared to 297,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were small but for the week aggregated 1,239,000 bu; last year, 353,000 bu. Argentine shipments for the week were 714,000 bu. Liverpool cables were ⅜@½d off. Sample prices were unchanged to ½c off, with shipping sales of 125,000 bu. Outside markets generally were firm with the exception of Omaha, which was ⅛@1c off, and Kansas City wired that Omaha was offering corn freely.

Oats Futures Are Firm.

Oats were firm all through the session, the weakness early in corn and wheat not having much effect. Last prices for the day were unchanged to ⅛c up. Wet weather was a bull factor, but indications are for clearing conditions. A small oats acreage is expected unless there is good weather the next two weeks. Cash prices were weak, ¼@¾c off for good oats and 1@2c for other grades. Shipping sales were 135,000 bu. Receipts were 116 cars, with 117 cars inspected yesterday. Western arrivals were 539,000 bu, against 328,000 bu a year ago. Argentina shipped 2,400,000 bu the last week.

Hog Report Is Bullish.

Provisions were higher. The government report showing a big loss in hogs by disease the last year, 110 per thousand, owing to a mistake was not given out here, but was received via New York, and only a few traders were aware it had been given out. The condition of hogs was placed at 91, and the number of breeding sows 99 per cent of last year. Receipts of hogs were 14,000, with 8,000 the estimate for today. Western receipts were 36,000, against 41,000 a year ago. Cash offerings were moderate and the demand was fairly active. Receipts of products here were 13 cars and shipments were 73 cars.

Rye Continues Firm.

Barley was firm, with malting 52@69c; feed, 43@48c, and screenings, 18@44c. Receipts, 32 cars.

Timothy seed was steady at $2.75@3.50 for cash lots, while clover held firm at $15.00@21.00 for cash lots.

Duluth flax closed ⅛c higher to ½c lower, with cash on track and May $1.28¼; July, $1.30½; September, $1.32¼. Receipts, 2 cars. Minneapolis was ⅛c lower at $1.28¾ for cash on track. Receipts, 25 cars. Winnipeg closed ⅝@1c lower at $1.13½ for May and $1.16 for July. Receipts, 62 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

"Since issuing my summary of crop conditions throughout the south and southwestern states for March 24 I have just completed a trip through Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan," said John Inglis in a report to Logan-Bryan. "Grave fears were entertained that the recent disastrous floods would have damaged an extensive area. The flood came suddenly, and while many wheat fields were submerged, water receded quickly, leaving the wheat as fresh and green as before. As most of the wheat is on the second bottoms, the loss was much less than anticipated excepting in some instances along the larger rivers such as the Ohio and the Wabash, where some silt was deposited on the lowest bottoms. The smaller inland streams left no deposit on the fields. Cool weather following the flood was beneficial, as soil had no chance to bake and can be cultivated in ample time for the coming crop."

There has been a moderate business in Duluth No. 1 northwest for a week or more for the opening of navigation shipment, and also in some cases for a little later shipment. Exporters were again in the market here for hard winter wheat, and sales of 50,000 bu were reported, and there were rumors of more business being done. Total sales here were about 100,000 bu, including sales to the mills. Minneapolis reported an advance of ½c in the premium for No. 1 northern wheat, blue stem being ⅝@1½c over the May, with a good demand. Flour trade in the northwest continues dull.

Investigation by the market report committee of the board of trade leads to the conclusion that the government issued the live stock report after yesterday's close, but owing to a misunderstanding in the office of the market report committee the telegraph companies did not deliver it to the board of trade until about noontime today. In the meantime eastern and European news bureaus were aware of the issuance of the report, but no western news bureau seems to have had it until yesterday.

Indications now point to the opening of navigation about April 20, according to advices received from Duluth yesterday. Duluth is still icebound, and until there is a strong west wind it will be some time before the harbor is cleared. Tugs are still unable to move. The Canadian government has kept the channels clear of ice at Port Arthur and Fort William the past winter, and as soon as word is received from the straits that the passage is clear boats will clear immediately from the Canadian ports.

Modern Miller crop summary says: "Only a few adverse reports received in regard to winter wheat. There will not be much abandoned acreage. Only state reporting much damage is Michigan, aside from the overflowed land in Indiana Ohio, Illinois, and Missouri, where quite a little wheat has been drowned out. General perfect stand is reported, with plant well rooted and with more than ordinary stooling. Soil conditions favorable for rapid growth with warm weather."

Government figures on live stock for the year ending April 1, 1913, show hog losses from disease 110 per 1,000—a total of 6,736,000, against 5,884,000 reported one year ago. Health condition, 91; breeding sows, 99 per cent of those reported a year ago. Cattle losses from disease, 20½; from exposure, 14 per 1,000. Condition, 96. Sheep condition, 96.

Indian shipments of wheat this week were 280,000 bu, against 264,000 bu last week and 280,000 bu a year ago. Australian exports were 1,648,000 bu, against 1,888,000 bu last week and 912,000 bu a year ago.

Argentine shipments of wheat this week totaled 6,096,000 bu, showing a decrease of 936,000 bu. Corn exports increased 197,000 bu and were 714,000 bu, while flax shipments were 1,523,000 bu, an increase of 1,268,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	Wheat.	Corn.	Flax.
Last week	7,032,000	527,000	255,000

Year ago	28,664,000	359,000	6,423,000

Bradstreet's reported exports of wheat and flour from both coasts this week at 4,190,000 bu, an increase of 109,000 bu. Corn exports were placed at 1,239,000 bu, decreasing 670,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	Wheat and flour.	Corn.
Last week	4,081,000	1,909,000
Last year	2,615,000	358,000
Since July 1	188,005,000	35,088,000

Cash corn was weak and unchanged to ½c lower for prices. The demand was moderate. Oats were weak and ¼@¾c off for good oats and 1@2c lower for poor grades. Offerings were larger and the demand was slow. Peoria cash corn was higher and there was also a sharp advance in spot corn prices at St. Louis. Sales for shipment here were 125,000 bu corn and 145,000 bu oats.

The weekly Iowa crop report said: "Planting and seeding has become general throughout Iowa, with soil in fine physical condition. Fall grains and grasses, as well as live stock and fruit trees, wintered well and in excellent shape. Acreage of winter wheat somewhat greater than acreage harvested last year."

Argentine visible supply of wheat this week increased 802,000 bu. Corn was 1,020,000 bu, the same as last week. Comparative totals follow:

	This week.	Last week.	Last year.
Wheat	8,832,000	8,080,000	5,552,000
Corn	1,020,000	1,020,000	1,012,000

Duluth wired: "Eastern demand for Duluth wheat is very dull; every one is interested in the probable opening of lake navigation. The weather is not as warm as we should like to see it, and conditions are not so favorable for an early opening as they were some time ago."

Reports from the northwest indicated better weather conditions and seeding has been resumed at many points in the Red river valley and elsewhere. By Monday it is expected seeding will again be general if weather conditions are favorable.

John Geltmacher says of provisions: "We have been bulling hog stuff since last fall on this shortage, resulting in product being 28 per cent higher than last year. Looks like enough sows left to build up material on and increased weight will help some."

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were ⅛c higher to ⅜c lower; corn, ¼@½c higher; oats steady to ⅜c higher; rye, ½@1c higher.

Frank Woodlock of St. Louis was a visitor on change yesterday. He reported crop conditions in the southwest were perfect.

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 60,000 bu for the week and Duluth wheat stocks gained 150,000 bu.

SALES FOR FUTURE DELIVERY NORMAL IN DRY GOODS TRADE.

Marshall Field & Co. Say in Review General Business Is on Satisfactory Basis—Season's Novelties Appearing.

"General trade in dry goods during the week has proceeded normally with sales for future delivery forging ahead on a satisfactory basis. The season's novelties are appearing, prominent among which is black velvet ribbon for millinery and trimming, in widths from two and a half to six inches. Laces for underwear are also coming into vogue. Undergarments made entirely of laces are fashionable and reorders indicate that this will be a good lace season.

"Blanket and bedding stocks have become much depleted in supplying the needs of the flooded districts.

"Anticipation of large demand for women's and misses' coats in pile fabrics is being realized in sales, especially Arabian lamb cloth, Ural lamb, and Astrakhan in black, blue and brown. There is also evidence of another big season in plush coats. Very few mills in the country are equipped to make these fabrics as they should be made and the slow process of manufacturing is bound to cause a scarcity. Already some of the leading mills have absolutely withdrawn their lines and will book no more orders at any price."

CHICAGO STOCKS SHOW WEAKNESS

Sears-Roebuck Common Leads Downward Movement with Drop of Two Points.

EDISON SHARES DECLINE.

Local stocks were generally weak yesterday. Sears-Roebuck common led, with a decline of 2 points, closing at 186. During the last few days there has been a disposition to sell these shares.

Commonwealth Edison was off, presumably on the attitude of the city administration, which is reported as intending to reduce the estimated value of the property by $15,000,000. This would result in lower prices for current.

American Can shares fell away a point and a quarter for the common. The preferred closed fractionally below the opening price. Chicago Pneumatic Tool was firm. Swift & Co. shares were fairly steady.

Chicago Railways Issue Lower.

Chicago Railways issues were fractionally lower. Montgomery Ward preferred was steady.

In the bond department Chicago City Railway 5s and Chicago Railways 5s sold around the low quotation. Inasmuch as each issue is covered by a value in excess of the face of the bonds, and in this particular guaranteed by the City of Chicago, current prices seem to reflect a securities situation rather than any other consideration. If a 5 per cent bond be good, then the first mortgage issues of the City Railway and the Chicago Railways are desirable.

Will Investigate Bag Management.

The announcement concerning the results of the annual meeting of stockholders of the Union Bag and Paper company, which announcement apparently originated with the management, was a trifle too rosy. Instead of the dissatisfied sharholders yielding entirely their contention, they only yielded a part and secured the adoption of the following resolution providing for an investigation:

"Resolved, That a committee of three stockholders, none connected with the selling agents or management of the company, be appointed by the president and make an independent investigation of the company's affairs, and that their report be printed and a copy sent to every stockholder, and that if a majority of stockholders request another meeting to consider such report the officers shall promptly call such meeting."

It is now announced that this committee will fully investigate the company's affairs and will make a thorough search for available men, who as members of the board of directors would benefit the company. President Barratt says he holds the resignation of five directors, and that as soon as litigation against the management is withdrawn these resignations will be accepted and the suggestion of stockholders as to men to fill their places be carried out.

Known Movements of Money.

Known movements of money for the week indicate the New York banks have gained net $4,425,000 cash in the operations with the country and subtreasury. They gained from the interior $6,982,000, but lost to the subtreasury $2,553,000.

Increase in Savings Deposits.

Savings deposits of the state banks of Chicago showed an approximate total on April 5 of $229,000,000. This compares with about $225,540,000 on Feb. 5.

Michigan Telephone.

Earnings of the Michigan Telephone company for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1912, showed a fair gain in gross, but a loss in net earnings from operation. The surplus for the year was but $404. Following is the income account:

	1912.	Increase.

*Decrease.

The common dividends paid in 1911 were at the rate of 7 per cent in 1912, three months at per cent and nine months at the rate of 6 per cent.

Inquiry for Consumers' Common.

Within the last few days there has been considerable inquiry for the common stock of the Consumers' company at a price around 42½. The Consumers was formed by the merging of the Knickerbocker Ice and City Fuel companies.

LATEST WALL STREET GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, April 11.—[Special.]—Wall street's flagging interest in the income tax bill was given a fillip by the expressed approval of the measure by Andrew Carnegie, who "believes in every citizen of the country bearing his share of taxation in proportion to his ability to do so." According to the superficial view these words came from a man who may have to surrender to the government a considerable sum of money each year, and a considerable part of which will come from the income derived from that portion of nearly $500,000,000 in United States Steel bonds not disposed of in various donations.

But people who have made a close inquiry into the matter declare the indenture under which these bonds were issued by the steel corporation exempts the holder from all taxes. If such, indeed, is the case it looks as if the steel corporation will find itself liable for an income tax which would otherwise fall on the bondholders.

The prolonged decline in prices of the standard railway bonds had the effect of preparing the market for the unexpected announcement of the St. Paul's long term issue bearing the high interest rate of 4½ per cent. But a comparison of the income yield on other bonds of the savings bank class at present quotations shows that this group of bonds will have to decline several points further before they become as attractive as the new 4½ per cent issue. The St. Paul bond apparently is to be brought out on a 4½ per cent basis.

It is figured the yield at present prices on the Louisville and Nashville 4s is 4.34 per cent, the Atchison general 4s 4.22 per cent; Burlington 4s, 4.28 per cent; Central 3½s, 4.19 per cent; Northern Pacific 4s, 4.23 per cent; Reading general 4s 4.17 per cent, Southern Pacific refunding 4s, 4.48 per cent, and the Union Pacific first 4s, 4.18 per cent. Naturally, such a comparison makes it fairly obvious there would be an active subscription for the issue. The effect upon the bond market of the new departure by the St. Paul is watched with especial interest, because of a fairly general impression that it may act as a stimulus to the public appetite for securities, just as the Pennsylvania's issue of consolidated mortgage bonds did in 1908.

For months students of the monetary situation here and abroad have been talking of the extraordinary bargains that would be offered to investors in the present year in the shape of new security issues. The argument has been that as soon as the international money market became favorable there would be an extraordinary competition for the surplus capital, which would result, temporarily at least, in unprecedented bargains to the investor.

It is suggested that this week has witnessed the beginning of the rush of applications to the loan market by our own railroad companies. Institutions and individuals who have placed credence in this theory have undoubtedly prepared themselves against this period by keeping as large a supply of liquid capital on hand as has been possible.

The prosperity of the car equipment companies is so intimately connected with the financial operations of the railroads that it was inevitable that the new railway financing should be made the basis of hopes of better things for the equipment concerns. A director of one of the largest of these concerns was quoted today as follows:

"There is no question that the equipment companies of the country are selling into a partial vacuum. In the last five years there have been but two in which the number of freight cars constructed by all makers has gone above 100,000, compared with an average of 200,000 for the three previous years. In fact, since 1908 the number of freight cars on American railways has increased but 96,000.

"In other words, since 1908 the roads of this country have purchased but 96,000 cars more than the absolute number required to take the place of the constant stream going into the scrap heap. This is less than a 5 per cent increase, or but a mere trifle over 1 per cent per annum. Could the railways get the benefit of what is theirs by right of time and patience—a financing bond market—I am confident that the equipment companies as a class would enjoy a period of prosperity such as characterized 1906 and 1907."

...on official notice of issuance and payment in full, making the total amount authorized to be listed $13,650,000.

State of New York, $1,593,000 4 per cent bonds issued for the construction of barge canal terminals; due 1942, making the total amount listed to date $5,000,000.

Financial News Notes.

Application has been received by the controller of the currency for a charter to organize the Fithian National bank of Fithian, Ill., with a capital of $25,000. Thomas Hart is given as correspondent, Fithian and J. Mason, W. C. Youmans, J. K. Sward, and L. Smoot directors.

The report of the Rio Tinto company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1912, shows net profits of £2,000,702, being an increase of £940,973. The surplus after dividends and bringing forward the surplus of the previous year was £194,596.

Effingham B. Morris, chairman of the board of the Cambria Steel company, announces the intention of the company to pay off on May 1 $2,000,000 notes issued two years ago, and also $800,000 of notes of the Manufacturers' Water company. Payments will be made from surplus funds of the company.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, April 11.—Money was in better supply and discount rates were easy today. The stock market was cheerful with marked strength. Consols advanced nine-sixteenths on the weaker discounts and the better political outlook, strengthening the belief in an early reduction in the bank rate. Reinvestment of dividend money helped gilt-edged securities and home rails, while foreign rails and copper stocks were steadily supported. Diamond shares were weak feature on fears of a falling off in the American demand for diamonds with a higher tariff. The settlement was concluded satisfactorily. American securities opened steady and a fraction higher. Fair buying orders were executed during the forenoon and the list advanced from ¼ to 1½ points over parity. Wall street offerings caused a reaction in the early afternoon, but in the late trading the market partly recovered on repurchases and the closing was steadier.

NEW YORK STOCKS DEFINITELY WEAK

NEW ISSUES SHUNNED

Corporation Stocks and Bonds Especially Under Pressure; Banks Gain Cash.

New York, April 11.—The trend of prices became more definitely downward on the stock exchange today. Traders appeared to be feeling their way in the hesitating manner which has characterized dealings all through the week, but the occasional upturns of the last few days were missing today, and the undertone was consistently heavy. Union Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Amalgamated, and Steel in particular were depressed, and in common with other important issues were forced down 1 to 2 points. New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio touched new low prices for the year.

It was noticeable that stock of corporations which have put out new issues of securities or are believed to be contemplating such action, were especially susceptible to pressure.

New Bond Issues Under Pressure.

The same forces were at work in the bond market. A rumor that a new issue of New York City bonds was to be brought out was sufficient to depress two of the outstanding issues to new low prices. The large output of securities of the week and reports that many other flotations are pending both at home and abroad, constituted perhaps the most direct influence in depressing the market.

A good deal of attention was given to the probable effect of such offerings on the money market, and in some quarters there was a disposition to look for renewed tension if applications for new capital pile up at a time when the market has on hand the leftover offerings from previous undertakings.

Banks Show Gains in Cash.

Surveys of the week's currency movements indicated a cash gain for the banks which have lost less on subtreasury operations on account of cessation of heavy shipments to the interior for relief of the storm and flood sufferers. A gain of $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 was indicated.

The general movement of the bond market was downward, with considerable weakness in some issues. Total sales, par value, $2,405,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call easier, 3@3½ per cent; ruling rate, 3½; closing bid, 3; offered at 3½. Time loans steady; 60 days, 4½@4¾ per cent; 90 days, 4¾; six months, 4¾. Prime mercantile paper, 5½@6 per cent. Sterling exchange heavy, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8315 for 60 day bills and at 4.8680 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.82¾. Bar silver, 60. Mexican dollars, 48. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds heavy.

CROSS CURRENTS IN TRADE FAIL TO IMPAIR INDUSTRIES.

Dun's Review, published today by R. G. Dun & Co., will say:

"While the course of trade is not devoid of cross currents and aggregate new demands upon the leading industries are less imposing, the fundamental basis is unimpaired and the buying power gathers strength from more satisfactory conditions in money and sustained agricultural outlook of excellent promise. Bank statements this week testified to enlarged use of funds in business. Payments through the usual exchanges again exhibit substantial gains, and trading defaults reflect less commercial mortality than at this time in two previous years.

"Disturbances due to the floods are slowly overcome, and although credits occasion much special inquiry, the spring activities broaden seasonally. Heavy productive interests are feeling the effects of disorganized car service and scarcity of basic material. Iron and steel outputs, however, run notably higher than at this time last year. Inquiries for distant deliveries have become more numerous in moderate tonnages and there is sharp demand for prompt shipments required for railroad and other repairs and replacement.

"The restoration of transportation facilities apparently will not be long delayed or as costly as feared. Gross earnings of the Chicago systems show little change, and car loadings continue unusually high, notwithstanding much decline in crop marketings.

"Bank clearings, $303,774,526, exceed those of the corresponding week last year by 8.7 per cent, and compare with $270,873,987 in 1911. Failures reported in the Chicago district numbered 28, against 33 last week, 34 in 1912, and 29 in 1911. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 7, against 12 last week, 8 in 1912, and 19 in 1911."

BUTTER AND EGGS ON LOWER LEVELS

Lower prices were made in the market for butter and eggs at Chicago yesterday, accumulating supplies, because of insufficient buying demand, causing the weakness. Receipts were generous, 23,350 cases of eggs and 5,213 tubs of butter, while the inquiry was confined to local channels, outside points being supplied from stocks nearer home.

Predictions of cold and stormy weather to come and a falling off in receipts had a strengthening influence on the market for potatoes and prices averaged firm to 1c higher. Arrivals were 65 cars and the trade was active at 38@46c a bushel.

Poultry values held stationary. Demand was good, with retailers the best buyers, but receipts of 3 cars by freight and 685 coops by express sufficed for all needs.

Receipts of strawberries aggregated about 18 cars and prices averaged 25c a case lower. Demand was active, with principal sales at $1.75@2.00 for 24 pint cases.

HOW TO INVEST

Always consider the safety of your principal first, remembering that large interest return is always accompanied by possibility of large loss. First Mortgages on rich, producing farms in the "Corn Belt" of Illinois are safe. The underlying security is readily salable for more than three times the amount loaned. Never a cent's loss to investors in our 55 years selling such securities. Write for List No. 239.

DEARTH OF HOGS SENDS PRICES UP

CATTLE TRADE STAGNANT.

Hog prices at Chicago yesterday were given an upward boost of 10c and averaged at $9.22, against $9.14 Thursday. A top of $9.37½ was made and the trade was active, with shippers taking 3,000 head and packers 8,700 head. The government report showed losses of swine during the year to have been 110.1 per thousand, compared with 89.2 last year and a ten year average of 54.9. Cholera was held responsible for about 90 per cent of the loss, which figures approximately 6,736,000 hogs, valued at $66,417,000. Hogs are healthier this year, the condition being 91.4 per cent normal, compared with 89.9 per cent last year. The number of breeding sows April 1 was placed at 99 per cent of the number held a year ago and 90.5 per cent of the number two years ago.

Beef cattle trade was slow and weak, with prices largely 10c lower than on Thursday. Receipts were only 1,000 head, but there were no outside orders and local requirements were limited. The government report made the loss from disease during the year 20.5 per thousand, against 21.6 last year, and a ten year average of 20.8.

Sheep and lambs sold at steady prices, with receipts of only 5,000 head. Sheep losses for the year were placed at 24.6 per thousand, against 26.6 last year, and a ten year average of 25.5 per thousand.
